Another Lindbergh Day.
Rockefeller's Idea.
Don't Be a Dim Bulb.

HODGE, Cal., Dec. 15.

LINDBERGH, world's champion flier, landed in Mexico City yesterday, notifies the world that young men in this country know how to fly, in spite of the fact that their government does not yet realize the importance of flying. The news of his latest triumph delights the scattered population of this Mojave desert, as it does great crowds in cities.

OTHER governments, knowing that Lindbergh is typical of American youth, and that there are 10,000 Lindberghs ready to run American machines, will want none of our non-stop flights aimed in their direction with hostile intent, and will avoid provoking such flights.

LINDBERGH'S flying example is making converts here in California rapidly. J. L. Stack, who used to play polo and follow the hounds at Chicago's Onwentsia club, before he was 50, has bought a duplicate of Lindbergh's plane arranged to carry five, and uses it commuting from Los Angeles to his shooting lodge near Sacramento with his 11-year-old son, two friends and a pilot. He makes the 500-mile trip in about five hours.

Other men, giving up polo, should "retire" to a flying machine, not to an easy chair, and encourage aviation. Every builder of a fast plane renders a service to his country.

THE United States Gypsum Company, with offices in 20 cities and 22 mines and mills in 15 states, has this good idea. All headquarters managers devote two hours, from 9 to 11 a. m., to "concentration." They allow no interruption except in emergencies. From 11 to 5 they see subordinates and business visitors generally. Each manager has at least two hours a day for real thinking.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER had that idea many years ago. One of his local managers, pointing proudly to a desk loaded down with papers, said to him, "a lot of detail, but I shall get through it all by night." Mr. Rockefeller, quoting that, said to his directors, "I want all important managers in our organization to sit with their feet upon clear desks, thinking how they can make more money for Standard Oil." They made it, with Rockefeller's direction, and now he spends it usefully, fighting disease and ignorance.

To get ahead remember that thinking comes first. The rest is secondary.

LEARNED professors in the University of Southern California say that slang, within reason, is good. It makes students select their expressions instead of using them automatically. To call your friend a "dim bulb" is better than saying to your brother "thou fool" and it means the same. Use of slang "makes a dent in the brain" and causes thought, says one professor. It also takes the place of thought, but that is too long an argument.

LANGUAGE that is now "highbrow" was once slang. The first man to call his friend "sincere," which means in Latin "without wax," or "pure honey," used "dim bulb" language. Slang says that a man with an easy job, "has it soft." The ancient that invented "sinecure," meaning "without care," talked about the same language.

BUT young people should remember that today's raw slang will not be good English while they live. Youth is the time for acquiring a good vocabulary. A "fine line of chin goods" will not take its place, in real life. Words, well chosen, are the tools with which the

MEXICO CHEERS, FETES LINDY

By International News Service.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will fly back to the United States. This time he will make the journey between the two countries in several hops.

These plans were announced today by the "Lone Eagle," who has become the idol of Mexico, virtually every city having set up a clamor to see the famous American flier.

UNDECIDED ON CUBA

The trip to Cuba is still to be decided upon. If he makes it, Col. Lindbergh said, it would probably be made out of Washington. He said he had not decided "yet."

Cheered by crowds that gathered in the streets everywhere that he passed, Lindbergh this morning paid an official call upon President Calles, who again felicitated him upon his brilliant flight.

The American air hero made a series of official visits with American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and then went out to the Valbuena Air Field to see his beloved Spirit of St. Louis with which he has gained such world-wide fame.

Everywhere that he went the boyish-looking smiling good will ambassador was greeted joyfully by Mexico's citizens into whose hearts he has completely won his way.

DOESN'T DRINK

When champagne was served at the foreign office, officials proposed a toast to good relations between the United States and Mexico. Col. Lindbergh, just as he did in Paris, courteously lifted the glass to his lips and went through the gesture of sipping without drinking any of the liquor.

A special embassy staff recruited today was necessary to handle the flier's telegrams.

When the flying colonel finally descended from the blue and landed gracefully at Valbuena Field, literally millions of persons were relieved of a fear that he suffered an accident. For, according to the time limit he

ORPHANAGE BURNS, 23 PERISH

By International News Service.

QUEBEC, Quebec, Dec. 15.—The historic walls of the Convent of St. Charles, on the picturesque Avenue De la Courone in lower Quebec, today saw the climax to its century of death and plague when 23 children were known to have perished in a swift rush of fire that left the famous structure in ruins.

Fifty more little girls are reported missing by Sister Marine De Adeline, who revealed today that the entire floor where they slept, was cut off by the first rush of flames.

A fortress sheltering soldiers and sailors in 1832, and the scene of 800 cholera dead in 1847, the rambling structure that for the last 75 years has housed orphans and child students, early this morning went up in a searing blast of fire that plunged

Rolling Pin Slayer Is Paroled

Mrs. Roxie B. Mumford, 42, of Metropolitan street, North Side, was released from the county jail today after serving about three months of a term of two to four years for killing her husband, Joseph B. Mumford, 52, with a rolling pin. Her release was allowed by Visiting Judge William T. Barr of Brookville, on petition of her counsel, J. Howard Devlin, for a parole. It was stated that evidence that she, an epileptic, had been subjected to beatings by her husband was discovered after the trial.

Mrs. Mumford, tried for murder, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter. The killing occurred on the evening of last Easter Sunday during a drinking party at the home of the couple. She declared it had been done in self defense. A feature of the trial was the appearance in the courtroom of another woman who claimed the dead man as her husband.

Remus Sane On Day of Slaying

By International News Service.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, Dec. 15.—George Remus was sane on last October 6, when he shot and killed his wife, Imogene, the three alienists appointed by Judge Chester R. Shook to study the defendant's mental condition said was their opinion, in a report submitted to the court today.

The text of the report was withheld, while attorneys made arguments with reference to it, the judge merely stating that the alienists' verdict was that Remus was sane.

LADDER SLIPS, BREAKS SHOULDER IN FALL

When a ladder resting on a stairway slipped while he was papering the hallway at 306 South St. Clair street today, Nicholas Schneider, 66, 1027 Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, fell, suffering a fractured right shoulder, injuries to his spine and cuts. He was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

LINDY REPORTED LANDED HOURS BEFORE HE DID

Hours before Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had reached Mexico City yesterday he was reported in five different bulletins from news services serving The Sun-Telegraph as having landed there. All proved erroneous and were denied later. Most of the bulletins were based upon the fact that a commercial plane had been mistaken for the "Spirit of St. Louis."

The Press today says The Sun-Telegraph "faked" and "bilked" its readers by printing the premature and incorrect report which appeared in a few hundred papers. A news service mistake that was corrected less than 10 minutes after it was made, was responsible. But it was an honest mistake, made only after receipt of what appeared to be absolutely authentic news bulletins.

The Sun-Telegraph receives all the great news service reports, including the International News Service, Associated Press and United Press. The Press receives only one, and that one is remembered in newspaper offices the world over as having been responsible for the fake armistice celebration of November 7, 1918, four days before the Armistice was signed.

In the House of Representatives at Washington yesterday afternoon one of the many erroneous reports of his arrival was read and the House voted to wire premature congratulations to Lindbergh.

At 12:08 Washington Army Signal Corps reported Lindy had landed at 11:55.

At 12:25 the Army radio station at San Antonio, Tex., reported that Lindy had arrived at his destination.

At 1 o'clock the Western Union in New York reported his arrival.

At 1:04 the Mexican consular offices at Laredo, Tex., reported Lindy had arrived at Mexico City.

At 1:11 a Mexico bulletin announced Lindy's arrival at 11:24, Mexican time.

Lindbergh arrived at Mexico City at 2:39 (3:39 Eastern Standard Time.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The searchlight of a Senate investigation was thrown today on the amazing series of documents published in the Hearst newspapers, purporting to have come from the secret archives of Mexico, which revealed, among other things, that Mexican authorities appropriated more than a million dollars and sent it to its representatives in this country "for delivery" to four United States senators.

William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the 26 Hearst newspapers, told the Senate investigating committee how the documents came into his possession and declared he did not believe that any of the senators named in the documents had ever received a dollar of the money ap-

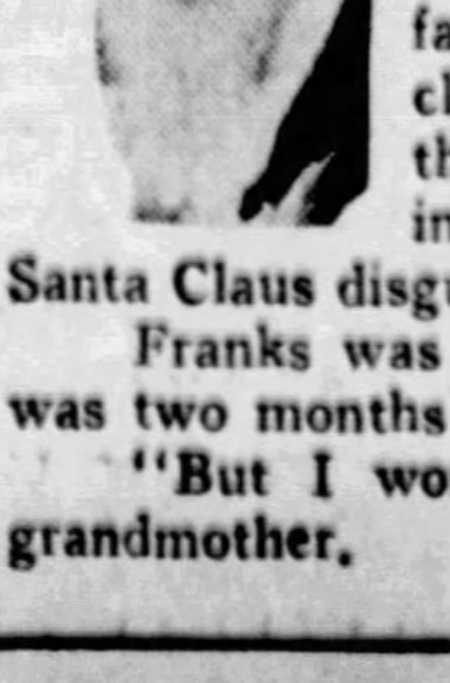
Tot's Plea Brings Santa Home to Wife, Children

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—An aged woman with two poorly clad children made her way along crowded State street yesterday. Suddenly Harry, 5, and Lorraine, 3, stopped before a Santa Claus.



"We want some warm clothes," whispered Harry into Santa's ear. "And some toys. We want to see our daddy, too."

As they passed on, a policeman thought he saw Santa Claus wipe away tears.

Two hours later, in the Domestic Relations Court, the children flew into their father's arms and joyously unwrapped new clothes and toys. They left presently with their grandmother, Mrs. Marjorie Van, and in an anteroom Harry Franks donned his Santa Claus disguise and went back to State street.

Franks was divorced some time ago by his wife and was two months behind in his alimony payments.

"But I won't desert them again," he assured the grandmother.

Hurling sarcastic and personal charges at each other, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock and County Controller Charles C. Mt. Oliver Man Tells Why He Wants Job of Killing Velma West

FLOYD J. B. KEMERER

Floyd J. B. Kemerer, 121 Penn avenue, Mt. Oliver, who asked Gov. Vic Donahey of Ohio for the privilege of electrocuting Mrs. Velma West, Painesville, charged with killing her husband with a hammer, reiterated his desire today.

Soft-spoken and apparently of gentle disposition, he begged a Sun-Telegraph reporter, who for a moment, he mistook for a representative of Gov. Donahey, to be allowed to throw the switch by which he hopes she will expiate her crime. "I know what that poor devil West went through," he said.

"This maudlin sentimentality which prevents women getting the same punishment as men sickens me," he added. "A 'she-devil' is more cruel, more vindictive and more capable of making life an inferno than any man who ever lived."

Kemerer is an inspector for a local steel concern. He has been employed there for five years, since his discharge from the United States Army.

NATION DENIES MEXICAN PLOT COMPLICITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The Nation, a weekly publication, announced today that in this week's issue it will reproduce, on its front cover, a photostatic copy of one of the Mexican documents published recently in the New York American and associated Hearst newspapers.

In an accompanying article, according to the announcement, the Nation will assert that it (The Nation) was one of the publications referred to in the documents published in the Heart newspapers. The Nation states that the reference to it was contained in one of the facsimiles from which the papers had blocked out the name of the publication in question.

QUESTIONS DELETION

The Nation asks the Hearst papers why the names were deleted, and suggests that they now publish the names of another publication and a newspaper syndicate which were also blocked out in the facsimiles published. The document to which The Nation refers was one published in the Hearst papers on December 2, showing that the Mexican government had authorized the expenditure of $22,000 (twenty-two thousand) to a publication "as payment of subscriptions and propaganda in favor of the government of Mexico," and this referred, The Nation states, to The Nation and to Oswald Garrison Villard, its editor.

The Nation's article will deny that such a payment was made, and will express a hope that the present senatorial investigation will inquire into this phase of the question.

HEARST DOUBTS MONEY PAID TO SENATORS

propriated in Mexico for ostensible delivery to the senators,

Gives Expose Reasons

In fact, Mr. Hearst asserted, he was inclined to the same conclusion that President Coolidge was said to have suggested when the matter was brought to his attention—that the appropriations went to enrich the pockets of Mexican officialdom rather than any Americans. Nevertheless, the publisher said, he was so impressed with the authenticity of the documents and the importance of the matter that he decided to publish the documents to afford Congress the opportunity to go to the bottom of it. The publisher turned over to the committee the whole series of documents published in his newspapers, and the committee promptly made public the names of the senators named in the Mexican documents.

The Mexican inquiry came before the Senate when Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, secured adoption of a resolution appropriating $25,000 for the investigation committee. The fund was authorized by unanimous consent.

Three of the senators—Heflin (Dem.) of Alabama, La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin and Borah (Rep.) of Idaho—were called to the witness stand as soon as Mr. Hearst left it, and they denied vigorously that they had ever received any money from the Mexican government.

All declared they never had been approached by Mexican representatives or by anyone else.

The fourth Senator named in the documents was Senator George W. Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, who is ill and was not present.

"I think it's unnecessary to take Senator Norris' statement in this matter, but I think his denial should go out at the same time," said Senator Johnson (Rep.) of California, a member of the committee.

Johnson was appointed to take a stenographer and obtain Norris' statement.

All Deny Guilt

All the senators named not only denied with some heat that they had ever received any Mexican money, but they expressed warm indignation that their names should have been mentioned in connection with any such charges.

There was laughter in the committee room as the amounts named in the documents for each Senator were read aloud—$500,00 to Senator Borah, $350,000 to Senator Heflin, $350,000 to Senator Norris, and $15,000 to Senator La Follette.

In the documents turned over to the committee by the publisher, Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the port of New York, was named as the intermediary for the Mexican government in the affair. One of the documents was a letter from Arturo Elias, Mexican financial agent in New York, to President Calles, in which it was stated that Elias had turned the money over to Malone.

Malone followed the Senators to the stand and denied with vigor that he had ever handled any money for the Mexican government.

At the conclusion of the senatorial denials members of the investigating committee—Senators Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania; Johnson (Rep.) of California; Jones (Rep.) of Washington; Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland, and Robinson (Dem.) of Arkansas, joined with each other in assuring their colleagues and the public that they entertained no doubt whatever of their innocence in the matter. And they all expressed regret that their names should have been mentioned.

Want Full Probe

All of the Senators whose names appeared in the Mexican correspondence insisted that the committee should "go to the bottom" in its investigation concerning the authenticity of the documents.

Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, whose statement was taken by Senator Johnson because illness prevented him from appearing in person before the committee, declared:

"There's nothing to it so far as I'm concerned.

"I don't know Mr. Elias (Arturo Elias, Mexican fiscal agent at New York) and I never have been approached by anybody representing him," said the Nebraskan.

"I have never received any money or any emoluments or anything of value from anybody in connection with Mexico. I never even had any intimation that anybody contemplated offering me any. If I had been offered anything the public would have heard about it without waiting for Mr. Hearst to publish it.

"It seems now that the duty of the committee is to go to the bottom of this matter, particularly in tracing the source of these documents.

"If any of the documents are authentic, then the government of Mexico is guilty of an offense that cannot be described in words. If they are false, then the persons who perpetrated this on the public, blackening the characters of American and Mexican officials alike, deserve exposure and punishment to the fullest extent of the law."

After the conclusion of the morning session Senator Reed issued a subpena for the appearance of John F. Maragon, a former Department of Justice agent at New Orleans, who conducted an investigation of Elias' activities in this country four years ago.

The hearing started shortly after 10 o'clock in a committee room filled with witnesses and spectators.

Hearst on Stand

William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the 26 Hearst newspapers, was the first witness. Mr. Hearst was sworn and gave his occupation as a journalist.

Reed asked the publisher whether he had the documents published in the Washington Herald and other Hearst papers, relating to Mexican charges.

"I think I have the originals," said Mr. Hearst.

"Will you turn them over to the committee?"

"Yes," responded Mr. Hearst, handing Reed a bulky envelope which Reed placed on the table in front of him.

Reed asked the publisher what method had been pursued in decoding some of the documents, which were in Mexican government code. Mr. Hearst replied that he was unable to decode them, but would have other witnesses who would.

"How did these documents first come to your attention?" asked Reed.

"Mystery Man"

Mr. Hearst replied that he would be glad to tell provided he could refer to "one man" without mentioning his name. He explained that to mention this name might cause considerable embarrassment to the man in question, as he was still in business in Mexico. Reed asked for the name "privately" and Mr. Hearst wrote it out on a slip of paper and gave it to the committee.

"This gentleman was in Mexico and he learned there were documents in the Mexican archives that indicated undue interference in the affairs of the United States," said Mr. Hearst. "He communicated that to Edward Clark, the executor of my mother's estate, by letter."

"What happened then?"

"There were several letters regarding the importance of these documents," said Mr. Hearst. "He said he could get these documents for a small sum and I authorized an expenditure $1,000."

The unnamed man, accompanied by John Page, a Hearst correspondent, brought the documents to him, the publisher said. He found the documents were "originals," although he had expected only copies.

"The documents seemed of tremendous importance," said Mr. Hearst. "I think they said they had submitted the documents to Ambassador Sheffield and that he believed they were authentic. They had also submitted the documents to the counsellor of the embassy and that he had thought them authentic."

Mr. Hearst said that two Mexican government clerks had actually brought the documents out of Mexico.

They were brought out, Mr. Hearst said, in two bundles. The second bundle, the publisher said, was delivered to his representatives in San Antonio.

Offered Coolidge Letters

"After you got this second bundle at San Antonio, what did you do?"

"The situation was increasingly serious because these documents affected the Nicaraguan situation and other matters," said Mr. Hearst. "I pondered what to do with them. I sent Mr. Clark with them out to the President at his summer home, but the President did not wish to become acquainted with them."

Questioned specifically about the documents relating to Senators, Mr. Hearst said he was convinced the money had never been paid to the Senators. He said his employes had made an investigation to ascertain whether the money had been forwarded from Mexico to New York City, but without success.

"Have you any reason to believe that any Senators accepted this money?"

"I have no reason to believe it at all," Mr. Hearst replied. "On the contrary, I believe they did not get it."

"Have you any evidence to indicate the Senators knew anything at all about these documents?"

"Nothing at all."

"How much in all did you pay for these documents?" asked Reed.

"About $15,000 or $16,000, I think," said Mr. Hearst.

Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, took up the questioning. He asked Mr. Hearst about his Mexican holdings.

"You have some holdings in Mexico, haven't you?" asked Robinson.

"I think I have," the publisher said, smiling. "I have some ranches and some mines."

Tells of Holdings

Mr. Hearst said he could not describe the properties, but he estimated their worth at "around three or four million dollars."

Robinson next asked whether Mr. Hearst knew that President Calles had denounced the documents as forgeries.

"Yes, and I knew under what conditions he issued the statement," the publisher said, pointing out that the statement denied the existence of the documents.

Robinson touched on the "grammatical errors" in the documents and Mr. Hearst explained them by saying "many of the Mexican government clerks are often not even graduates of the high schools of Mexico."

Mr. Hearst explained that the deletions of the Senators' names in the published documents by saying he did not believe that any Senators got any money. Still, he considered the revelations of sufficient importance that they should be given Congress and afford Congress an opportunity, if it so desired, to investigate.

In fact, Mr. Hearst said, he reached the "conclusion that Mr. Clark said the President had ventured"—that the appropriations were made from the Mexican Treasury "as a blind" to enrich others, presumably Mexican authorities.

"One of your reasons in publishing these documents was to provoke a congressional investigation?"

"Yes."

"You wanted a congressional committee to publish the names you were unwilling to publish?"

"Yes, if they so desired."

"Did you give any consideration to the liabilities for libel if you published the names?"

"I don't know—I didn't publish the names?"

Mr. Hearst said he would have published the names without regard for libel suits if he thought it necessary.

"It couldn't cost me any more than it has to publish these documents," said Mr. Hearst.

"What do you mean?"

"I think my properties are unsafe in Mexico."

"What was your object in publishing the documents?"

"I thought they were of extreme importance to the interests of our country," said Mr. Hearst. "I thought I had a certain obligation to publish this information to the country."

"That's all right," said Robinson.

Mr. Hearst was then excused and Senator Heflin (Dem.) of Alabama was called.

Heflin Named

Holding one of the documents in front of him, Senator Reed informed Heflin that he was one of the Senators named in the document as being the prospective recipient of $250,000.

"I don't know whether that amount was raised to be delivered to me or not," said Heflin, "but I do know it was never delivered to me, and that no representative of the Mexican government has ever approached me."

Heflin said he sometimes received expenses from "different American organizations for making my Mexican speech." The organizations included Protestant societies.

Reed then revealed that the documents purported to show that Dudley Field Malone was the financial agent of the Mexican government in the matter.

"He never did," said Heflin. "I wouldn't know him if I'd see him."

Heflin said he had intended to sponsor a resolution to investigate the Hearst articles.

"In the words of the Scriptures, 'An enemy hath done this,' and I shall have a good deal to say on the floor of the Senate about this," Heflin concluded demanding that the "crooks and scoundrels" be punished.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, was called next. Senator Reed explained that one of the documents referred to $15,000 being paid to "Senator R. M. L.," which are LaFollette's initials.

"Fraud," Says Bob

LaFollette demanded to be sworn when he took the stand. Reed asked him whether he had anything to say. The Wisconsinite spoke slowly.

"The attempt to link my name with the charges before this committee is an infamous and cowardly fraud," said "Young Bob." "I have never been approached either directly or indirectly by any person or persons in connection with the relations between the United States and Mexico.

"It seems to me the committee is under obligation to prosecute this investigation to the limit to the end that their authenticity may be esablished or their falsity proved. I am not unmindful of the fact that these charges appear in newspapers, published by Mr. William Randolph Hearst and his various corporations, and I am not unmindful of the fact that his newspapers have been supporters of the present administration and I also am not unmindful of the fact that I have been—in the Senate and in my magazine—a bitter opponent of the administration's policy. This dastardly attack will not cause me to deviate by a hair's breadth from the course I have laid down for myself on the attitude of this government toward Mexico."

"Did you ever receive any of this money," asked Senator Bruce (D) of Maryland.

"I never received any money, things of value or rewards," said La Follette.

La Follette was excused after he told of having urged an investigation of the Hearst documents before he learned his name was mentioned in them.

Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, was the next witness. He took the oath as La Follette had. Senator Reed then read from the purported ledger account of the Mexican government, indicating that $1,215,000 had been paid out.

Crowd Amused

"Of this sum it purports to show that $500,000 was taken out of the Mexican treasury for the purpose of being paid to Senator William E. Borah," said Reed, while the crowd laughed.

"In March, 1927, another entry shows that $100,000 was withdrawn for the purpose of paying it to you. Have you anything to say?"

Borah said that a newspaperman named R. N. McFarland had told him of the documents. "He told me that among these documents was one indicating that money was paid to me," said Borah. "I thought nothing about it until this document was published with the names deleted.

"It is rather difficult to deal with this subject. All I can say is that nobody ever approached me."

Malone Mentioned

Reed then revealed that the documents purported to show that Dudley Field Malone was the representative of Elias, the financial agent of the Mexican government in the matter.

"Mr. Malone never spoke to me about it," said Borah. "I used to know him about six years ago, when he was more active in politics, but I haven't seen him in several years."

Borah said he had never met Elias. Reed produced a letter purporting to show that Calles had written Elias that Borah had asked for $250,000, but that the Mexican treasury could not stand to pay more than $100,000. Again the crowd laughed.

"This is all Greek to me—or at least Spanish," said Borah.

"Did you ever hear of that performance?" asked Reed.

"Never—except these rumors of which I've told you," said Borah.

"There isn't the slightest foundation to these charges then?" asked Senator Bruce.

"Absolutely not," said Borah.

"Did anyone ever approach you on this subject?"

"Never," Borah declared. "I have never seen any such money—in fact I never was approached about it in any way, shape or form. I want you to understand that I was never even approached by any representative of Mexico or any person, purporting to be a representative of Mexico or anything relating to this subject."

Norris 4th Senator

Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, then revealed that the name of Senator George W. Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, was mentioned in the documents. He said that Norris was ill at his home and that the committee ought to get his statement at once.

The committee then delegated Johnson to go to Norris' bedside to get his statement.

"I don't think it is at all neces-

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—Accused of being a blackmailer, Nellie McCracken, 16, orphan, was arrested in a mountain hut in Ligonier township yesterday and lodged in the State Police Barracks at Greensburg. William B. Smith, 50, charged with being an accessory, and who, state police say, is the instigator of a plot to extort $5,000 from John Seger, wealthy coal and lumber dealer, of Ligonier, also was arrested.

The girl, with Smith and Peter McCracken, 40, said to be a distant relative of the girl, occupied the little hut on top of the mountains, and there, it is said, the plot was formed. McCracken was not arrested.

DEMANDED $5,000

On December 4, Seger received a letter demanding that he place $5,000 in currency in a stone crock alongside a spring on the outskirts of Ligonier, under a threat of death. No date was set. The letter was mailed in Latrobe.

State police learned the McCracken girl had been in Latrobe on December 5. Her arrest followed.

The girl is said to have admitted writing the letter, saying she obtained the idea from reading current magazines. She said she had formerly worked as a maid in Ligonier and knew that Seger had "lots of money."

Lindy's Mother Rejects Bid to Go to Mexico

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, by telegram today declined the invitation of Ambassador Dwight L. Morrow, that she spend the holiday season in Mexico with her famous son.

The telegram said that she would hardly have time and also that she did not believe she should share in any of her son's glory.

"My idea," she told friends, "is that this is a man's celebration and a woman has no place in it."

ORPHANAGE

the community into indescribable chaos and horror.

Three hundred and seventy-one children and 40 nuns were sleeping when the first tongues of flame swept through the orphanage, shutting off the escape of dozens and prostrating others in their beds and along the corridors where they fell in heaps around windows and doors.

Heroic rescues were countless. Citizens, nuns, firemen and police waded into the blazing furnace. Many children were thrown from the second and third floor windows into life nets and bedding held by firemen and volunteers.

Other children were rushed to hospitals and private homes and until all are traced, no definite figures of the casualties will be available.

Students Favor New Dances, Despite Dean

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—During a lecture on profitable pleasure Dean James A. Widdowson of Waynesburg College put himself on record today as favorable to the old style "open formation" of dances, such as the Virginia reel. If his remarks influenced the student body it wasn't noticeable when the undergraduates voted that they'd rather do the black bottom or the Charleston.

TRAIN MANGLES PITTSBURGHER

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Two men were killed today when they were struck by a Nickel Plate westbound train between Sheridan and Silver Creek. A third, who escaped, said all three were walking on the tracks and the two who were killed thought an approaching train was on another track.

Papers on the bodies indicated one was John Smith, address unknown, and the other, Herman Ruppi, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Both were about 45. Their bodies were taken to a morgue in Fredonia.

WOMAN BREAKS RIB COUGHING

WASHINGTON, PA., Dec. 15.—Following a violent coughing attack, Mrs. Isa Bebout, of Addison street, ill with grippe, had a physician summoned. He discovered that she had broken a rib coughing.

ALDINE THEATER HELD UP, $5,000 TAKEN

ROB OFFICE AS SHOW GOES ON

Police and Aldine Theater officials reported today that they are without clues to two masked bandits who last night menaced G. C. Murphy, assistant manager of the theater, with guns, and escaped with more than $5,000 in cash which Murphy was counting in the office of the Liberty avenue playhouse.

Hundreds inside the theater watching a moving picture were unaware of the daring robbery. The pair slipped into the office about 11 o'clock. Murphy was unaware of their presence until he was ordered to throw up his hands. Although his own revolver was on the desk in front of him, he was virtually helpless facing the bandits' weapons.

One of the bandits, wearing a green silk mask, swept the money into a satchel and turned to leave. He was called back by the man who was watching Murphy and ordered to clean out the safe. Another package of bills was taken from the strong box and silver in the cash drawer was emptied into the satchel. The robbers then picked up Murphy's weapon and calmly walked out.

After passing a score of patrons in the lobby, the bandits walked quietly to the street, boarded an automobile and escaped. Police were notified but they have only a meager description of the men provided by Murphy, who was alone when the holdup occurred.

HUBER HELD IN WIFE'S KILLING

Herman Huber killed his wife, Nellie Mahler, when she admitted she was waiting for a telephone call from another man, a coroner's jury was told today. Huber, whose attempt to kill himself was unsuccessful, was held for court on a murder charge.

Lieut. David Corbett of the homicide squad told the coroner's jury of the shooting which took place in the couple's North Side rooms November 28, when Mrs. Mahler, Huber's common law wife, was shot four times.

MEXICAN TRIP PROVES METTLE OF PLANE AND PILOT

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his "Spirit of St. Louis," a steed of the air which has never faltered beneath him, claimed added fame when they landed in Mexico City yesterday, completing a trip from Washington, D. C., in 27 hours and 10 minutes. The distance was over 2,000 miles. A great plane and a great pilot, was the consensus of opinion among the aviation experts when word flashed out that Lindy had "done it again," an opinion which the pilot shares in regard to his beloved plane.

Girl's Father Jails Minor Newlyweds

Jailed by his father-in-law, Leroy Brown, 17, of 666 Airbrake avenue, Wilmerding, a groom of a week, paced his cell in the Turtle Creek Police Station last night, and swore that no law in the whole world could for long separate him from his 18-year-old wife, Myrtle Johnson, of 1114 Church street, Turtle Creek.

From the window of his cell the boy could see the light in his bride's window in her father's house, a few yards distant from the police station.

He was released on $2,000 bail today, the bond being furnished by his father.

Both the boy and the girl were arrested in York yesterday on perjury charges preferred by the girl's father, D. Q. Johnson, superintendent of the Peoples Natural Gas Company of Turtle Creek. The girl was released yesterday on $1,000 bond, provided by her father.

The couple eloped last Thursday night when Mr. Johnson objected too sternly to the Brown boy, who has been his daughter's "beau" for the past three years. They went to York, got a license, swore they were 21 and were married. Lack of funds pre-original plan of hiking to Florida, and the newly-weds landed jobs in York.

A letter asking forgiveness and blessing was sent to Mr. Johnson. The father then armed himself with a warrant, and with a constable and brought the honeymooners back.

They will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace James Riddle of Turtle Creek tonight. The marriage is satisfactory to Brown's parents.

Both bride and bridegroom wish to finish their senior terms at Turtle Creek High School. Principal W. W. Lantz said yesterday that as far as he was concerned he would welcome them back to their classes.

Letter Returns After 10 Yrs. at Sea Bottom

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A letter that had lain at the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea for more than 10 years, was back in the possession of its writer, Ronald Wilkins, here today. Wilkins wrote the letter to his mother, Mrs. A. Wilkins, of London, while he was in a hospital recovering from a wound received at Salonika.

The transport which carried the letter was torpedoed and sunk. A few months ago the ship was raised and the decipherable mail delivered. When Mrs. Wilkins received the letter she forwarded it to her son here.

Flood's Grip Broken Here As Crest of Rise Passes

CITY TURNS TO REPAIR DAMAGE

Pittsburgh today was slowly easing out of the grasp of the highest flood in more than three years, which inconvenienced scores of dwellers in lower North Side, inundated streets, railroad tracks and flowed into basements of business houses downtown.

Reaching a crest at 30.4 feet at 9 o'clock last night, 5.4 feet above the flood mark, the waters had receded below 27 feet at 1 p. m. today, with the prospect of a more rapid decline late this afternoon and tonight.

The Allegheny and Monongahela rivers were reported falling all the way to headwaters, with towns and villages which had felt the sweep of the flood waters, again returning to normal activities.

Workmen at Braeburn toiled far into the night building a dyke to prevent the abutment wall of the dam there from being undermined. Freeport reported 30.7 feet, the highest since 1913. Stone and slag were dumped at several points along the upper river to stay the power of the torrent from eating away the banks.

Many North Side families continued to occupy their homes in the flooded district, although the lower floors were under water and the gas and water connections broken. Similar conditions were found in the low districts of boroughs along the Allegheny and Ohio rivers and in towns farther up the Allegheny Valley.

Although the waters are expected to recede slowly all day, work was started this morning in cleaning up the tons of mud left in the wake of the flood. Several inches of mud covered the pavements and blocked the sewers in many North Side streets, as well as the basement and first floors of many houses.

Crews of workmen were kept last night in the downtown district, keeping tunnels used for cables and pipes from being flooded. Pumps were kept running continuously, emptying the water from basements into the street. Steam from the pumps operating in the manholes filled the streets like the smoke from a dense fire.

Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said last night that rain may fall here late today, but this will not cause any rise in the rivers. Only a heavy storm could start another rise here he said. The rain will not last long and cooler weather will follow.

Pine Creek overflowed its banks in Sharpsburg yesterday flooding Main street for two squares and forcing residents of the district to move their belongings to higher floors. Another section of Main street was covered by waters from the Allegheny River and street car traffic was abandoned.

East Ohio street between Millvale and Etna was blocked for four hours yesterday by a landslide that occurred shortly after 1 o'clock. Sixty workmen, a steam shovel and trucks cleared the street, but a number of the men remained on the job, fearing another slide.

Street car traffic on the West Penn Railways was discontinued between Cheswick and Aspinwall because of flooded tracks.

TRIED FOR TAKING WAYS

BETTY FAIR

Accused of "knocking down" more than $3,000 while a cashier for Gammon restaurants, Betty Fair, of 316 Thirty-ninth street, was placed on trial in Criminal Court before Judge Josiah Cohen. Ross L. Gammon, restaurant owner, and Walter Kaiser, city detective, testified that the defendant confessed to the thefts. The defendant on the stand denied the charges.

Save Our Goods, Mine Wives Ask Fisher

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—With the sale of furniture of striking miners' families set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Renton, miners' wives today wired Gov. John S. Fisher to intervene to prevent the sale.

The Union Collieries Company, according to the miners, has announced the auctioning to reimburse the company for back rents.

Barracks have been completed sufficient to care for half of the miners' families, it is said, but they cannot move the furniture which is liened by the company.

RAILWAY AND BANK CONCERNS DISSOLVED

Judge Harry H. Rowand has signed a decree dissolving the McKees Rocks and Allegheny Street Railway Company. He also signed a decree dissolving the State Bank of Braddock, which has been absorbed, and made a preliminary order to dissolve the Service Creek Oil and Gas Company.

HER CORSETS PROVE POOR MONEY CACHE

When Mrs. Mary Mercer, 225 North Craig street, retired last night she hid $50 in her corsets and placed the corsets over a chair in her bedroom. When she awoke today she found the money missing and the corsets in the rear yard.

3RD BOY ADMITS MURDER

Lloyd ("Shimp") Moore, 18, last night added his confession, according to detectives, to that of Mike Ferraro, 16, and Henry Costello, 18, that, with Joe Ferraro, 19, Mike's brother, they shot and stabbed to death Edward Flinn, 68, watchman, at Center avenue and Graham street, last September 4.

Moore was brought from the Morganza Reformatory and Mike Ferraro from Thorn Hill School at Warrendale and lodged with Costello in the Central Police Station, while Detective Edward Sweeney returned from Cleveland with Joe Ferraro, arrested there Tuesday night.

Besides the murder of Flinn, the boys told of "at least" 20 holdups in the East End district, and of the theft of 35 automobiles, according to detectives.

MAN FALLS DEAD IN STORE

George J. Cornmiller, 64, of 306 Shady avenue, dropped dead early today in a store at 23 Meadow street.

At the county morgue it was stated that death was due to heart disease. Cornmiller had gone to the store with several friends and was eating a sandwich when he fell over. Policeman Harvey J. Connor removed the man to the Pittsburgh Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

FLOOD SWEEPS P. R. R. BRANCH

Due to flood waters of the Ohio River inundating the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad on the New Cumberland and Marietta branches, service over the road between several points has been suspended, and shuttle lines placed in operation, according to officials of the railroad here.

On the New Cumberland branch, service over the road is suspended between Weirton and Congo, and on the Marietta division between Cambridge and Marietta, O. Tracks of the railroad at Wheeling and Wellsburg are covered with water.

Secret Safe

COUNTESS DE JANZE

The secret motive behind the shooting of Vincent de Trafford, in Paris, by Countess de Janze, former Alice Silverthorne, of Chicago, may never become known. The countess was spared a public trial in which she would have to tell the story. She appeared before a police court judge on the charge of "inflicting simple wounds," which is comparable to the American charge of assault and battery. The magistrate committed the countess for trial by a correctional court where she can avoid telling of the reason of the shooting and get off with a light fine.

WILL THEY MARRY -:- FOR MONEY OR LOVE? -:- THESE TILLER GIRLS

Money or Love? A little of both.

OLIVE
Hollingshead, one of the 16 famous English exponents of unit dancing.

Money or Love? Neither—old maid!

CONSTANCE
Clements, another—they're playing at the Alvin this week in "Yours Truly."

Money—just to be in the fashion!

WINNIE
Hollingshead. She wants to read "Money Love," by Beatrice Burton.

For love—if there's plenty of money, too.

SADIE
Hudson does, too. "Money Love" begins next Monday in the Sun-Telegraph.

Golly! I'm married now.

RENE
Todd, head of the dancers, knows about marriage, but is interested in the story.

Money or Love? 'Arf and 'arf.

EDNA
McCallum has opinions of her own. She's read Beatrice Burton's other tales.

Plenty of each for me.

MARJORIE
Griffith believes a lot of things about love, money and stories.

Money or Love? Of course, love.

BELLA
Pilling says Mrs. Burton's stories are good—that all the Tiller girls are English.

HEARST DOUBTS MONEY WAS PAID

sary because I don't believe a word or syllable of this stuff," said Johnson. "I think, though, that in justice to him, we ought to get his statement."

Hefling then returned to the stand to be sworn. He demanded it and Reed gave him the oath.

Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, and Robinson then paid tribute to the honesty and integrity of Heflin, Borah, La Follette and Norris. Every Senator on the committee declared they did not believe the Senators had received any money.

Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the port of New York city and a prominent attorney, was called next.

"Are you acquainted with Arturo M. Elias, the Mexican consul general in New York?"

"I am not."

"Do you know Samuel C. Tellez, the Mexican ambassador?"

"I do not," said Malone. "I've never seen him."

Reed then read a letter written President Calles, of Mexico, by Elias, which said, in part:

"On the 14th of this month (August, 1926) I delivered to Mr. Dudley Field Malone the sum of $1,200,000, to deliver or place at the disposition of Senator William E. Borah."

"I never heard of it before," said Malone.

"Have you ever acted as intermediary for the Mexican government?" asked Reed.

"I never did," said Malone. "I have never acted as intermediary for any government or any officials of any government in any transaction with any senator or any member of Congress or any attache of this government."

Malone said the only reason he believed his name was mentioned in the document was "because I've been somewhat prominent and they had to pick on somebody, so they picked on me."

"Never Had Million"

"I never had $1,200,000 in my possession from any source whatever," said Malone. "That's the only complimentary thing about it."

Malone said he had not seen Borah, Norris, La Follette or Heflin in years. He added he had never discussed any Mexican problem with them.

"I am only a private citizen and my wish is that I had a larger forum in which to deny these charges," said Malone.

Reed then produced three documents, two of them letters and one a mysterious receipt. Malone said he had written the letter, but denied signing the receipt. Reed keep the receipt confidential.

"Did you ever receive $100,000 from the person named in this document?"

"Never," said Malone heatedly.

The letters, it was said, had no relation to the Mexican matter. Malone then said the signature on the receipt "looks like my handwriting, but I know I never signed that document." He said it might have been traced from some other letter.

"Assuming your innocence," Bruce said, "isn't your practice of an international character?"

"Yes, in Paris and New York."

"Wouldn't the international character of your legal practice be a reason for selection of your name in this document?"

"Perhaps so and besides, I've been politically minded about the same as Senators Borah and Norris. That may have had something to do with it."

Malone said he was "in the south of France" during July and August, 1926, when Elias was purported to have handed him the $1,200,000 in question.

Malone said he would refresh his memory and give the committee at a later date his exact whereabouts in August, 1926.

A recess then was taken until 2 o'clock.

Evidence Cash Stolen From Courtroom

Two hundred and forty-five dollars in marked money, used as evidence in a prohibition case and later turned over to a Federal Court jury, disappeared after Vincent Pikutis, president; Frank Monkulas, secretary, and Peter Jurgaitis, steward, of the Homestead Lithuanian Club, had been found guilty of bribery yesterday.

At the conclusion of the trial, the money was placed in an envelope by the foreman of the jury and, with other papers in the case, laid on the desk of the deputy clerk of courts, in the court room of Judge R. M. Gibson. When the papers were sorted later the money was missing. There was a big crowd in the court room all day, due to the numerous liquor cases being tried.

A Veal Roast

With Suggestions for Serving

Milk-fed veal—white-meated and tender. Your favorite cut. Even the loins are sold in roast form at low roast prices.

Legs, lb. 27c
Legs of Veal
You may slice several cutlets for breading or frying and still have a nice roast left. Some like to cut a pocket and stuff the leg.

Loins, lb. 27c
Loin of Veal
Cut chops for a meal or two and roast the remainder. Women may add individuality by the way the roast is seasoned or garnished. Ask for a McCann Cook Book at the Meat Counter.

Rumps, lb. 27c
Rump of Veal
Strictly a roast—and a delicious one! The meat is moist and most tender. As with any of these cuts, it may be stuffed if desired.

Fores, lb. 19c
Forequarters of Veal
For a Veal Pot Pie—or it makes a delicious roast. Some prefer to make a Jellied Veal Loaf; others put the meat through a chopper and serve it as a hot veal loaf.

BUILDING INSPECTION LAX, COUNCIL TOLD

DANCE HALLS CITED AS DANGER

"A great number of dangerous buildings in Pittsburgh" are not being properly looked after because of the insufficient number of employes in the Bureau of Building Inspection, Robert K. Cochrane, former head of that bureau, charged at a budget meeting of Council today.

"The bureau can't do anything but notify the owners and then trust to God that nothing will happen until it gets a chance to go into the case again," said Cochrane, who urged additional inspectors, including men to guard against overcrowding of theaters, movies and dance halls.

"It seems to be a fact that when the nickels are coming in the owners will take all they can get, crowding the lobbies and the aisles," he added. "There is a police regulation against this, but apparently the police do not carry it out."

Cochrane headed a delegation of builders and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce that urged additional men for the bureau. They expressed the opinion that the fees would pay the maintenance of the bureau.

Trustees of the Carnegie Library requested approval of a $40,000 appropriation, most of it to be used for two new branch libraries, one in the Knox School and the other on Squirrel Hill. Representatives of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade made the proposition that the city take over the first floor of a proposed civic building for the library branch, and were told to return when the site for the building has been selected.

H. F. Baker, representing the Civic Club, asked additional recreation appropriations, while more tennis courts in the parks and additional electrical inspectors were asked by other organizations.

M'GOVERN AND BABCOCK

The meeting was called to find some way by which the county could pay the Dravo Contracting Company and the Fort Pitt Bridge Company money due them for work on the Thirty-first street and Glassport-Clairton bridges. The Dravo company maintains that it had completed a part of the contract for the sub-structure of the Thirty-first street span and that the county owes $250,000. The bridge company made similar claims for work on the Glassport-Clairton bridge and asked the county to pay $44,000 due for the work.

The meeting opened up with fireworks when Controller McGovern charged the County Commissioners with being responsible for the companies not being paid.

"You are in error when you place the blame on us," Commissioner Babcock shouted. "Had you agreed to advertise for the sale of people's bonds, which the Commissioners requested, these companies and other concerns doing work for the county would have been paid long ago," said Babcock. "You have been playing politics all year and now you are trying to get out from under by placing the blame on us," the Commissioner said.

Controller McGovern took exceptions to Commissioner Babcock's remarks and said that his office had never been notified to advertise for the sale of people's bonds sufficient to cover outstanding obligations. County Solicitor W. Heber Dietrich sided with Commissioner Babcock and produced resolutions and correspondence, and claimed copies had been sent to the Controller.

"Show me the proof and I am willing to swallow anything I have said," Controller McGovern said.

"You will swallow it anyhow, for you are wrong," Commissioner Babcock retorted.

Controller McGovern inquired if it was not the duty of the Commissioners' office to prepare advertisements for the sale of the bonds and submit them for the Controller's approval. Solicitor Dithrich explained that it was just the opposite, that it was the duty of the Controller to prepare the advertisements which would be submitted to the Commissioners for their approval.

Controller McGovern then proposed that the Commissioners immediately adopt a resolution borrowing the amount owed the Dravo and the bridge companies from the general fund and pay the bills. "When the bonds are sold the money borrowed is to be paid back into the general fund," the Controller said. Commissioner Babcock objected to the proposal.

Babcock again charged McGovern with being responsible for the present financial plight of the county. He suggested that the two concerns wait until the next year until a new Controller took office. "Maybe we will have better luck with him," Babcock said.

Ralph M. Dravo, vice president of the Dravo Company, objected to this proposition.

"I don't think that is fair, Mr. Babcock, to keep us waiting for our money. I am sure you do not run the Babcock Lumber Company that way," said Mr. Dravo.

"What has the Babcock Lumber Company got to do with this?" he asked.

"Well, I don't see why we should suffer because of a squabble between you and the Controller; we need the money and you should agree to Controller McGovern's proposition," Mr. Dravo shot back.

The Controller and Commissioner again became involved in another argument. "Your life's training has been to criticize. Attend to the duties of your own office and you will have enough to do," Babcock said. "You have been complaining and writing letters about most everything. You are a good letter writer, but not so good in figuring up a debt statement."

Controller McGovern did not take kindly to the remarks of the Commissioner and again stressed that the County was poverty-stricken in so far as the Commissioner's bonding power was concerned. "That's a high joke," was the Commissioner's comment. Words between the two flew fast with many personal charges hurled.

Controller McGovern again proposed that the money be borrowed from the general fund and paid back when the bonds are sold. The meeting broke up when Commissioner Babcock said he would consult Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

brain expresses thought and the salesman sells goods. The gifted slang user of college days may find himself homoalalus, when he needs real English in real life.

GEORGE M. REYNOLDS, head of Chicago's biggest bank, now absorbing sunshine at Pasadena, says prosperity is here, and will stay. The Federal Reserve System is perfect insurance against old time panics, and does away with the bug-a-boo of bad times in a presidential year.

THAT is comforting, but it would be more comforting if prosperity could be spread a little thicker on the lives of say, 100,000,000 Americans. About that number worry more or less all the time, many actually lack work, or work part time only.

High finance, for its own sake, should worry a little about that big crowd, and before rejecting this suggestion it might remember with what unanimity, high finance, big bankers, especially, denounced and tried to escape that Federal Reserve System, now their financial rock of ages.

SEVEN destroyers, wrecked at Point Honda, on the Pacific, might break up, and drifting fragments endanger navigation, so the government decides to destroy them with dynamite. Why not use them to prove the power of T N T bombs, dropped from airplanes.

The seven destroyers, melting away under airplane fire, might teach the country something about the comparative value of airships and floating ships in war. President Coolidge, deeply interested in aircraft development, might request the Navy to make this experiment, and not let battleship builders have anything to do with the experiments or the reports as to results.

MEXICO FETES LINDY

had set himself, he was about an hour late.

BLAMES FOG

But the famous team of "We" was not to blame. Talking to newspapermen of his flight he said:

"The fog was to blame for my being late. The weather was okay as far as the Mexican border, but I ran into fog as I mounted over the foothills of the Sierras.

"After I left Tampico I lost my route and had to be guided solely by compass. I could not help drifting to the west and seem to have followed a large detour, going even farther west than Toluca—as far as Salvatierra and Morelia anyway—and it was the sign of the Toluca railway station that gave me my first idea of my real location. But of course it is impossible to give a complete story of the trip in a few words."

TREMENDOUS RECEPTION

The reception accorded Col. Lindbergh when he entered the city after his flight was tremendous. Practically all the inhabitants of the federal district crowded the sidewalks, roofs, windows, and even the church spires along the route.

A peaceful Caesar of the air had arrived.

All of the houses were decorated with Mexican and American flags, the latter making a surprising appearance from unexpected sources.

In Latin custom, the inhabitants showered flowers upon the ambassadorial car as it progressed and the air was continually filled with shouting and cheering.

Lindbergh landed at Valbuena Field at 2:39 p. m. (3:39 Eastern Standard time), coming in from the West with an escort of nine Mexican army planes.

American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow was the first person to greet the flier on Mexican soil. With his hands outstretched the ambassador was waiting when Lindbergh stepped out of the cabin of the Spirit of St. Louis.

Seizing Lindbergh's hand, the ambassador asked:

"Are you tired?"

"Not very," said Lindbergh.

After being assured that his plane would be absolutely safe, possibly recollecting at the moment a similar scene in Paris when another huge crowd, anxious to greet him, almost wrecked his "partner," Lindbergh was taken to the presidential box.

There President Calles, not content with greeting him with a handshake, threw both arms about the young aviator and impulsively hugged him.

Throughout the evening telegrams of congratulations from President Coolidge down through officialdom just "plain folks" poured into the embassy.

One of the first things Lindbergh did when he reached the embassy was to request that a long distance telephone call be put in for his mother. When the connection was complete, he said:

"We made it, mother. I have already been presented with a fine Mexican sombrero."

And the sombrero seemed to please Lindbergh immensely. For, upon being asked what pleased him most on his arrival he said:

"The sombrero which was presented to me when I landed."

WHILE ANY OTHER gift may prove temporarily charming, a fine piano is, after all, the most permanent and most satisfactory in the long run. The music to be drawn from it in the years to come will add a certain cheer and richness to life that nothing else is capable of imparting.

Picture to yourself, if you please, the soothing joys of glorious music coming from a Steinway—the paragon of the piano world—the most perfect instrument made by which all other makes are judged. As a rule a piano that enjoys this high honor is considered too costly for the average person. But this is not true, for you can have a Steinway Grand in your home now for only $1425, and on terms conforming to your budget.

Let your imagination extend to the wonderful "Duo-Art," the one and only reproducing piano that actually reproduces the playing of the famous masters just as accurately as if they were at the keys, and you'll appreciate more fully the possibilities and the glories and ever-satisfying strains of ennobling music that you yourself are capable of delivering through this remarkable and outstanding family instrument.

Then, if you are so inclined, let your eyes sweep over the Krakauer, Vose, Mellor and Steck pianos, in upright or grand models, and you will see the largest exhibition of world-famous and world-standard instruments that have ever been assembled under one roof in Pittsburgh.

BUT WHICH piano shall it be? There are many to select from. All are A-1 in their class. You can obtain any one upon very low terms, thus making ownership as convenient as possible. Your present piano bears an important capital value in exchange toward a new instrument.

K. & B. Co.—HANDBAGS—[illegible]

"From Horne's"...

UNSELFISHLY, we accompany our Christmas gifts with something of ourselves—our interest, our affection, our regard, or our magnanimity toward mankind; and that is as it should be.

But are we not also justified in employing a certain kind of selfishness in our giving, in desiring our gifts to do us credit, aiming to have them go forth as subtle heralds of our good taste?

The fact that one has made selection in a store with reputation for fineness and correctness, as revealed by label or wrappings, is as much a compliment to the giver's discrimination, as is the tasteful gift itself.

'With Love to Baby"...

So many adorable things for the little one...who stays he Baby" all the way up to six years, too.

The very wee one will be more lovable than ever in a aby Bunting of pink or blue China silk, cotton padded and and quilted, $2.65. Or China silk comforts for carriage or assinet, pink or blue, $1.65.

Toys by Truckload Still Not Enough for Poor

With one week more in which to send gifts of toys, books and dolls to the Toy Mission, Ross and Diamond streets, for distribution among poor children throughout the city, donations are coming in by the truck load from the various receiving stations of the Sun-Tele Auxiliary. Although this seems a great quantity of toys, they are rapidly disappearing before the onslaughts of the volunteer gift-packers who make up the packages for distribution Christmas eve.

"Never before have the people of Pittsburgh and the suburbs given more generously," said Manager George L. Bond at the Mission, "but on the other hand we never before received as many requests for gifts to fulfill the wants of deserving families. All these truck loads of toys and many others will be needed. Our supply of used toys is supplemented by stocks purchased from cash funds donated to the Mission."

Conductors on the cars of the Pittsburgh Railways Company are getting many toys from persons who prefer this method of sending them in. The packages are accepted on all trolley cars between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. and after 7 p. m. and are taken to the car barns, where they are collected in quantity for the Mission. Gifts may be sent to any of the Sun-Tele Auxiliary stations listed below.

WINS $3,000 FOR PHOTO BURNS

WASHINGTON, PA., Dec. 15.—C. Vincent Evans, local photographer, in a verdict by agreement, agreed to pay Mrs. Frances Logay and two children $3,000 for injury suffered by members of the family when a flashlight charge exploded in the Logay home.

Louise Logay, 3, was so badly burned that it was feared she would die. Another daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Loverencic, 17, was severely burned. The photographer had gone to the Logay home to photograph a corpse. Negligence was claimed. The original suit was for $150,000.

Gift Robes and Negligees

BRINGING forth on the crest of the Christmas season a most important selling of robes and negligees, all appropriate for gifts, in three groups, at exceedingly special prices.

The selection is broad in its appeal, including warm robes and soft silks of lighter weight for every size woman and miss. Frequently the styles are one of a kind and among them some imports.

Heavy Robes

Beacon Blanketing
Lined Corduroys
Ripple Cloth

Tailored robes in straight, belted or tied-at the side types. The Beacon blanketing is the very same quality as that at a higher price and in interesting patterns. The corduroys are lined throughout. The ripple cloths are warm and woolly. All the high shades as well as practical blacks and dark colors.

The quality cannot be paralleled at the price.

Silk and Heavier Robes

Printed Silks
Ripple Cloths

Fine Corduroys
Beacon Blanketing

Silks in gala prints in large variety as well as solid colors and Pullman negligees in black touched with color. The ripple cloth robes are all imported. The corduroys are smartly bound in bright colored satins. The Beacon blanket robes at this price are more extensively trimmed.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

All-Silk Robes

Quilted and Sheer Silks

A feature group in silk quilted robes that are interlined in lambs' wool. Tailored beautifully and in tuxedo or standing collar type—silk cord at the belt. All the vivid shades as well as the boudoir pastels. Also silks on the negligee style in great diversity—flowing to tailored type. Many of these are one of a kind and will, therefore, demand early attention.

9x12-Foot

Central European Rugs...

$110.00

Czecho-Slovakian seamless rugs of unusual beauty in interesting reproductions of Oriental patterns. The designs, in characteristic rich Oriental colors, are woven through to the back as in Oriental rugs. The rugs are seamless, of an especially fine wool, giving them a smooth, luxurious appearance.

They come from a factory whose business has been carried on for many years by members of one family. The policy is one of quality rather than quantity production. And the result is emphasized by individuality, beauty and serviceability. The price is distinctly noteworthy.

A Gift Event With a Special Price Feature

Hand-Made Nightgowns

$1.00

All Distinguished by Painstaking Needlework

A great lingerie event on the eve of the gift season. Hundreds of beautiful Philippine gowns that are desirable from every point. A fine quality of nainsook in pure whites, embroidered and scalloped by Filipino needle-women. Calado work, drawn-work and flower patterns generously employed.

More than twelve different styles from which to choose and many of the embroidery designs we have never been able to show before. Square neck, round neck and V-neck types with brief kimono sleeve or no sleeve, as you prefer. Full cut and perfectly fitting. And a price that you do not see often.

Women's Sizes, 15, 16 and 17.

Now It's Gone!

Few people recognize System-Poisoning—doctors call it "TOXEMIA." If you lack ambition, energy, vim, feel nervous, and bowels don't act regularly, look out for this insidious disorder. TOXEMIA steals your vitality and health in a mysterious way.

Guard against it by taking the pleasant laxative and internal antiseptic, PARTOLA. This cleans out wastes that poison your system. Get a box now. Eat one or two at night. Feel the difference in health and pep next day—with that constipated feeling GONE! All good druggists sell regular box 30¢, double size 60¢.

Kill That Cold!

BULGARIAN HERB TEA

Taken steaming hot breaks up your cold quickly. The rich vitalizing juices brewed from the roots, barks, leaves, plants and flowers, build power and resistance in your blood and aid nature to purge the poisonous germs out of the system.

It costs but a few cents at your druggist.

Spare tubes prevent disappointment

You carry a spare tire on your car. Keep a spare set of RCA Radiotrons for your radio. Don't use new tubes with old ones. One worn vacuum tube mars your set's reception. For best results all tubes should be replaced at least once a year.

Constipation CAN be Corrected!

Here's a health hint that may mean a lot to you. A means of relieving constipation without encouraging its return. An element the system needs, anyway, and is the better for having. Calcium!

Pure calcium is one of Nature's most valuable aids. Its healthful influence is soon seen in redder blood, clearer skin; white, hard teeth. And how the tiny calcium wafers cleanse the whole system! The first one you take will show its ideal action, and the famous five-day test will prove that the weakest system can be weaned away from the habitual use of cathartics.

Your druggist has Stuart's calcium wafers; the test size for pocket is 10c and the family size is 60c.

INSURE AGAINST FALLING PLANE, AD URGES

One may always find the unusual in The Sun-Tele classified ads. Thousands of Pittsburgh citizens depend upon the "want ads" to serve them quickly and efficiently.

"Whatever goes up must come down" is the logic of a man who utilized the classified advertising columns of The Sun-Telegraph to inform the public that he would, for the sum of $5, insure homes to the extent of $2,500 for a three-year period against damages that might be done by a falling airplane.

Each day reveals many lost articles returned to their owners, work obtained, bargains in household goods to be had and much other helpful information through The Sun-Tele classified advertisement columns.

PRICES ARE CUT BY BRUNSWICK

The Brunswick Balke Collander Company, manufacturers of the Brunswick panatrope and Brunswick records, has reduced the prices of records to 75 cents for all 10-inch and $1 for all 12-inch discs. The change is due to the trend of public opinion toward appreciation of the better things in music.

This means that records by such artists as Sigrid Onegin and Marc Chamlee of the New York Metropolitan Opera, Edith Mason and Richard Bonelli of the Chicago Civic Opera and Josef Hofmann, Leopold Godowsky, Albert Spalding and other equally famous concert artists, and by some of the greatest symphony orchestras in the world today, including the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Cleveland Orchestra, New York Philharmonic Orchestra and the Orchestra of State Opera, Berlin, which organizations are directed by conductors of international repute, can now be had at the price of popular dance records. Records formerly priced as high as $2 are now available at the new prices.

QUIZ TRAINMEN IN WRECK

Engineer Charles Beltz and Conductor John Kelly, injured Sunday night when the Detroit Limited train of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was wrecked near West Newton, were questioned yesterday by railroad officials and state police officials and the railroad officers believe the train was maliciously wrecked.

The two injured railroad employes were taken from the McKeesport Hospital to the office of M. S. Kopp, Pittsburgh division superintendent of the railroad, where they were questioned by B. C. Craig and A. M. Banks, representatives of the interstate commerce commission, and other probers.

LINDY HOP AIDED BY PITTSBURGH

A product of the Pittsburgh district again helped carry Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in an international flight. The propellor used on the plane was made by the Standard Steel Propellor Company of Pittsburgh, the concern that supplied the propellor for the New York-Paris journey. The first propellor was damaged two weeks ago in New Jersey, and a rush order was sent for another.

Your Smile and Your Teeth

Anita Stewart

Quick Dental "Make-up" for Dullish Teeth

DID you know "off-color" teeth now are restored to clear whiteness? One's whole appearance thus may be quickly changed.

Famous movie stars use this way before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles glisten so. Leading dentists urge it widely. For it protects the teeth and firms tender gums.

It works by removing a dingy film that forms on your teeth, and dulls them by absorbing discolorations from food, smoking, etc. A slippery film you can feel with your tongue; and that invites germ growth, decayed teeth and gum troubles.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove it successfully. That's why brushing has thus far failed you.

Remove it and you will be amazed at what you see. Discard old ways now. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Or send for 10-day tube.

MINERS' PLIGHT HERE WINS OUTSIDE AID

Pleas for Assistance Sent Over U. S.

The plight of the striking coal miners' families in the Pittsburgh district is attracting national attention. There was a corps of reporters and photographers here from a New York paper yesterday to "cover the story." And another corps from a Chicago paper. One not familiar with the situation might suppose that a great disaster, such as a cyclone or earthquake, had struck Allegheny county. Emergency relief headquarters have been opened in New York City. Appeals for aid for the miners are beinp sent all over the country.

Regardless of whether or not generous contributions are received from the outside, Pittsburgh intends to relieve the immediate distress of the people in the mining villages by donating clothing and provisions to them on Bundle Day, next Tuesday. Bundles may be left at any fire engine house in the city.

The distress of the miners has been reaching its climax so gradually that Pittsburgh was slow to realize the desperate situation in which these people find themselves. But now that it is appreciated there is every evidence of a purpose to relieve it.

WARD CLUB HELPS

Here is one example to show that the city's heart has been touched. The Fifteenth Ward Republican Club is holding a bazar at 4021 Second avenue. Out of the proceeds $10 was taken and brought to the office of The Sun-Telegraph yesterday, with the request that it be used to help the destitute miners' families. The money was turned over to the United Mine Workers. The Fifteenth Ward Republican Club intends to hold a Bundle Day of its own for the striking miners tomorrow. Donations may be left at the bazar headquarters.

Commenting on this, Earl E. Houck, who is in charge of the legal department of the United Mine Workers, remarked that the people of Pittsburgh had good hearts and were quick to relieve suffering when it was called to their attention.

"The union miners," said Mr. Houck, "have always served the nation faithfully, and the American people have not forgotten it. During the war 80,000 members of the United Mine Workers volunteered for military service. In fact, they were so eager to enter the army that the government had to put a stop to it, because the men were more valuable in the mines than at the front. There was scarcely a union mine that did not go 'over the top' 100 per cent in every Liberty Loan campaign and every other war time drive for funds."

MANY ARE DESTITUTE

Conversation with the visitors to the miners' headquarters elicits many reports of destitution. While the reporter was talking to Mr. Houck a miner came in with the news that four more families were to be evicted today from the Pittsburgh and Western Mining Company houses at Gregg Station, near Oakdale. A minute or two later two other miners, George Dillon and James Smith, members of a relief committee at Curtisville No. 2 mine of the Ford Collieries, near Culmerville, came in with the news that they had brought a truck to town and were going to try to collect from church and charitable societies some clothing for the people of their village.

Conditions were very bad there, they said. Even before the strike the mine was operated only irregularly. The men have had no more than five months' work in four years. There are 100 families in the settlement, and they are in pretty bad shape. It is nothing to see a man with an old boot on one foot and an old shoe on the other. Some of the children have no shoes at all. It's a mile to the school house, and it's too much to expect them to tramp that distance through the mud in their bare feet at this season of the year. There are lots of children, and a few grownups, too, who hardly venture out of their houses any more; they can't, because they have no clothes.

HELP FROM UNION

The union has been sending about $300 a week to the camp. That is on a basis of $1 for each man and woman and 49 cents for each child. And that is all that they have to buy food—$300 a week to buy food for about 450 persons. Yet their need of clothing is so desperate that they took something out of that fund and hired a truck and sent Dillon and Smith to the city to see if they couldn't collect discarded garments from some of the philanthropic organizations.

The men at the camp have tried in vain to find other work in the neighborhood. The miners are best fitted for outdoor work, and there is none of that to be had within miles of Curtisville.

The report of the situation in this village is given in the plain matter-of-fact way that it was stated by Dillon and Smith. It is but one of dozens of mining villages in the vicinity of Pittsburgh that are in the same plight.

But things are going to be better after next Tuesday; for Pittsburghers are going to provide clothing on a generous scale for the miners' families—underwear, outer garments, stockings, warm coats, and especially shoes. Go through your wardrobe; make a trip to the attic; search your closets; look into your trunks. Pick out serviceable garments that you do not need, tie them in a bundle, and take it to the nearest fire engine house. The engine houses have been designated by Director James M. Clark of the Department of Public Safety as receiving stations for the miners' Bundle Day. They are located as follows:

TO ADD 9,000 PHONES TO SYSTEM IN CITY

Leonard H. Kinnard, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, is here to confer with F. J. Chesterman, vice president and general manager here, and other local telephone officials on the company's plans for the coming year.

According to Mr. Kinnard, about 9,000 telephones will be added to the system in Pittsburgh next year. This means that approximately 209,000 telephones will be operated through the city's switchboards at the close of 1928. Among other innovations, he pointed out, will be the changing of the telephones operated through the Schenley exchange from a manual to a dial basis.

Group Giving Swells 20 Neediest Fund

The Christmas spirit is coming more and more into evidence. One of its manifestations is found in the contributions that are being made to the fund that The Sun-Telegraph is raising for the Twenty Neediest Cases of destitution in Pittsburgh. Individuals and groups are sending in checks and money orders for the relief of these unfortunates.

Particularly impressive is the number of donations that have been received during the last few days from organizations. In the number that have contributed have been social clubs, Sunday school classes, commercial associations. At many a meeting nowadays, it seems, the suggestion is made, "Let us take up a collection for the Twenty Neediest Cases, and rarely without a favorable response.

The fund is large enough to assure that the Twenty Neediest Cases will not be completely lacking in the necessities of life during the holidays. But the purpose of the campaign is not merely to provide Christmas dinner and provisions for a few days, but to tide these victims of misfortune through the critical period, be it weeks or months, through which they must pass before they will again be self-supporting.

As an example of what a little timely aid can do the following case is cited by the Volunteers of America. Promised a good job in Pittsburgh, a man left his home in another town and brought his family here. He had not been here long before he lost his position. One of the four little children in the family was a cripple and her condition became such as to demand hospital treatment. The family's savings were exhausted, their circumstances became desperate. At this juncture aid was supplied by the Volunteers of America. A remunerative position was found for the mother, and soon afterward the father again obtained work. The family are now earning their own way and making good. Yet if it had not been for the help furnished at the critical period it is probable that the family would have been broken up and the children placed in an institution.

The families for whom the present fund is being collected are confronted with disruption unless the public comes generously to their assistance.

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sun Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is case No. 18:

These children lived in constant fear of a drunken abusive father until he disappeared about two months ago. Conditions were so bad that Mrs. K sanctioned the marriage of her 14-year-old daughter because the girl had no peace or comfort at home.

Now that Mr. K is gone the children can be happy with their mother, who tries hard to take good care of them. But they must have shelter, food and clothing and there is no one in the family able to provide these things. Mrs. K is in a very serious physical condition and should go to the hospital. She will not consent to do this until she knows satisfactory arrangements have been made for their care.

(Reported by the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor).

Case No. 19 will be described tomorrow.

THE KEY TO HEALTH IN WINTER
TODD'S WINE TONIC
Made of Finest California Wine

has the strength-building qualities of rare, old wine. By supplying the body with Nature's nourishment, Todd's Wine Tonic brings about a normal condition and enables the system to throw off many winter ills. During the cold weather months, it is especially beneficial as a vitality builder and preventer of chronic or dangerous troubles.

Todd's Wine Tonic is most pleasant to take. Unlike ordinary tonics, Todd's Wine Tonic is a reconstructive Tonic and not a mere laxative. Therefore, its results are greater and more lasting. For sale at all drug stores in Pittsburgh and throughout this vicinity.

The Quality goes in Before the Name goes on

ZENITH RADIO

Why does not Zenith build a radio receiver to sell for less than $100.00?

The answer is that the Zenith standard of quality cannot be built into a receiver of lower price. Zenith will not put its name to a receiver that is not highly selective, powerful and faithful to the entire tone scale.

Performance comes first in Zenith—there is no compromise. The 6-tube set has six working tubes instead of five working tubes and one balancing tube. Instead of three condensers the 6-tube set has four—the 8 and 10-tube sets have five and six condensers respectively.

In every detail the same exacting standards are carried out. Zenith costs more but it does more. Hear Zenith and you will agree that Zenith is unsurpassed.

Model 14

A sensitive, highly selective 6-tube receiver of remarkable tone quality and range. The cabinet is of walnut veneers with ornamental overlays and panels of beautifully figured maple. The doors do not stand open like wings, but fold back against the sides of the cabinet, out of view. Model 14 will bring you all that is fine in radio.

For Battery Operation—$180
Completely Electrical—$255

Licensed only for Radio amateur, experimental and broadcast reception

Rush for 'Funny Folks' Book Starts Anew

A rush for "All the Funny Folks" yesterday marked the return of this popular comic-story to the Pittsburgh district market.

Scores of clerks were busy mailing out the delayed books, and all orders will be filled, as a good supply of the jingling color books has been obtained. And there are more where they come from. Dealers' orders are for the most part filled.

Many thousands of children will have considerable fun on Christmas Day when they find these Funny Folks in their stockings. The jingles, by Jack Lait, and the 500 illustrations in full color, by William Heidermann, have made this story of the cartoon characters an interesting, colorful tale.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Tea Dance at Schenley to Be Success If Time and Efforts of Social Set Can Make It So

PLANS seem to be shaping very well for the tea dance which is to be given Monday afternoon in the Hotel Schenley for the benefit of the Girl Scouts. A lot of time and effort is being spent by the committee to make it the success it deserves to be, and, since most of the girls and boys will be home from school by that time, it should be well attended.

Several of the debutantes are included in the list of aides who are working under Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger. Craigie McKay is chairman of the Junior League aides, who include Margaret McClintic, Marjorie Kimball, Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, Jr., Eleanor Munroe, Katherine Humphreys, Margaret Stewart, Eleanor and Winifred Croft, Mrs. William W. Blair, Jr., Mrs. Harvey Childs III, Eleanor McCargo, Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys, Elizabeth Scott, Anne Scott, Juliet Hillman, Mary Louise Johnson and Mary Mellon McClung. The latter four girls are this year's debutantes.

Suzanne Trimble, debutante daughter of the Harcourt Newell Trimbles, of Beechwood boulevard, was again honor guest at a party last night, when Henry H. Wittmer, of the Hotel Schenley, gave a dinner dance in the Longue Vue Country Club. There were about 80 young people there, and, naturally, Christmas decorations were used. The junior James W. Henrys, who were married recently, shared honors with Suzanne.

Among the boys who will return home early in the week for Christmas are Joseph Currier Willey and Jonathan Currier Willey, sons of the Raymond Willeys, of Beacon street. The former is coming from Princeton and his brother from Andover. Arriving here Sunday from Princeton are Maitland Alexander, Jr., Edward P. Mellon II, Alonzo Powers II, Charles Lockhart, Benjamin Page, Jr., Richard Clemson, Rowland Irving, Carroll Miller, Jr., Marshall McCune, Hugh T. Kerr, Jr., Lindsay Christie, Thomas Raymond Evans II and John Foster.

On the day after Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. James Frazer Hillman, of Shady avenue, are to give a dinner in the Pittsburgh Club for their niece, Juliet Lea Hillman. Juliet, you know, is one of the debutantes, and the guests will include many of her sister buds and an equal number of men.

Also returning home from school are Betty Dunlap, daughter of the Will Knox Dunlaps, of South Highland avenue, and her brother, Berger Dunlap. They are expected home on Sunday. Betty, who is a freshman at Smith College, may make her debut during the Christmas vacation of next year. Berger is a freshman at the Manlius Military School.

Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman gave a large luncheon today in the University Club for Kathryn Meisle, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Nina Morgana, of the Metropolitan Grand Opera, two of the stars who are to sing tonight in Syria Mosque. Christmas decorations were used on the tables, and the aides included Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. Harold Boyd Hershman, Mrs. A. P. Morgan, Mrs. George S. Page, Mrs. George Schroeder, Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter, Mrs. Frederick H. Steele, Mrs. Henry D. Scully, Mrs. W. H. Stevenson, Mrs. Gaylord Yost, Mrs. George Campbell, Miss May Beegle, Mrs. Albert S. Crandon, Mrs. Samuel D. Foster, Mrs. E. V. Hays, Mrs. Galen C. Hartman, Mrs. William L. Monro, Mrs. John Hibbard and Mrs. F. D. Newbury.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of Irvine avenue, Swissvale, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rose Angela Brown, to Frederick Stephen Opperman of Connellsville. The wedding will take place January 5.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Josephine Geschickter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Geschickter, of Washington, D. C., and Donald Wakefield Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Smith of Coraopolis, which was solemnized yesterday in Washington. After a trip through New England and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live in Washington. Mr. Smith, who is a nephew of the late Hon. James A. Wakefield and Charles Wakefield Cadman, is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and the Georgetown University Law School. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Miss Lois Marion Baskerville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Halsey Baskerville, of Lockhart street, North Side, has chosen December 28 as the date for her marriage to John Wilbur Walton, of Denver and Pittsburgh. Miss Helen Seaman, of Bellrock street, Squirrel Hill, will give a bridge luncheon Saturday for Miss Baskerville, and next Tuesday night Miss Helen Garden and Miss Pyhllis Pfouts will give a bridge party in the former's home for the same guest. Next Thursday Miss Baskerville will share honors with her sister, Mrs. Carl H. Shaffer, of Jersey City, N. J., a bride of last June, at a bridge party to be given by Miss Mary Good in her home in Cedar avenue. Miss Rosalyn Hosenfield gave a bridge tea Saturday for the bride-elect, and others who have entertained recently were Miss Margaret McAtee and Mrs. Baskerville.

D. M. Meinert is general chairman for the annual New Year's ball to be given January 2 in the Pittsburgh Field Club by the Pittsburgh Club of the University of Notre Dame. He is assisted by Frank A. Hegarty, Francis Wilson, John McSorley, John Sheedy, Charles Totten, Edward Slick, James Harrigan, James Dodson and R. T. Strickel.

* * *

Mrs. Ralph H. Eishoff, chairman of the candy committee for the Christmas party to be given December 28 in the William Penn Hotel by alumnae of the University of Pittsburgh, is aided by Mrs. Robert B. Magill, Mrs. R. E. L. Wildman, Mrs. A. Horner Croup, Mrs. Howard N. Fry, Mrs. A. H. Burkt, Miss Mary Louise Cook, Miss Hilda Smith, Miss Louise Hetherington, Miss Velma Harrison, Miss Lucille O'Donnell, Mrs. Walter A. Wellinger, Miss Lucy McCarty, Miss Margaret King, Miss Magdalene Austin, Miss Helen MacLeod, Miss Virginia Nieman and Miss Marie I. Fischer.

"SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS" IS OBSERVED BY CLUB

The Woman's Club of Braddock had what was designated in its year book as "A Day of Christmas Spirit," when the members traveled to the Congress of Clubs and had luncheon there yesterday. Covers were laid for 60 at the holly-decked tables. The chief feature of the program which followed luncheon was a talk on "The Day of the Christmas Spirit," by Mrs. John A. Gettig, president of the club, and nine past presidents also were there and each one reminisced a bit about the happenings of her administration. These were Mrs. A. P. Aiken, Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, Mrs. W. T. Morgan, Mrs. Thomas Haynes, Mrs. John Hanna, Mrs. Charles Masters, Mrs. Samuel R. McClure, Mrs. Jennie Scott Lapsley and Mrs. Harry James. Assembly singing of carols and piano duets by Mrs. Thomas H. Snowhite and Mrs. T. D. Imbrie made up the musical portion of the entertainment.

Ralph Connor's "The Angel and the Star" was read by Mrs. F. S. McBurney before the Wednesday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg yesterday. Mrs. Katherine Flinn, of East End avenue, was hostess and Mrs. May Kolb and Mrs. S. W. Bell were in charge of the meeting, at which the usual exchange of gifts was made and the members sang Christmas carols.

The annual Christmas luncheon of the Wednesday Current Events Class, which was held yesterday in the Congress of Clubs, served to celebrate the club's twentieth anniversary. The nine former presidents were honor guests, with the present executive head, Mrs. Charles A. Orr. Three-minute talks were given by each of the nine, Mrs. J. R. Kibler, Mrs. George C. Bradshaw, Mrs. A. B. Siviter, Mrs. W. A. Crawford, Miss Helen Grimes, Mrs. W. M. Leatherman, Mrs. J. W. Riley, Mrs. Edward Rynearson and Mrs. Owen G. Butts.

The Woman's Historical Society will make its Christmas meeting next Thursday a benefit musicale for "Faith Home." The program will be given in the Congress of Clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Emma B. Sulzner, music chairman, and it will present Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss, Mrs. William L. Stone, Mrs. H. J. Kreiling, Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens Cross, vocalists; Mrs. Hilda Reiber Frank, violinist; Mrs. Bertha Gross King, Mrs. William Patterson, Mrs. Homer Seifert, Miss Kathryn Sharrar, Miss Sylvia Hibbs McBeth, accompanists; Vivian Kessler, dancer, and Mildred Schwerin, reader. Mrs. W. H. Caskey, social chairman, and her committee will look after the Christmas stockings and other gifts which will be taken to the home on Christmas Day, when a musical program will be given for the children.

VOWS NEVER TO WED ANOTHER DEMOCRAT

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 15—Ambitions and inhibitions are clearly set forth in an affidavit of George Bond, Doddridge county farmer, sworn to before Magistrate I. L. Fordyce of Pennsboro today. There is mystery behind the unusual document, and Bond fastly refuses to reveal his reasons.

After reciting the usual legal phraseology; "Know all men by these presents," Bond solmenly swears never to aspire to an office higher than that of postmaster.

Nor does his ambition run to flights to foreign climes a la Lindbergh. In the document he promises never to ride in an airplane.

One other "I will not" has been the cause of much speculation at the squire's office and general store, where Bond's cronies are wont to gather on the winter evenings. Gossip has it that the third and last inhibition is loaded with dynamite. It reads:

"I will never marry another Democrat."

SUES TO DIVORCE SILENT HUBBY

Silent treatment administered by Max Pechersky, Center avenue druggist, to his wife, Fanny Pechersky, finally drove her from him and into divorce court, it was brought out before Judge Harry H. Rowand by the plaintiff.

Mrs. Pechersky testified that things went apparently smooth as long as she did not ask what kept him out until 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. When she questioned him, then, she says, he abused her before her sisters and their son, 9. On one occasion, she claims, Pechersky blackened her eye and for several months did not speak to her. She left and is now living in Dawson street and earning her own living, although her husband is paying her $25 a week.

Why Is Fat So Rare?

There's a reason

Do you realize how uncommon are the people with excess fat? At one time there were many times as many. But men and women came to realize that fat blighted beauty, efficiency and health.

One great factor in this change is a discovery made some two decades ago. Research men found a cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of some elements which turn food into fuel and energy. They found a way to supply those elements.

Twenty years ago that discovery was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People began to use them back in 1907. They told others the results. Thus the use has grown to millions of boxes. You can everywhere see the slender figures which today prevail.

Users of Marmola are not forced to abnormal exercise or diet. They combat the cause of obesity. They simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. And they gain at the same time new health and vitality.

The formula of Marmola comes in every box. Also the reasons for results. We do this to ward off any fear of harm. You know what you are taking, and why.

Excess fat blights beauty and health and efficiency. If you suffer from it, learn the right way to combat it. Do this now. Order a box of Marmola and let the results tell you how long to continue. You will be amazed and delighted in many ways. And you will learn that excess fat is inexcusable today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out he will get them at once from his jobber.

this is "trade-in" month on Easy washing machines

You will be surprised at how much you can save this month on the price of the Wringerless EASY if you have an old washer to turn in as part payment. No matter whether the old washer runs or not, it is good for a substantial allowance if you arrange to trade it in for a new EASY.

Perhaps you have an antiquated hand-power washer—or an old electric washer that is costing more for repairs than it is worth. Exchange it for a modern-type washer that has no troublesome wringer. Just phone and give the name of the washer—the allowance we make will surprise you.

COAL PEACE BY CHRISTMAS DOOMED TO FAILURE

FINDS HERSELF--MINUS JOB

MARJORIE RAMBEAU

Marjorie Rambeau disappeared from her haunts in Hollywood while rehearsing for a major role in "The Vortex". She's disappeared before, so the management of the theater simply announced she was among the missing and hired Gwen Logan Seller to replace her. That was yesterday. Today, Marjorie appeared in Oakland and announced she was found—in fact, that she had never been lost. She came to Danville, near Oakland, to attend the funeral of her grandmother, Miss Rambeau said.

PARLEY FIASCO; DAVIS ADMITS HIS DEFEAT

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The effort of Secretary of Labor Davis to get 100,000 striking miners back into the mines before Christmas in the highly important bituminous coal fields of central and western Pennsylvania, Ohio and northern West Virginia appeared doomed today.

While the joint committee of three mine workers and three operators met again today with Davis, any agreement that may be reached will have no effect on the big operators, who have steadfastly refused to join any conference to end the strike that has been in effect for eight months.

Davis practically admitted defeat when he said, "It is useless for small operators to attend any conference, unless the major operators attend and agree to remedial measures."

"No conference of operators and miners from a limited territory can solve the problems of the entire industry," he added. "Neither the President of the United States, nor any other government official has the power to compel the industry to cure its own ills, or meet with any agency set up for that purpose."

He "tentatively" suggested that if the coal industry is to "take its place as a going concern among the other great industries, there is choice of but two ways in that direction:

"Either the industry may be left to sink of its own weight in the morass in which it now is. The stronger elements may absorb the insolvents, and thus take control of the whole, on the principle of the survival of the fittest. The desired stabilization of the industry would thus be attained, but at fearful cost to those two weak to survive and with further hardship to labor during the process;

"Or Congress, which alone has power to act, may heed the suggestion which President Coolidge has twice offered. The President suggested a special arbitration commission to act in emergency when the nation's coal supply is threatened."

Davis said that certain representatives at the present conference point out, however, that as "emergency is a chronic state in coal" the President's suggestion might have to be carried further.

The question was raised whether supervision of the coal industry might not have to be given to a body similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

CALLS MEETING OF WOMEN LAWYERS FOR TOMORROW

A meeting of all the women lawyers of Western Pennsylvania has been called by Attorney Elvira L. Bleadinghiser for tomorrow at 7:30 o'clock in the Woman's City Club, William Penn Hotel.

Bird House Hustlers: Only Two Days to Go!

Only tomorrow and Saturday remain for salesboys and girls of the Sun-Telegraph Bird House Club to send in their subscriptions for New Readers, if they are to be counted in the contest for the 28 cash prizes.

When Saturday comes, the counting will begin. The 28 prizes, listed on the comics page, will be awarded to those having sold the greatest number of subscriptions. Fourteen prizes go to the boys and 14 to the girls. Many have turned in good totals, but there is still a chance for all. So Manager J. M. Aylward advises you to rush in your subscriptions today—tonight. Don't hold them back, for that will delay the counting, hold up the award-giving, and delay the sending out of the checks.

That many members of the club are already assured a fat Christmas pocketbook goes without saying. Even without any prizes, the half-dollars that have been earned have made an impressive total. Rush in the final New Reader subscriptions. A prize may still be yours.

CURB FRAUDS BY VOTE MACHINES --GUTHRIE

"If additional argument were needed for the adoption of the voting machine amendment to the state constitution at the next November election," said Francis S. Guthrie, a director of the Pennsylvania Elections Association, in a statement issued today, "it has been supplied through recent disclosures of wholesale ballot frauds in Allegheny county.

"The crimes against the state and its citizenry, laid bare through investigation of primary returns by the Allegheny County Branch of the Pennsylvania Elections Association, and the resultant prosecution and indictment of scores of election officers, cry aloud for the remedy of conditions whereby such frauds are possible.

"By far, adoption of the voting machine amendment is the longest step that can be taken towards cleansing our elections.

"All of the frauds revealed in Allegheny county were of a nature that their commission would have been impossible had voting machines been in use. Without exception they consisted of falsified returns—based on crooked counting, alterations in ballots, erasures and the like. Safeguards of honest voting in the mechanism of the modern voting machine would have barred automatically these offenses.

"The experimental stage in voting machines has long since passed. The positive value of the machine—its accuracy, speed, ease of operation, its mechanical resistance to fraudulent manipulation, its workability, and its practicability—has been proved. All of Greater New York City will vote by these machines at the next election, and for some years the bulk of the vote in New York state outside the city has been cast by machine. In other states the machine is well established, and its use is spreading.

"Experience in other states demonstrates that there is actual economy in supplanting the old paper ballot system with the voting machine. Saving through the elimination of various items of election cost is sufficient to pay for them in a comparatively short term of years; thereafter the amount saved is pure gain. Striking figures in cost reduction come from Iowa. The average official expense in that state used to be 52 cents per vote; the machine has brought it down to 16 cents.

"There can be no argument of financial hardship imposed on counties, cities or other governmental units in Pennsylvania by state law, following adoption of the constitutional amendment, requiring that they install a full equipment of machines. The amendment requires nothing of the kind. In fact, its optional clause is one of its most notable features.

"The amendment will simply open the way for the Legislature to enact laws whereby any county, city, borough or township may adopt the voting machine system by decision of the majority of its electors. No outside force to compel the use of the machines can be applied, for the very language of the amendment forbids it. Home rule is specified.

"I believe the people of our state favor it by a large majority."

NEW MEMBERS NAMED BY HUMANE SOCIETY

Seven life members and 28 new members were elected to the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society at the monthly meeting of the board of managers yesterday. H. L. Mason, Jr., president of the board, presided. Supt. Louis W. Ahn gave a report on last month's work, which showed that 19 persons were arrested and fined for mistreating animals and two others sent to prison for abusing children.

BROADCASTING PICTURES OF VOGEL

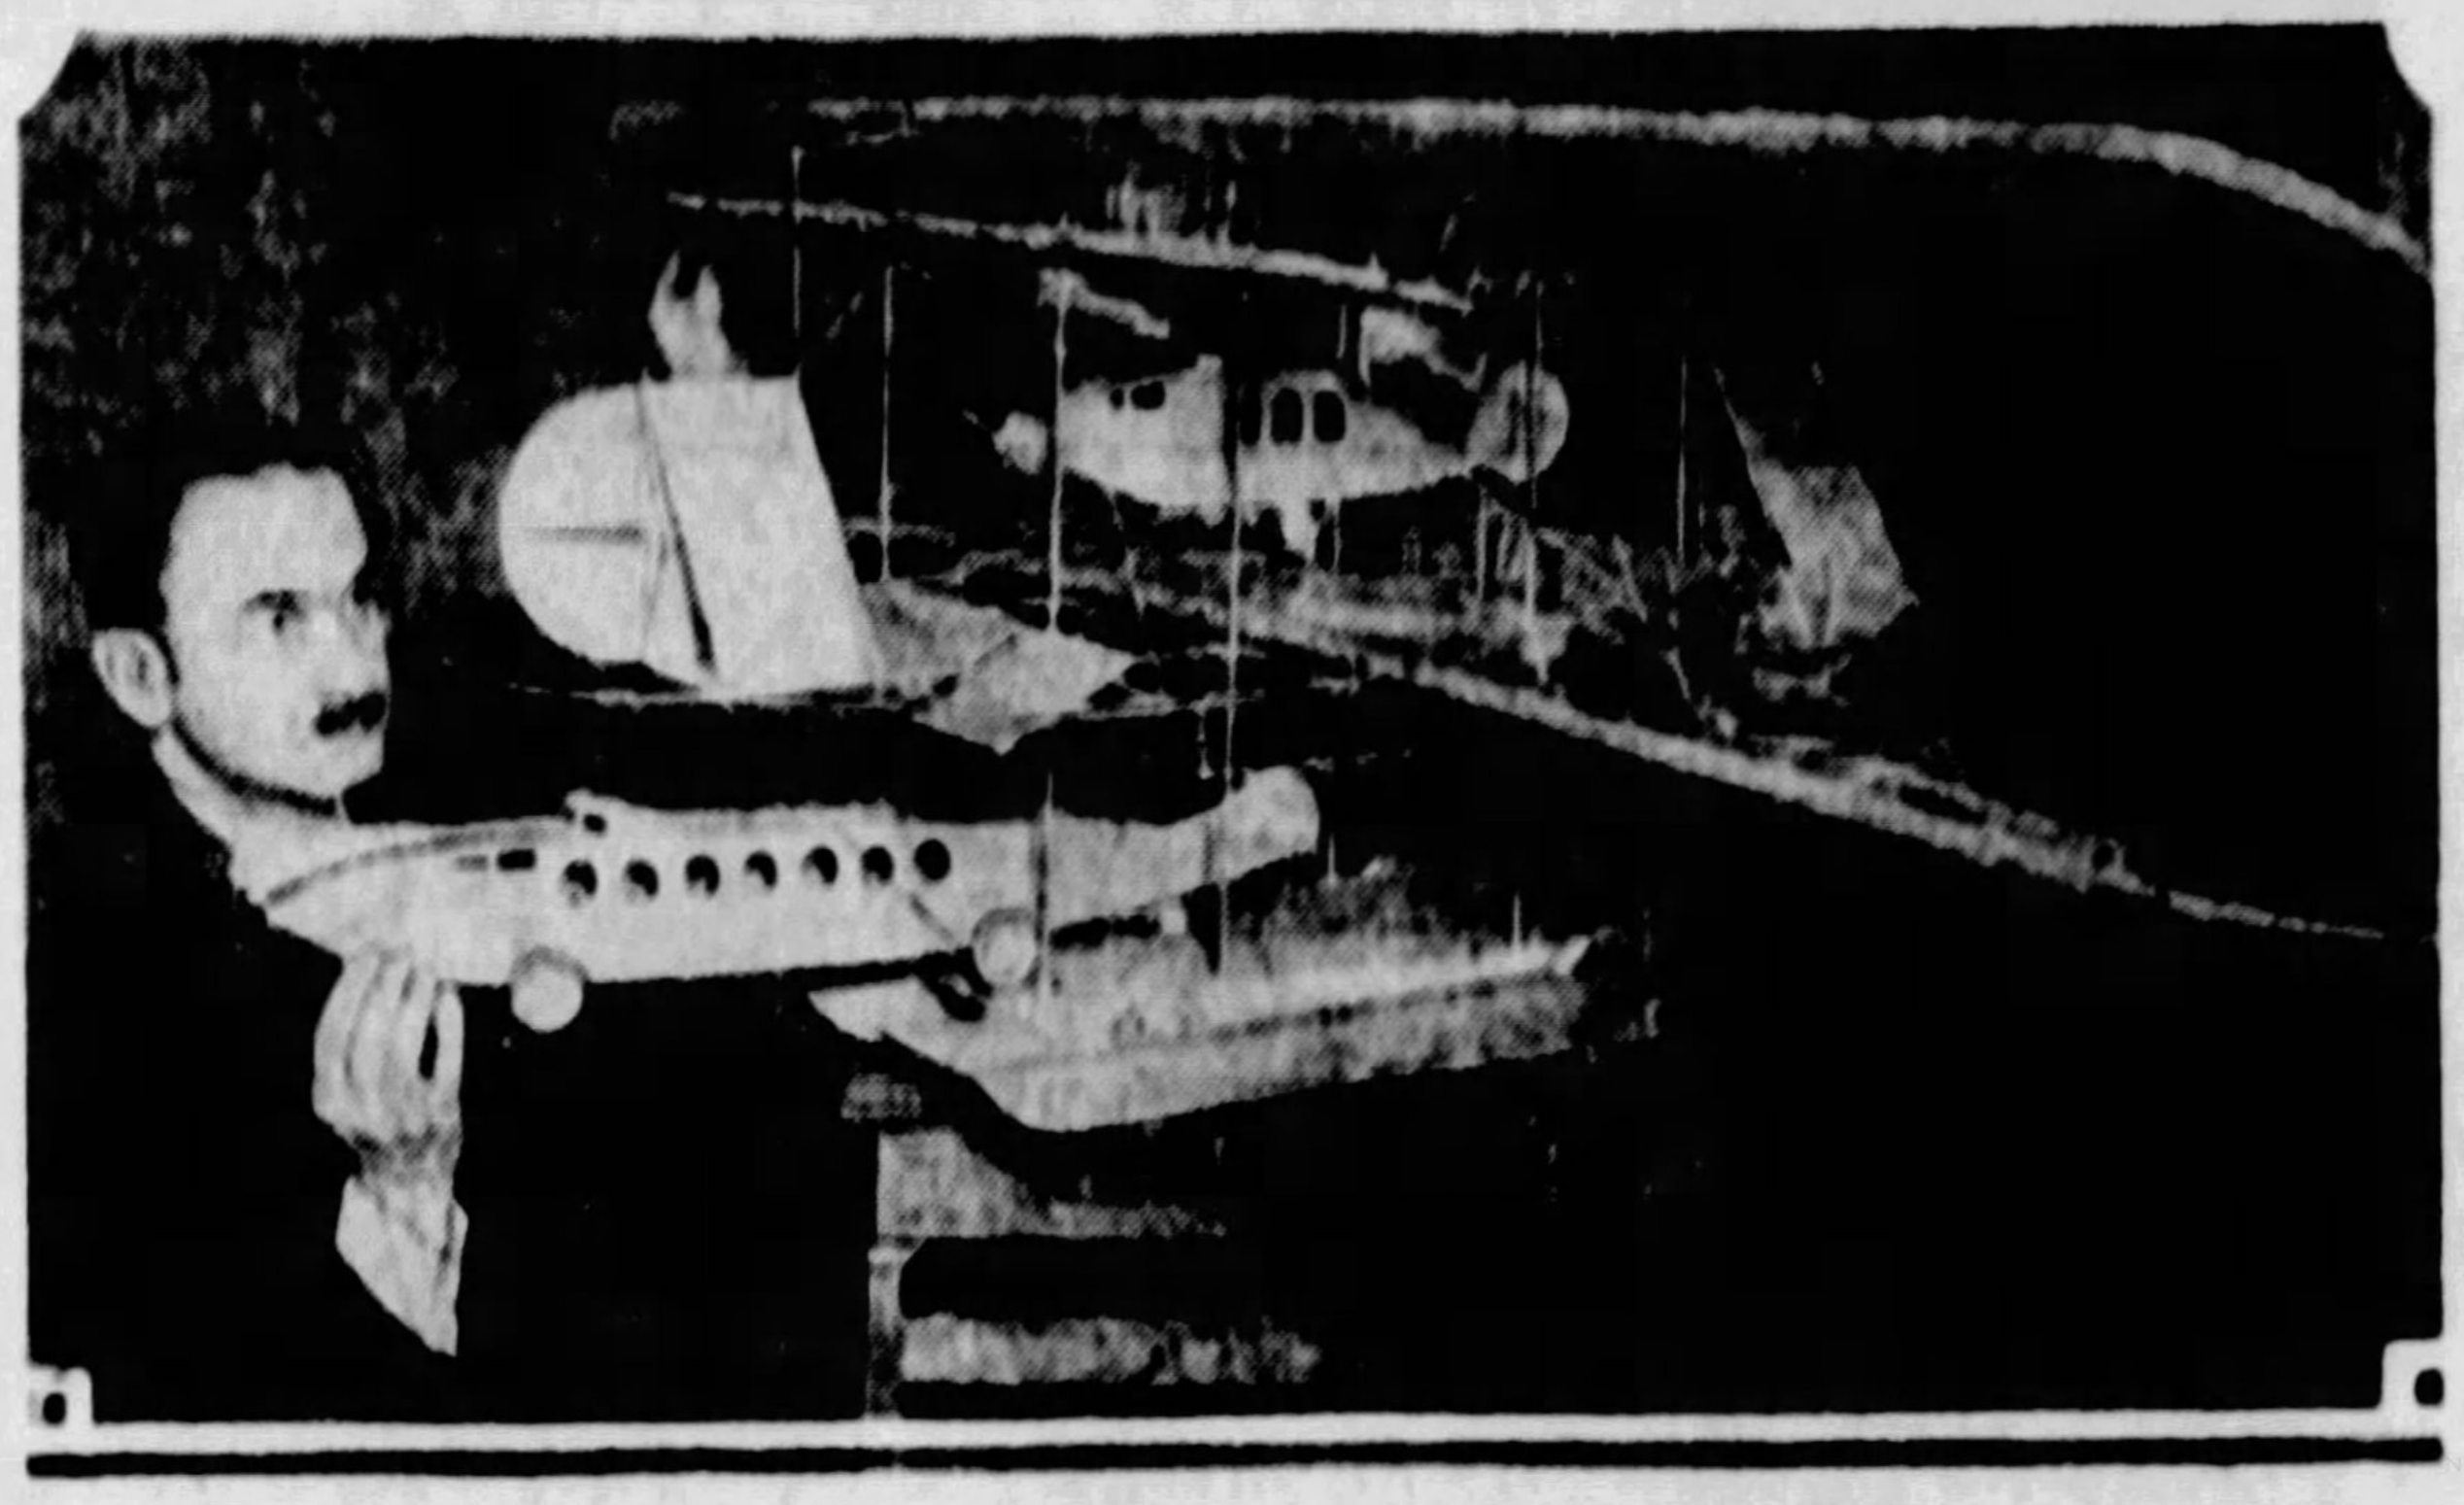
FEARED BURIED IN UNMARKED GRAVE

Fearing that the body of George Vogel, of Avalon, chain store manager, who mysteriously disappeared November 12, might be lying unidentified in a potter's field in some other state or county, William H. Vogel, president of the Vogel company and brother of the missing man, today had circulars printed bearing a picture and description of Vogel. These will be distributed to morgues and coroner's throughout the country.

The work of getting the circulars to the proper persons will be in charge of Mrs. Ida M. Rickenbrode, acting head of the Missing Person Bureau, and City Detective M. J. Feeney. Detective Feeney this morning declared that there was nothing in the report that Vogel had been seen in New York City. Feeney said that today, more than a month since Vogel dropped from sight, the police are no nearer the solution of the mystery than they were in the beginning.

Friends of the missing man are divided in their opinions as to whether Vogel committed suicide or is merely on a trip and will eventually return.

NEW PLANE TO BE SELF-STABILIZER



CABINS MAINTAIN EVEN KEEL REGARDLESS OF SHIP'S POSITION

Arnold W. Genrich, of New York claims he has solved the problem. At any rate, he has built a model of the future air liner. The inventor calls it a self-balancing aeroplane. Two cabins are suspended from the framework of the plane, one for the passengers and one for the crew. These cabins are hung so that they're always in a level position regardless of the angle at which the ship is flying. The ship is propelled by four motors—one in front of the pilots' cabin, two suspended from the upper wing, and the fourth on the passenger compartment. On making a forced landing, either on land or water, the passenger gondola can be disengaged and continue the journey, either on land of water.

Father Cox May Fly Across Atlantic

The Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of old St. Patrick's Catholic Church, may be a passenger and backer of a trans-Atlantic flight to Rome, crossing the waters in a plane with Miss Myrtle Brown, of Omaha, Neb., it was learned last night. Father Cox and Miss Brown, a sister-in-law of Guiseppe Bellanca, the airplane builder, have been in communication for some time.

Father Cox said last night that he had just received a letter from the young woman outlining the flight. He is confident that he can raise money in Pittsburgh to back the project.

Miss Brown had hoped to obtain backers in Omaha, but when this failed she turned to Pittsburgh for support. She said last night in New York that it would be particularly appropriate for a priest to fly from America to Rome, the ancient seat of the Catholic Church.

PRISONER SERVING 60-DAY TERM DIES AT WORKHOUSE

Robert Gates, 922 East Diamond street, died today at the Allegheny county workhouse, where he was serving a 60-day sentence on a suspicious character charge, imposed by a police magistrate. The coroner's inquest revealed the cause of death as pulmonary tuberculosis. Gates was sentenced to the institution on November 11 and was in the hospital there until his death today.

DOGS LAY SIEGE TO CEMETERY

Two German police dogs owned by Dr. Frank J. Walz, of 7500 Kensington street, laid siege to the receiving vault office in Homewood Cemetery yesterday and refused to allow pedestrians to enter or leave the building. They were dragged away by employes of the Animal Rescue League.

HUSBAND FAILS TO PROVE WIFE CRUEL

Kenneth Nuttall, of 1032 Mifflin street, Wilkinsburg, was refused a divorce from his wife, Georgette Nuttall, by Judge John A. Evans in Common Pleas Court yesterday. The case was heard some time ago, the husband charging the wife with cruel and barbarous treatment. The court averred that Nuttall had not proved his charge.

BIBLE AND JAZZ RESTORE CALM TO HAMMER GIRL

WATER HAMMERS FOUNDATIONS.

Raging flood waters of the Allegheny River at Lock No. 4, Braeburn, after passing over the dam, presenting a Jekyl and Hyde appearance. Yesterday crews of men worked frantically to erect a level that would stem the flow, which threatened to undermine houses and railroad tracks.

BUILD LEVEE TO STEM RISING WATERS.

Two hundred men are building a levee to stop the flood waters from undermining Lock No. 4 and inundating houses, the Braeburn Alloy Steel Company plant and the railroad station, all near the river bank. Slag is being placed in bags with concrete that will harden when wet by the waters.

AUTO FAILS AS AMPHIBIAN.

J. R. Lucas, of Braeburn, and his auto were caught in the flood when Lucas attempted to travel the Edgecliff-Braeburn road. He got out, but the machine stayed. Now it is anchored with a steel cable to a tree.

CALMER, VELMA MIXES JAZZ AND BIBLE

By CHARLES M. BAYER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 15.—Velma West has discovered the Bible, but she hasn't discarded jazz. She rose yesterday morning at 3:30 to examine the Good Book, but she tossed the Bible aside after a while, it is said, and sang a series of jazz songs, including "Oh, So Blue."

But she wasn't so very blue, it seemed. She had become "resigned to her situation, though her spirit is broken," her attorneys, Francis Poluson and Richard Bostwick, said. Having become resigned to circumstances arising from her striking a hammer with fatal force against the skull of her husband, T. Edward West, she has taken to letter writing, humming and singing tunes, magazine reading and an occasional excursion into the Bible. Her collapse, for the time being, at least, is over.

Velma is quite herself again. Which means that she again may be described as a woman of composure, albeit she faces a trial in which Lake county will seek to exact the death penalty.

For an hour and a half she was in conference with her lawyers. Following the talk, the attorneys went to the bungalow in which she killed her husband to make notes of the death room upstairs.

The first step in the effort to prove Velma mentally unbalanced since childhood was taken when the defense engaged Dr. H. Del Spence, former chief of the clinic of mental and nervous disease at Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, to test her mind. From a cursory reading of the case Dr. Spence said today: "If it had not been for the power of suggestion of the hammer being where she could see it, perhaps Velma West would never have slain her husband.

"If she had had to go somewhere to get that hammer, most likely she never would have thought of using it as a weapon. If it had been necessary to take the hammer and follow her husband upstairs the suggestion might have lost its power.

"She was a product of the new school of young people. She is fond of excitement and distractions.

"There was a lack of co-ordination between her emotions and reasoning power. In this case her emotions dominated her, and her reasoning power was unable to come to the rescue. There are two theories as to what caused her so-called indifference after the slaying." (Velma attended a bridge party and dance in Cleveland a few hours later.)

"It may have been mental derangement, or she may have been emotionally drained. The reason she could retain her calm when she was trying to establish an alibi may have been because her nervous system was numb with exhaustion.

"West and Velma Van Woert probably were mismated. uncongenialities in early married life are cumulative. A girl who begins by disapproving may end by hating. Then, if she has no emotion control, she could do anything possible. Many states recognize this and have allowed emotional pleas as immunity from punishment."

The Velma of today again was in strange contrast to the bewildered girl who cried and sobbed as an aftermath of her collapse at the preliminary hearing on Monday, when she was held to the grand jury on first-degree murder charges.

Meanwhile, reports were circulated freely here that the beautiful blonde would not welcome release over Christmas, nor would her parents. She is said to fear the crowds of curious and the notoriety she would attract.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Van Woert say they have no place to take Velma except to their home in East Cleveland, and they picture the crowds gathering before the house at her every appearance.

They would like to have her at home for Christmas dinner, but would rather have her stay in jail than create a public spectacle.

WILL MORRISSEY JAILED

No matter what happens, Will Morrissey's motto has been always "to leave 'em laughing when you say goodby." He is shown trying out his theory on his recent bride, Midgie Miller, under rather trying circumstances. Will has run afoul of the law and must face charges of contempt of court in Los Angeles.

RUTH AND JUDD SANE ENOUGH TO DIE

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The New York Daily Mirror, in a copyright story, says this morning:

Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray are sane enough to die in the electric chair.

That is the substance of a report agreed upon by three state alienists following their third examination of the condemned pair in Sing Sing prison's house of death Tuesday.

The report will be presented to Gov. Smith about December 21.

Ruth Snyder has written a poem. It follows:

"The cross I am bearing.
At times I feel I shall fall;
God gave it to me to carry,
He knows the weight of it all.
I'll not tire of my heavy cross,
But walk in the same old way
God pointed out for my very feet
That will lead to Heaven some day.

God gives us what in His sight is best,
To hold on fast and stumble not;
Go right on and take the test.
The reward of life's rugged path
Is eternal rest."

RUTH SNYDER.

IF YOU THINK IT'S EASY, TRY IT!

Learning that difficult Errol "fall" at headquarters are Elizabeth George, Eleanor Fitzgerald, Anna Louise Marshall, Margaret McCready, Florence Carroll, Nan Bunton, Florence Wainwright and Mary Lewis, all debutantes. How can that fall be combined with the dignified garb of the Gay Nineties?

STRIKERS WIN IN COURT

The conviction of 17 miners, on disorderly conduct charges, by Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon township, was reversed by Judge A. B. Reid in Common Pleas Court today. Striking miners, arrested while picketing the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company's mine, were arrested last October, and after a hearing before the justice were fined from $2 to $10 each.

Drunk 100 Times, Still Trying; He's Jailed

"How many times have you been arrested for being drunk?" Magistrate George H. England asked James McHenry, 52, in Central Police Court today.

"Well, Judge," Jim ruminated, "it must be pretty close to 100 by now."

"Ninety days!"

EX-BOXER GIVEN FOUR MONTHS

Austen Pays Tribute To Harry Davis, His Cousin, and Old Pittsburgh Stock Company

By GEORGE SEIBEL

THERE'S an actor in town this week—and he'll be here next week too—who calls Pittsburgh his home, although he was born in London and spent only a little over three years here. It is Leslie Austen, who has about the most important part in "The Wooden Kimono" at the Nixon. During 1906 to 1909, Mr. Austen played here in the old Harry Davis Stock Company, an organization that was a model of its kind. During those three seasons he played about 175 parts, and though he had been on the stage for two years in England he feels that he owes his education and training as an actor to the stern discipline he had in those old Pittsburgh days.

GEORGE SEIBEL

"I am intensely grateful to Mr. Davis," he said, "for bringing me over here. We are first cousins, but I revere him as a manager no less than as a relative. It was a great shock to me to hear of his grave illness when I came to Pittsburgh this week. He was a genius in the field of theatrical management. Pitsburgh owes much to him—and I owe much to him.

"That old stock company was a wonderful organization. I played under four leading women during my three seasons. First was Lillian Kemble; then there were Leah Winslow and Dora Andrews; last was Mary Hall, the most popular and versatile of them all. Her star here was just beginning to rise when I left the company for the road. After a short term in stock at Schenectady and Providence, I began to get good engagements, thanks to the training I had received in Pittsburgh.

"During these last 17 years I have played under such stars as Elsie Ferguson, Ethel Barrymore, Madge Kennedy, Jane Cowl, Frank Bacon and Henry Miller. But the best part I have ever had was Captain Eggleston in Shaw's 'Great Catharine,' in a series of Shaw and Dunsany plays put on in New York. I have always been waiting for another part like that. Of course, it is pleasant to be a figure in a great popular success like 'The Wooden Kimono,' but I suppose it's the nature of an actor to prefer what he likes rather than what the public likes."

"Perhaps we ought to have an institution for the education of audiences," I suggested.

"We have," he answered. "That's the theater. We're all teachers. Every play's a lesson. But in the end the audience has educated us, if we can learn. There's the school-bell now."

And he darted off to rap thunderously at the door of the Red Owl Tavern.

NEW BRITISH AIRSHIPS TO CARRY 100 PASSENGERS

Two mammoth airships now nearing completion for the British empire airship service are designed to carry 100 passengers each and 10 tons of mail. On a through airship journey from Australia to Canada, flying via South Africa and England, it is reckoned that the transit time would be under 18 days, as compared with 45 days by sea travel.

Dull, listless, out of sorts, feeling half-sick

IS it a cold coming on? Is it over-eating or what can it be? Probably it is Nature warning that your system is not functioning properly.

When you feel this way you should follow the treatment that has helped many, many other people. Even two weeks of it will make a difference in the way you feel.

A prominent New York physician says, "When my patients have that dull half-sick feeling I always prescribe Nujol and recommend at least two weeks' continued usage. Why? Because Nujol absorbs and clears away the toxic intestinal poisons that in most cases are the cause of the trouble. Further, Nujol is absolutely harmless and can be taken by young babies or old people."

Not like medicine

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It's a natural substance unlike anything else. Can't hurt you. Others have benefited from taking it, why not you?

This remarkable product is sold all over the world. Go to any druggist, get a bottle of Nujol and see for yourself what it will do. Only—don't delay. Do it now. Insist on the real Nujol. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

This Is Serious

MOLLY O'DAY evidently thinks donning the wedding gown is something to cause solemn thoughts, judging from the look in her eyes. Sally O'Neil is with her in the scene from "The Lovelorn," soon to be on the screen. It is a picturization of the Beatrice Fairfax serial now appearing in the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers.

"WOOD KIMONO" TO REMAIN

The second week of "Wooden Kimono, and, incidentally, the last, will open in the Nixon Monday, tickets for the extension having been placed on sale this morning. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

"Rose Marie," popular musical play, will come back to the Alvin for one week only, beginning Monday evening, December 19, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. In the cast are Beulah Berson, Paul Donah, Hazel Gaudreau, Charles Meakins, Peggy Pates, Houston Rickards, Daisy Gibson, Sano Marco, Ross Gibson, Neil Moore. The sale of seats opened this morning.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville booked for the Davis next week features Mayo & Lynn in a comedy skit. On the screen will be Charles Murray and George Sidney in "The Life of Riley."

"Banjo-Land," a group of six exponents of that instrument and Loretta Dennison, will top the vaudeville in the Harris next week. Tom Mix, in "Silver Valley," is the screen feature in which Mix is an aviator. Santa Claus will be in the Harris each day at 4:30 p. m. to give prizes to the kiddies.

"Body and Soul," based on Katherine Newlin Burt's "The Branding Iron," a story of the Swiss Alps, with a cast including Aileen Pringle, Norman Kerry, Lionel Barrymore and T. Roy Barnes, will be shown next week i the Penn.

Harry Carey, famous cowboy hero, discards his western clothes in "A Little Journey," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy, coming to Loew's Aldine next week. Claire Windsor and William Haines are featured with him.

"Now We're in the Air," with Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, comes to the Grand next week. The program also includes a stage feature.

In the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square next week, Alice Donohue, sister of Jack, is featured. The two screen bookings are "High School Hero" and George Jessel in "Ginsberg the Great."

"Hollywood Scandals," headed by Buddie Harrison, comes to the Academy next week. Sammy Spear, Jean Fox and Edna Rush are in the cast.

"Underworld" will move from the screen of the Grand to the Olympic next week. There also will be a vitaphone program.

SEVERAL ORCHESTRAS BOOKED FOR SANDERS'

Dance orchestras and auxiliary entertainment are announced for the holiday season in Sanders, on Freeport highway, Aspinwall. Beginning Saturday night, Fletcher Henderson's Stompers Orchestra will play the second engagement of the season. Saturday night, December 24, Gordon Kibbler will bring his recording orchestra of 17 musicians to Sanders for the first of the holiday dances. Monday night, December 26, Al Maybe and his Old Gold Orchestra play, followed by a return engagement of Kibbler New Year's Eve. Al Maybe will play again Monday, January 2.

TALLEST POLICE OFFICER DEMOTED FOR DRINKING

The police trial board yesterday recommended that Lieut. Clarence Timmons be reduced to the rank of patrolman after it had heard a charge of intoxication made against him by Inspector Charles Faulkner. Timmons did not appear to make a defense. The lieutenant is the tallest and heaviest member of the Bureau of Police and works out of the Woods Run station.

Conrad Nagel Signs Contract With Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Squashing "Discipline" Rumors

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.

THERE was talk, when Conrad Nagel led the actors in their recent war against the 10 per cent cut in salaries, that he would be disciplined. Grave mutterings and whisperings to the effect that when Mr. Nagel's contract expired, next May, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer would find a way to dispose of him and other companies would follow suit.

Louis B. Mayer effectively put an end to all this gossip yesterday by exercising the option of Mr. Nagel's contract and signing him for a term of years with M.-G.-M, at a salary agreeable to both. Mr. Mayer, who is spending his Christmas holidays with his family, who are in the East, arranged the Nagel contract just before he took the train for New York.

In answer to my question whether or not it was true that M. G. M. had agreed to loan Conrad Nagel to Warners for one picture during the coming year, he replied: "It is more than likely that we shall let Warners have Conrad Nagel for one or two pictures this coming year. He made five for them this last year."

Conrad has been hoping against hope that he will not have to go to the South Seas islands for four months to play the male lead in "Southern Skies." There is a strong chance that he will join the expedition in that tropical clime shortly after the holidays. It all depends whether or not they can get anyone who can fill the role called for in Robert Flaherty's picture as well as Conrad Nagel.

Enthusiastic word comes from New York from Maria Corda and Margaret Ettinger. Apparently the Hungarian actress captivated Manhattan with her first American appearances, for the notices on "Helen of Troy" were flattering and her reception exceedingly good. They leave Friday for home, journeying via San Francisco, where they will attend the opening of "Helen of Troy" in that city. There is talk that "The Road to Rome," Jane Cowl's current Broadway production, will be Miss Corda's next American film. "The Road to Rome" is Robert Sherwood's story of Hannibal's march to the gates of Rome, and his reason for not taking possession. A woman, of course, is at the bottom of the trouble. It's as modern as Erskine's "Helen of Troy," and as delightfully satirical.

We can heartily commend Thomas Meighan for his sensible decision in choosing comedy for his first role for Caddo Productions. With Lewis Milestone, the director responsible for "Two Arabian Knights" and other excellent comedies, it couldn't be anything else but comedy. Tommy and his director were lunching together at the Montmartre yesterday and both of them lamented that they hadn't yet found Tommy's first comedy. Let's hope it will be as amusing as "Two Arabian Knights."

Every youngster between 16 and 25 in the movies—that is, every male youngster—has had his eye on "Harold Teen's," Robert Kane's picture, which goes into production shortly after the holidays. The chances are now that Arthur Lake will get the coveted role. Arthur Lake is the boy who made his debut as a screen actor in "The Cradle Snatcher." He certainly looks young enough to be in his freshman year in high school, and I understand he isn't much more than 17 or 18.

Free lancing has meant Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to Ernest Torrence for the last three or four months. He just enters on his third successive picture, having finished "The Cossacks" with Jack Gilbert, and now he begins "China Bound," with Ramon Novarro. He plays Ramon's half-brother, and it is reasonable to assume he is not the kind, speaking of his film character, one would invite to drop in for a cup of tea.

Bill and Ann Have Dinner Together—A Strange Situation Arises

IT WAS later than she thought. Bill would be waiting on the corner he'd mentioned. She hurried out. When she got there at last, there was no sign of Bill. It was almost 10 minutes later before he appeared. He was walking casually, as if he had all the time in the world.

"What's the matter?" she asked a little irritably.

"Nothing."

"Well, I've been here 20 minutes." Another falsehood, they seemed to come easily these days!

"Have you?" He did not explain or apologize, but simply ended briefly: "Come on—let's eat. I'm hungry."

An unhappiness too subtle to be defined stirred Ann. Across the table she looked at Bill. Still young, still cocksure and charming and reliable, but nevertheless seemed less perfect than when she had first known him.

She fought back that traitorous criticism, forcing herself to look for the good qualities, the appealing things in him, and a little glow filled her for the moment. She was proud of him, deeply proud. It wouldn't be hard to forgive him anything.

The food was making him better natured, too. He told her about his day in the office, about the politics that made his struggle towards success so unendurably slow. She listened and gave him good advice.

He touched her hand across the table. But it was a gentle touch, almost an approving one. It had been done indifferently. Never mind—he had things to worry him, things to concentrate on. After all, a man couldn't really be expected to think of nothing except love every minute!

But Ann had decided tonight to set a date for the wedding. Bill had spoken vaguely of next month. It was time to decide really when they should marry. No use waiting. It might be a year or two before his salary really climbed, and in a year or two—well, everything might be different in a year or two!

As for living economically, Ann had confidence in herself. She knew she could make one dollar do the work of two. They would have enough to live, and if they were happy, what did they want riches for? Not yet, anyway.

She would suggest a date for next month. Bill, of course, would demand an earlier date. She would reason with him. . .

"Bill, I've been thinking. What about the twenty-fifth of next month—I mean we might—we might—"

She did not need to finish her sentence. But he was strangely thoughtful. After a pause he said:

"Are you sure it isn't too early? Maybe if we waited another month." . . .

She did not even hear his reason. She knew only that when at last she was home, she was plunged in a depression deeper than any she had ever known. And one thought stood up starkly in her thoughts: Would Bill have asked Georgie to wait like that?

CHAPTER XXXII.

MANY things had happened to Georgie Hastings. They were not adventures, they were more important things, new ideas that altered her viewpoint, a new realization that had stamped her character.

She had been genuinely fascinated by Ernest Brooks. She had lived a romantic and impossible dream that had crumbled before her eyes. The picture of herself as an artist's wife, living in the strange places of the world, moving in a whirl of exciting happenings, had given way to the truth. He was married. He had lied to her, waiting to desert her.

The shock of that knowledge had awakened all her instinctive wisdom. Suddenly she saw that Ann was right, that since life was reality, it was not Ernest Brooks she must turn to, or any of his kind. And her straying thoughts and hopes had come back to Bill Warren.

She had looked down on him before for his unsophistication, his lack of worldly knowledge. He didn't know head waiters in smart restaurants; he couldn't act bored and insolent; he hadn't lived all over the globe and had innumerable experiences!

But now she saw him in his true light, and she was amazed that she had not realized before what he stood for.

Even before she had spoken to Ann, she felt herself ready to make up with Bill, ready to thank the unknown elements of chance that had brought her to her senses.

So it was that Ann's statement that she herself was going to marry him had come as a crushing blow. But the Georgie who would have rebelled, who would have shown that her own desires would yield to nothing else in the world, had vanished.

Often she remembered the calm way in which she had told Ann she was glad, and told her that she herself would think of Bill Warren no longer.

But the stark untruthfulness of it was to haunt her. Now that Bill was really lost to her, his attraction was deepened a hundred-fold. She couldn't get him out of her thoughts. She remembered suddenly things that he said to her, ways that he had looked at her. She remembered matters like this at unexpected moments, as she bent above her typewriter, as she drank a glass of milk at noon, as she lay sleepless at night.

Not think of Bill Warren any more? Why she had never thought half so much of anyone in her life.

But there was Ann, who loved him, too. The thing was settled. Georgie, with all her longings, had stepped aside.

As the weeks passed a mood of recklessness, and tired bitterness, came over her.

She felt if Bill were lost to her, nothing else greatly mattered. There was no use hoping that another Bill would appear. She didn't even want that. If she couldn't take everything, she was willing to take nothing.

After all, she was young, pretty. Girls, no prettier, were successful on the stage, in the movies. Girls, who were not half so clever, lived luxuriously, without ever being harmed. The world had changed; it was no longer a mere choice between marrying or not marrying; now it was having a good time or not having one!

You couldn't take things too seriously; you had to have an open mind, and be free. There was a lot of pleasure in the world, and it was yours if you wanted to take it.

She did not know that these things were in her mind. They had crept so stealthily into her philosophy. But she knew them, all at once, on the day when she saw Ernest Brooks once more.

She had been waiting for a trolley. A roadster purred past, just as it had on that day long ago, when she had seen him for the first time.

Their eyes met, but there was no light of recognition in hers. The car vanished, but Georgie was conscious of a feeling of triumph. She was under no illusions about Ernest. She felt that sooner or later he would appear at Mrs. O'Leary's and ask to see her.

Well—let him—she might even see him. It would be exciting to have him dancing attendance on her and be able to send him away. It would be a pleasant revenge for the humiliation he had put upon her.

Before she was aware of it, the roadster was drawing up at the curb. Ernest got out and raised his hat.

"I've got something to tell you, Georgie," he said.

The trolley came rattling up and Georgie started for it. Ernest seized her arm. "It's about my wife—" he spoke hurriedly—"She's dead."

Georgia hesitated. "Will you let me take you home?"

She got into the roadster—

As they rode he explained his unexpected return. "I stayed only a few days. I caught the next steamer back after I got a cable."

He took his eyes from the road and gave her a swift, inquiring glance.

"You've changed," he said.

"Have I? Oh, I don't think so."

"Well, I expected you to hate me—at least to cut me—"

He hesitated, and then said slowly:

"I was mad about you. I was willing to say anything to you, if I could only get you."

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

HOW long Philip Veritzen's discussion of his plans for the coming theatrical season would have lasted were it not for an interruption I do not know. Thrilled by his apparently unconscious tribute to my understanding of his problems, lost in fascinated interest at the brilliance of his thoughts translated into words of rare strength and beauty, I had no idea of the passage of time until a chilly little breeze struck my shoulders, the percursor, I realized, of the evening coolness, and I shivered involuntarily.

Mr. Veritzen left a sentence in midair and rose abruptly.

"You are cold," he said solicitously and added with authority, "Your cloak."

He took the wrap from the chair across which the waiter carefully had laid it, and unfolded it. Without protest I rose and he assisted me into it; then seating me again with the deferential courtesy which is his, he turned to Lillian, bent over her drawing board in the absorption which is always hers when she is working. I have heard Dicky say that Lil would keep on drawing through an earthquake if only the tremors permitted her to hang on to her drawing board and keep it in front of her.

"What ho, Comrade!" he said, smiling as he crossed the balcony to her side, lifting her coat from a chair as he went. "Come down from the rigging long enough to realize that it is getting chilly."

Characteristically she finished the stroke of her pencil and made another before she looked up at him. Then she flashed a glance at me, laid down the pencil, rose leisurely from her chair and held out her arms for the coat Mr. Veritzen was holding.

"Thank you so much, old dear," she said, smiling at him. "Not alone for the coat, but for the chance to work in this heavenly place. I've accomplished marvels. But what o'clock must it be?"

She twisted her wrist watch so that her eyes rested on its face and gave a little gasp of surprise. A surreptitious glance at my own a second before had shown me the same startling information.

"Five o'clock!" she exclaimed, "and we're hours and miles from home."

"Not an appalling number of either," Mr. Veritzen said. "There's only one question to be decided. Shall we wait and have supper here before driving home, or shall we sup at that restaurant on the Drive overlooking the river and the Palisades after we get back?"

"The Drive restaurant by all means for me," Lillian answered decidedly. "It will be moonlight tonight, and nothing could be more heavenly than supping there with with the river just below. Do I know you well enough, Madge, to be sure that you echo my sentiments?"

"Assuredly you do!" I told her, smiling.

"Then," Mr. Veritzen said briskly, "we'll just have a fortifying cup of tea up here and start immediately afterward."

Lillian put her arms akimbo and stared at him.

"Because you can imitate an anaconda and still keep your 'figger' is no reason for less fortunate people like Madge and me to try the same stunt," she told him impudently. "You don't want tea, anyway. You'll find the drink you want on the way out while we are getting settled in the car. So—let's go."

Mr. Veritzen laughed, evidently experiencing the amusement with which Lillian's intimates receive her sallies.

"As you wish, of course," he said. Then he turned to me.

"If you don't mind helping me with these papers," he suggested deferentially, and I bent over the table with him, while he swiftly separated his manuscripts and notes into two piles, one large, one small.

"We's gone exhaustively into these," he said, indicating the larger pile, which he swiftly packed away in portfolios. "But these"—he picked up the smaller bundle, fastened it securely with rubber bands and put it with the portfolios in the emergency bag—"we have still to go over."

With a sudden return to realities I wondered apprehensively when and where he meant me to share in the "going over" process.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma, or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DEATH ROLL

Thomas F. Kinsel.

Thomas Frederick Kinsel, 57, for more than a quarter of a century attached to the Carnegie Steel Company and known throughout the country in steel circles, died Tuesday night of pneumonia at his home in Patterson Heights, Beaver Falls. At the time of his death Mr. Kinsel was secretary to the president of the Carnegie Steel Company, W. G. Clyde, and had been Clyde's secretary for a number of years. Mr. Kinsel was born in Shiloh, O., and had been a resident of Beaver Falls for the past 27 years. Previous to his coming with the Carnegie Steel Company he was connected with the National Steel Company of Youngstown. For more than 20 years he had been secretary of the purchasing agents' committee of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation, through which agency he came in contact with interests in all sections of the country. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Jessie B. Kinsel; his mother, Mrs. A. E. Kinsel; two sons, Harry J. and James Kinsel; two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence M. Johnson and Miss Ethel L. Kinsel; two grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. H. H. Hunter, of Chicago, and Mrs. S. Hedeen, of Bucyrus, O., and four brothers, John B. and E. O. Kinsel, of Shiloh, O., C. V. R. Kinsel, of Shelbyville, O., and O. L. Kinsel, of Plymouth, O.

Mrs. James Chappel.

Mrs. Lydia Dutton Chappel, 58, wife of James Chappel, of 602 Seventh avenue, Carnegie, died in Mercy Hospital yesterday. Mrs. Chappel was born in Carnegie, the daughter of Richard and Caroline Dutton, and had resided in the borough all her life. She was married in 1888 to James Chappel at Carnegie. She was a member of the Carnegie Methodist Episcopal Church. Beside her husband she leaves four sons, Joseph, Carl, Harry and James Chappel, Jr., all of Carnegie; five daughters, Mrs. Sarah Graham of East Carnegie, Mrs. Elizabeth Dinwiddie of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Clara Quigley of Bridgeville and Mrs. Earl Jones and Mrs. Helen Deschler of Carnegie, and nine grandchildren. Funeral services will be held from the home of her son, Joseph Chappel, 419 West Main street, Carnegie, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. E. H. Stamm.

Mrs. Rose Essex Stamm, wife of Edward H. Stamm, 2527 Gerber avenue, North Side, who died Tuesday night, will be buried tomorrow.

Mrs. Stamm was born in Washington 41 years ago, and had made her home in Pittsburgh since 1912. She leaves her husband and three brothers, Alfred D. Essex, of Bellevue, and Edward S. Essex and Harry Essex of Washington. Mrs. Stamm was a member of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church, of the Women's Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward; chairman of the Students' Aid Committee, was active in community association work and was a member of the board of registration of the district in which she made her home. Mrs. Stamm was taking part in a welfare bazar at the time she was stricken ill last Saturday. Funeral services will be private.

George C. Albright.

George C. Albright, 43, former Pittsburgh business man, died Monday in his home at Albuquerque, N. M., according to word received here yesterday. Mr. Albright was a native of the West End of Pittsburgh and at one time lived in Sheraden. He was a member of the Sheraden Methodist Episcopal Church. While here he was associated with the A. W. McCloy Company and the Marshall Office Furniture Company. He had lived in New Mexico for the last seven years. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Bertha Rauh Albright; three sons, Maitland, Harwood and Kenneth Albright; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Leibelt and Katherine Albright.

Samuel B. Hormell.

Samuel B. Hormell, 72, of 735 North Beatty street, died suddenly in his home on Tuesday. Mr. Hormell was born in Brownsville, a son of Nelson and Ruth Baker Hormell. He had been a resident of Pittsburgh for the past 32 years. He was a member of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church and Pittsburgh Lodge No. 2, Odd Fellows. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Edith May Ferguson Hormell; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Lee Hamilton, Sr., and Mrs. George Wise, Jr.; a brother, Robert Hormell of Seattle, Wash.; a sister, Mrs. James Dennison of Dennison, O., and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Emma L. McConnell.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Langdon McConnell, widow of Benjamin F. McConnell, former resident of the Pittsburgh district, who died Monday in Mt. Holly, N. Y., will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Homer Oakley funeral chapel, Monterey street, under the direction of the Abe Patterson Post No. 88, Relief Corps No. 5, Grand Army of the Republic. Mrs. McConnell leaves three children, Ada McConnell of Pittsburgh, Charles McConnell of Mt. Holly, N. Y., and Mrs. Howard Williams of Camden, N. J. Mrs. McConnell lived in Glenfeld and Haysville.

J. Henry Lang.

J. Henry Lang, 47, former Pittsburgher, died yesterday on his ranch at Redcliffe, Alberta, Canada. He was born in the North Side and was a member of the Presbyterian Church and the Union Fraternal Lodge. He leaves his parents, John J. Lang, Sr., and Mrs. Charlotte Metz Lang, of the North Side; one brother, John J. Lang, Jr., and five sisters, Misses Myrtle L., Gertrude S. and Juniata Lang, Mrs. Harry M. Dietz and Mrs. Edwin Zoller, alll of Pittsburgh.

Gerald F. Greacen.

Gerald F. Greacen, 49, died yesterday in his home, 6420 Darlington road. Mr. Greacen was a member of the Episcopal Church. He was born in Baltimore and came to Pittsburgh three years ago. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Rowles Greacen of Pittsburgh; a son, John F. Greacen, and a daughter, Miss Marjorie E. Greacen, both of New York, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas S. Everitt of Baltimore.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Fatigue Enemy of Human Happiness.

DR COPELAND

FATIGUE is the cause of more battles than have accompanied all the wars of history. Fortunately most of those battles have been bloodless. The ammunition has been disagreeable words, not bullets. But such battles have been fatal to happiness and domestic harmony. They have driven children from home and many a person to crime.

Good nature, readiness to discuss quietly a debatable question, and general amiability are involved in this question. You cannot have these qualities in a person who is worn out from worry or hard work. Fatigue is fatal to them.

The most trying time in any man's life is between the hours or 4 and 7 in the afternoon. He is worn out from his day's work. He is cross and irritable. He is bound to be crusty and snappy. Even though he is gentleman enough to hide his real feelings, he is in a dangerous mood.

Any woman who has worked till her back aches and her head is bursting, is close to an explosion of temper and harsh words. An outburst now might destroy a home.

Many a child is fretful and tearful, cross and disagreeable—symptoms due wholly to over-fatigue. The atmosphere of peace and quiet is destroyed by the poor child becoming over-tired.

To give way to temper and to do so habitually is to invite disease. The nervous system is undermined, the digestion is disturbed, and the health is impaired.

The already overtaxed child is whipped for his bad manners. The disposition is ruined by repeated punishments.

The demands of the modern school exhaust the energies of the pupil. The parents must give due regard to this fact in dealing with a worn out child.

Over-fatigue leads to restless sleep, bad dreams and unrefreshing slumber. It lessens the appetite. It leads to the temptation of taking stimulants and other drugs.

Business men, housewives and all others who can control their own movements should so order their affairs that periods of relaxation give opportunity for rest and refreshment. Employers of labor, teachers, office directors and all who control the activities of others should be merciful to the arrangement of work schedules. Rest and recreation periods should be provided.

These suggestions make for better workmanship. There will be a greater output of satisfactory work if those who labor are not broken down by fatigue. The accidents on the streets and in the shops are more frequent at the end of the day. Fatigue lessens the mental alertness and the physical reactions.

You should guard against excessive tiredness. It is indecent to be lazy, but, if you can help it, it is wicked to be tired all the time.

Answers to Health Queries.

F. O. Q.—What do you advise for oily hair?

2.—I am a girl of 16, five feet one inch tall—what should I weigh?

3.—What will correct sluggish elimination?

A.—Careful shampooing and rinsing and the use of a good hair tonic should bring about results. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—You should weigh about 112 pounds.

3.—Proper diet, plenty of water between meals and regular outdoor exercise should bring about results. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

D. E. Q.—I am a girl of 12, 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighing about 128¼ pounds. How much should I weigh and how can I reduce?

A.—By cutting down on sweets and starches and taking regular systematic outdoor exercises daily. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. Your weight should be 119 pounds.

E. M. N. Q.—I am 21 years of age, 5 ft. 9 in. tall. What should I weigh? How much overweight am I? I weigh 176 pounds.

2.—Would anemia be apt to cause night sweats? My mother is 56 and weighs 204 pounds. If not, what would cause the trouble?

A.—You should weigh about 155 pounds. Restrict your diet in regard to sweets and starchy foods and take plenty of outdoor exercise. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—It might be. An examination would probably locate the exact cause of the trouble.

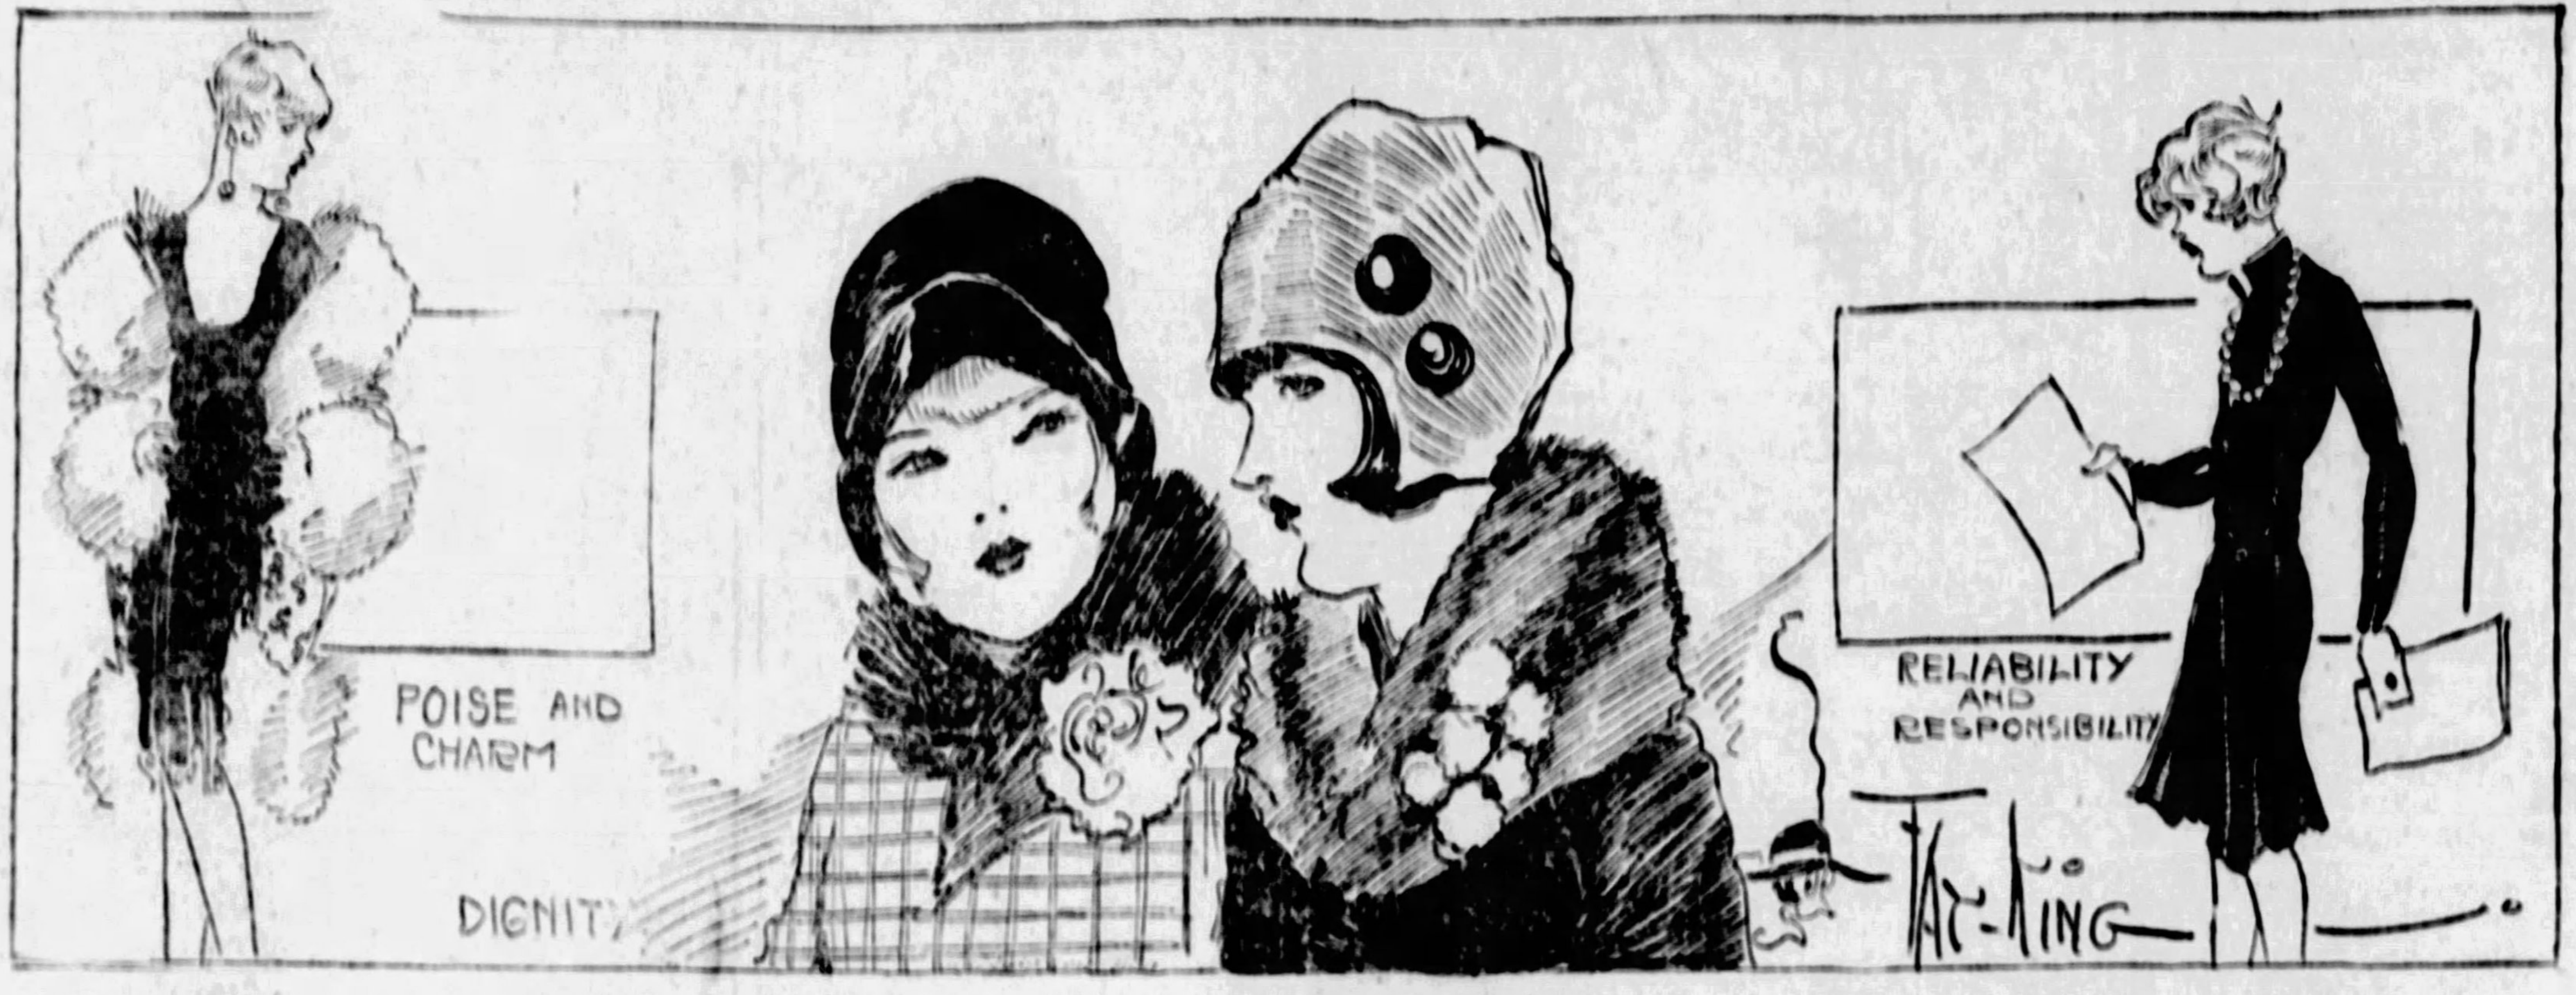
Gay Giggling Girls Gone, Fay King Observes



By FAY KING

IT SEEMS to me that the "silly giggling girl" has completely disappeared!

Every time I ride uptown at the crowded hour with the countless girls who are leaving their offices and stores I notice how quiet they are. How busy reading their papers and books.

Even when they talk with one another you rarely hear that old familiar "he said" and "I said" and then those empty peals of laughter that sound so vacant!

Young as many of these girls are they have poise and dignity.

One does not hear so much of that silly lisping baby talk that was once so popular. Girls no longer look about them with that silly wide-eyed baby stare. There is a level, impersonal glance from their eyes.

They are not forever side-glancing flirtatiously at every man.

When you visit a large office in which many girls are employed, you see them silently busy at their desks. They may wear gay colored dresses. They may rouge and lipstick, but there is an air of efficiency and serious concentration.

They do not feel that it is necessary to go to their work unpowdered and armored in starched unbecoming desk uniforms to inspire respect for themselves or their ability.

Their manner and dignity are sufficient.

When one passes a group of girls together during the noon hour in a hall or lobby one is not attracted to them by an endless chatter like parrots.

It seems to me the girl of today has cultivated a finer, more dignified, personality.

She does not blush and giggle and grow silly at the mere approach of a man!

I, for one, think that the modern girl has poise, charm and dignity. That she is reliable and true to her trust of responsibility. That she need not look like a sour missionary in the funny papers to maintain this standard, seems to me as a greater credit to her.

Horoscope

Friday, December 16.

THE general trend of affairs for this day is unpropitious, excepting for the possibility of an offer or an opening with some large corporation or secret society.

There is a presage of a sudden change or journey, which should be undertaken with prudence. The financial prospects are hazardous and the employment is to be safeguarded. Personal affiliations may be under slight inharmonies.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by an unexpected change or journey which should be wisely handled in order to reap benefit. A change of employment is indicated. A connection with a close corporation or a secret organization would be to the advantage, since finesse or strategem would be required.

Notable Nativity: Giovanni Battista Donati, Italian astronomer.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

CANNED CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

HELEN ROWLAND

EVERYTHING comes cut, dried and canned, these days, from home-cooking and love-making to your Christmas shopping.

Once, Christmas shopping was the terror and tragedy of a man's life. The problem of how to find something to give "HER," which would show a lot of personal thought, breathe devotion and tender significance, and at the same time not look like a declaration or be negotiable in a breach-of-promise suit, faced a man in all its grimness, every December.

Now, all that is changed! No more staggering blindly and dizzily through department stores, like a lost soul, dodging umbrellas, hunting through book shops or waiting behind the crowd at jewelry counters.

All he has to do, is to pick up the telephone receiver and breathe a number softly into the florist's ear; and behold, a box of her favorite flowers will reach her anywhere from Florida to California.

Or, he can just trip across to the telegraph office, pick out another number, and lo, a beautifully expressed telegram will brighten her Christmas morning!

Or he can merely glance over a list from the gift-shop, the hosiery shop, the furrier's or the jeweler's, mark off the thing that strikes his fancy, and all the rest will be done for him, even to the fancy tissue paper and the bunch of holly in the ribbons.

Even if there are half a dozen "Hers" in his life, the same numbers and duplicate orders will serve for all of them, provided no two of them live in the same apartment house.

And yet—and yet—do you remember the sweet old days, when he blundered around trying to find just the thing you'd like, and finally showed up on Christmas morning with a little gold heart and a copy of your favorite poet and a bunch of violets and a really CONVINCING kiss?

Somehow, canned things DON'T have the same flavor—do they?

FOR THE LOVELORN

Puzzled

DEAR MISS GALE:

Since you give such wonderful advice I would like to have some. I am a girl of 16. I like a boy who is eight years my senior. I can't say I love him, as I realize I am too young to know what love is. Now this boy has wanted to make several dates with me, but I always had to refuse because my parents say I am too young to have boy friends. Do you think I am too young to go out with the boys? Should I meet this boy secretly or should I give him up as a friend?

PUZZLED.

Your parents are quite right, my dear. But don't degrade yourself by meeting this boy secretly. If he really likes you he will wait until you are old enough to go out with him.

A Perfect Lady

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a reader of your interesting column and just want to write a few lines in answer to a "Perfect Gentleman's" letter. Yes, there are a few good girls about, but they are not easily found. I am not old-fashioned, but do not smoke, drink, gamble or dance, but like all clean sports and like good wholesome books to read, and like to drive a machine, and am very fond of music. On the other hand it is hard to find a good man; would like to meet a man of your type. I wish to remain

A PERFECT LADY.

Since your letter is addressed to one of my correspondents, I shall make no comment on it.

BEST IN PITTSBURGH THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 19

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

THOUGH the baseball fans of the Pittsburgh district were disappointed at the failure of Manager Owen Bush of the Pirates to put through even one of the deals he had in mind for a pitcher and catcher or infielder during the big league meetings in New York this week, they applaud the judgment of the little skipper in holding on to his present men rather than part with them for inferior material.

Bush evidently could not induce other clubs to give him what he wanted in exchange for his trading timber, and in view of the fact that he would have been weakening instead of strengthening his team by accepting a poorer grade of goods his decision not to make any trades is to be commended.

NOTHING could have been gained but on the contrary considerable might have been lost, if the Buccaneer commander had consented to listen to some of the propositions reported made to him as counter offers to his own trading proposals.

Bush was not seeking deals merely for the purpose of making changes in his club. His object was to add strength to his forces, and when he could not get the right sort of timber for such an improvement he was warranted in refusing to make any deals at all.

The result only goes to prove once more the sagacity of the Pirate manager and to demonstrate that he knows his stuff too well to make it possible for any rival pilot to put anything over on him.

BESIDES, it does not necessarily follow that all chance for a deal has flown just because Bush's efforts this week were not productive of anything in that line. There is a long winter ahead, and possibly there will be developments during that period that will enable Bush to make a trade or two in plenty of time for the 1928 season.

Meanwhile, it must be admitted that he did the right thing in refusing to give up such trading material as Johnny Gooch, Vic Aldridge, Hal Rhyne and others for men who would be of less value to the local club.

AS A matter of fact, some of the wags are apt to remark that he really did strengthen the team by getting rid of Pitcher Emil Yde and Catcher Roy Spencer. Both had been booked for release for some time.

Yde has been practically worthless here for some time, and though Spencer is a dependable hitter against left-hand pitchers and is better than either Gooch or Smith at pursuing and catching foul flies, there were other defects in his catching that made it seem improbable he would ever get beyond the ranking of a second-string backstop here.

THAT Manager Bush has another catcher in view who is a right-hand hitter seems a safe guess, as he

Pro-'Am' Battles Tonight

A PROFESSIONAL show at McKeesport and an amateur show at the Y. M. H. A. feature the boxing program for tonight.

Ray Fay of Charleroi and Dick Gibbons of McKeesport meet in the 10-round windup at McKeesport. Jack Bany and K. O. Ferry, both of McKeesport, will be seen in the semi-final, Jackie Rodgers and Ray Schauers, flyweights, both of the North Side, will box the second bout and Ed Gibbons, brother of Dick, makes his professional debut against Ray Braun of Lawrenceville in the opening bout, which, like the windup, is a heavyweight affair.

Eight bouts make up the Y. M. H. A. amateur card, as follows:

Sam Paris, Willow Club, vs. George Evans, unattached, 112 pounds; Mike Hogan, unattached, vs. Bob Garland, Jeannette, 135 pounds; L. Payne, Superior A. A., vs. Eddie Hebner, Clairton, 135 pounds; Bob Smoller, North Side, vs. L. Schnitzer, Broughton, 147 pounds; J. Petro, Clairton, vs. A. Dothard, unattached, 160 pounds; Ernie Sesto, Willow Club, vs. Young Angelo, Swissvale, 125 pounds; Frank Julien, Large, vs. H. Turner, Superior, 147 pounds; A. Local Athlete Is Honored on Coast

Stanley A. Rogers, former South Hills High School basketball player, now a member of the air squadron of the San Diego naval base, was one of the outstanding ends engaged in service football on the Pacific Coast, according to selections recently announced in California.

Rogers played a brilliant game at right end for his team and his appointment to the all-service eleven was unanimous. Rogers is a son of S. A. (Dad) Rogers, former manager of the Allentown Turners, last year a member of the Allegheny County League.

Rogers, it is said, played a prominent part in giving the San Diego naval base team third place among the rankings of the coast service elevens. Before enlisting in the Navy, Rogers was one of the stars on the Allentown Turner quintet, at that time one of the leading fives engaged in basketball hereabouts.

OWNERS SET TO STAND PAT ON DRAFT

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The National and American League owners were due to start their annual meeting shortly after noon today, with Judge Landis, commissioner of the sport, in the chair. Although a number of questions are to be considered, with the draft problem getting much attention, the baseball folks expected to complete their labors before they partake of their evening meal.

TILDEN AROUSES IRE OF NET MOGULS

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Mr. Bill Tilden, who may or may not amount to something in deciding whether we recover or do not recover the Davis Cup, has announced himself as being willing to compete in Europe while our harrowing amateurs are doing the best they can in America. The writer has information that Tilden will not be a member of the team at all or in any part.

He got his information from a member of the Lawn Tennis Association and to divulge the latter's identity would be a breach of confidence.

"When a man pulls a gun on you, what do you do?" inquired an official of the tennis association today. "If you can get rid of him, you do. That's all I have to say about Mr. Tilden's speculation."

BILL HUGHES SOLD

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Sale of Bill Hughes, Portland right-handed pitcher to the Missions was announced here today. The deal was for cash but the terms were not announced.

'KENSINGTON GRIDDER VILLA NOVA LEADER

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—Louis Pessalano of New Kensington, Pa., was elected to captain the 1928 Villa Nova football team at a meeting of the letter men yesterday afternoon. The selection was unanimous.

Pessalano, who weighs 222 pounds, has been a regular tackle on the Blue and White team for the last three seasons, and has been one of the main factors in the wonderful showing of the main line eleven during that time. Pessalano succeeds Paul Kuczo, quarterback, as captain.

Crack Shots!

STUDENTS PREPARE FOR NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES

Members of Carnegie Tech's rifle shooting squad, which is entered in the William Randolph Hearst national competition for educational institutions having reserve officer cadet corps units. Pitt and West Virginia University also are entered, together with some of the smaller schools of this section, which will compete in the junior and high school classes. The larger colleges are in the senior competition. More than 300 institutions already have entered and the shooting may be done any time between February 15 and April 15. Competition is with a .22 from four positions, standing, sitting, kneeling and prone. Each team consists of five men and each institution may enter one or more teams. Tech has two entrants. They are coached by Lieut. J. C. Arrowsmith. Each member of the team gets 20 shots, five from each position. The official targets are forwarded to the headquarters of the Sixth Corps Area, Chicago, where they are scored. A large cup trophy is awarded for the national championship and shields will be given for the championships of the East, Mid-West, West and South. The object of the annual competition is to foster better marksmanship in the R. O. T. C. The Tech squad practices over the indoor ranges in the basement of the Margaret Morrison School. Above are four members of the squad in three of the four shooting positions. Left to right they are C. H. Weatherell, A. M. Fisher, Jr., W. D. Bronson and G. W. Fisher.

STATE FLYWEIGHT TOURNEY ARRANGED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(UP.)—The State Athletic Commission has decided upon an elimination tournament to decide the flyweight champion of Pennsylvania.

Matty White and Midget Wolgast, both of Philadelphia, will mix here tonight and Marty Gold of Philadelphia and Billy Kelley of Scranton, either Christmas or New Year's Day, with the winners to be matched later.

It is notable that Willie Davies of Charleroi, until recently considered the state champion in the division, has been left out of the preliminaries.

TO HONOR CHAMPS AT NEW YORK DINNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Madison Square Garden Club, commonly known as the "600 millionaires," announced today that a banquet would be tendered champions in all major sports on January 4. Outstanding representatives of five sports already have informed a committee, headed by Charles M. Schwab, steel king, and Walter Chrysler, automobile magnate, that they will attend the banquet.

SOCCER by TOM BIRKS

THE action of the American Soccer League is to be commended in scheduling the Harmarville-Heidelberg league game contingent to the playing of the Clan Grant-Harmarville game in the National Amateur Cup. At the present time there is considerable doubt as to whether the up-river organization will play a Sunday game in the National competition. Last season Clan Grant entered the tourney, but would not travel to Heidelberg for a Sunday game and naturally forfeited the game.

HOWEVER there is every reason to believe that Wilson and his comrades would prove to be a good drawing card in the amateur. Clan Grant has one of the best teams in the district, and there is a tendency to underrate them. But should the Grant aggregation make up its mind to play the Whippets it should play to a capacity crowd.

HAD quite an interesting letter from our old friend Jock McKenzie, and as usual that typical Scotchman starts out by talking soccer. Jock probably talks soccer in his sleep. Anyway, Jock is now with the Whippets and naturally boosts his own aggregation. McKenzie is probably right when he says that Robinson has a tough job with practically all of his stars away where work is more plentiful. But Harmarville should pack them in on Sunday when one of two good clubs, Clan Grant or Heidelberg will provide the opposition.

MARSHALL, who fills in his spare time playing goal for the Internationals, will be back in the game this week-end, the suspension imposed being lifted by the league delegates at the session Tuesday.

IT HAS been a long time since the Castle Shannon field saw a large crowd, but there is a possibility that when Sickles and his comrades from Mustard Hollow land at Cooley field on Sunday to play off that National Amateur Cup tie a big crowd will be in attendance. The Corinthians are playing great soccer. The front line is aggressive and getting plenty of goals. And the defense is keeping up its end, spoiling all attempts to score.

Blind Track Meet Given Try-Out

BRUNSWICK, Me., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The fertile brain of Jack Magee, Bowdoin College track coach, is responsible for the latest method of uncovering hidden collegiate track talent. He calls it a "blind track meet" and it is scheduled to run every other afternoon at Bowdoin for the rest of the indoor season with some 1,000 seniors, juniors and sophomores competing.

Each competitor draws from a hat a slip of cardboard on which are written the three events in which he is to compete during the afternoon. A "sliding scale" of restrictions prevent any stripling from being called on to toss the 35-pound hammer or any one weighing more than 200 pounds to run more than a 440.

Magee described the first day as a "riot" with Dick Brown, 235-pound football guard, essaying the high hurdles, pole vault and 440, and Bernard Lucas, varsity hurdler, drawing the 440, 16-pound shot and pole vault.

ENOCH RAUHS LOSE IN CLEVELAND, 15-14

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—The Union Trust quintet of this city defeated the Enoch Rauh of Pittsburgh in a sensational game at Public Hall last night, 15-14, the contest being a charity affair with the two outfits donating their services. Bill Miller was the big star of the visitors, scoring a pair of field goals and three fouls to negotiate half his club's points. The lineup:

UNION TR.—15.		RAUHS—14.
Kirkwood	F	Serbin
Olszewski	F	Miller
McCoulough	F	M. Paris
Coyne	G	W. Paris
Morse	G	Alman

Field goals—Kirkwood, Coyne, Morse 3, Miller 2, W. Paris, Sandomire. Fouls—Rauhs 6; Union Trust 5. Substitution—Sandomire for Alman. Referee—Wyman.

FOLLOWERS of the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League are eagerly awaiting the battle at Columbus Temple tomorrow night between the J. J. Mieles, last year's champions, and the Goldensons of the South Side, one of the strongest contenders for this year's championship.

The Mieles have started just where they left off last season, winning their first five league contests, while the Goldensons, after losing their opening battle, have scored four successive victories.

Tomorrow's game brings together two teams capable of playing first-class basketball, and if they play up to expectations, fans are going to witness one of the best frays of the season.

Interest in the game is high

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Miss Helen Wills today announced that she had accepted an invitation from the United States Lawn Tennis Association to become a member of a two-woman team which will tour Europe, meeting teams in France, Germany, England and Belgium. These matches, it was announced, will be played prior to the Wimbledon championships. Miss Wills' teammate has not yet been selected.

WASHINGTON, PA., Dec. 15.—Head Coach Andy Kerr of Washington and Jefferson, headed the vanguard of all-Eastern players out of Washington last night for Chicago, where today he will be joined by the remainder of the Eastern squad that will play an all-Western team at San Francisco on December 26.

Kerr had with him Bill Amos, fullback; Frank Pauly, guard, and Jap Douds, tackle of the Washington and Jefferson team, and Dr. D. F. Donehoo of this city, the team physician.

HOCKEY

RESULT LAST NIGHT.
Toronto 4, Chicago 2.

WHILE his Pirates are priming themselves for Saturday night's game with Chicago at Duquesne Garden, President Horace Townsend is busying himself trying to put over another deal that will strengthen the Buc forces.

Upon his arrival home from Montreal yesterday, the Pirate boss said that the Arbour-McCaffrey-Rodden transaction was only the start insofar as the local club is concerned, but he would not divulge the identity of the player or players being sought. It is understood that Detroit and Les Canadiens are willing to listen to overtures from President Townsend. Canadiens probably seek Charley Langlois, while it is not known what players are involved at Detroit.

Another defense man and a pivot player are desired. The Cougars are said to have offered a center man, but what they wanted in return is known only to Townsend, who as yet has not made up his mind on this particular deal. He was in communication with Detroit officials last night, but no agreement could be made at that time.

throughout the city and preparations are being made to handle the largest crowd of the season.

THE Sumer Somerman Club, defeated only once in the P. & O. League, will strive to remain in the running for the title tonight when it entertains the Siano Club at Columbus Temple.

The Somermans have won three games and lost o in the league race to date and must triumph tonight to avoid elimination from the title fight.

Should the Somermans defeat the Sianos and the Goldensons beat the Mieles tomorrow night, the race for the championship will be a three-team affair.

If the Mieles turn back the Goldensons tomorrow night, there is very littl likelihood of any contender stopping them from winning the first-half laurels.

THE Goldenson Vanities last night overcame a 10-point lead in the last half to snatch victory from almost certain defeat in a girls' league battle with the Young Women's Hebrew Association sextet, but just barely missed losing the contest as a result of the poor sportsmanship of their supporters.

Miss Catherine McNamara, former University of Pittsburgh star and one of the best qualified referees to handle girls' basketball, penalized the home club repeatedly for the boisterous actions of the Market House fans.

Miss McNamara is to be congratulated on her work last night, her decisions at all times being fair and unbiased. The home team is responsible for the actions of its supporters and unless steps are taken to remedy conditions on the South Side, girls' basketball in that section will not get very far.

THE Broadway Club of Beechview is making elaborate preparations for its home inaugural in the Allegheny County League tomorrow night, Mickey Gross and his supporting cast being scheduled to meet the Braddock American Legion quintet.

The Broadway management has made arrangements to have Councilman Daniel Winters toss up the first ball. The Beechview passers scored an impressive victory over the McKees Rocks Business Men in the opening league game and will be set tomorrow night eager to make it two in a row.

The Braddock team, with Roy O'Donovan and Sticks Monohan in the lineup, will present a strong front against the Gross quintet tomorrow.

GIANT PITCHER, TWO GIRLS ARE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

YORK, Pa., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Norman Plitt, pitcher for the New York Giants, and two girl passengers in his car were injured here today, the girls seriously, when the auto was struck by a street car.

Plitt suffered injuries to the chest. The girls, Catherine Munchel and Virginia Seiffert, were removed to a hospital.

Plitt, one of the few big leaguers who wear spectacles, lives in York. According to witnesses, he attempted to turn in the center of the street when he was struck by the trolley.

MURCHISON SHOWS IMPROVED CONDITION

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The stamina of Loren Murchison, Olympic sprint star, widened the gap between himself and death yesterday. His attending physician, Dr. George J. Rivered, Jr., said his condition was much improved. Murchison is suffering with cerebro-spinal meningitis.

"His general condition is very promising," Dr. Rivered said. "He is entirely conscious and his temperature is lower."

Grid Banquet January 13

By JESS M. CARVER.

THE departure of Pitt's basketball varsity for the Middle West, where tonight it will open the 1927-28 season by playing Michigan at An Arbor; the announcement of an addition to the cage schedule out at Carnegie Tech, and the settling and publishing of the date of Pitt's annual football banquet, were the chief happennings in Pittsburgh collegiate sport circles yesterday.

The Panthers are opening the cage season with an impressive invasion of the West, playing four Big Ten opponents in five days and with a team minus a star or two still engaged in playing football. If Pitt can get away with an even break in the four games ahead of them, with Michigan tonight, Chicago tomorrow, Northwestern Saturday and Iowa Monday, it will be a feather in their cap. Before leaving last night, the players said they'd win 'em all if they could get by Michigan tonight. To get by Michigan, they must get by Bennie Oosterbaan and Harrigan, two fine players.

TECH ADDS GAME

Carnegie Tech added another contest to its schedule which now holds 13 games. In place of opening the season January 7, with West Virginia, it will open the evening before at Elkins, W. Va., meeting Davis-Elkins' Scarlet Hurricane. Then it will move over to Morgantown for the Mountaineer contest.

Basketball practices and all athletic activity will cease at Tech at the end of the week for 10 days during the holiday vacation period. Neither the varsity nor freshman team will drill during that time.

The Pitt football banquet, the final gridiron gesture of the season, is scheduled for Friday, January 13, and will be tendered the team at the William Penn Hotel. This is the first time for years that the fete has been moved downtown, as it has usually been held at the Schenley. Whether they figure the buns are harder at the William Penn than at the Schenley isn't known. If you throw 'em right, they're all hard.

RETURN JANUARY 10

The team will get back from the coast where Stanford is to be played New Year's Day, on January 10. The party will spend three days in California after the game, two of them in Los Angeles and one in 'Frisco.

A captain will be elected at the banquet as usual. It always has been the custom at Pitt to elect a senior, or a man playing his final year of varsity ball. If this custom is respected, either Alex Fox, guard, or Honey Guarino, end, will get the honor. Both will finish up their time next fall and both were regulars this past season—and how.

Radio fans listening in on the Pitt-Stanford game probably will have little difficulty in hearing the Pitt cheering. The Westinghouse Company has offered the Panthers a large amplifying horn to increase the volume of Pitt songs and cheers.

PANTHERS AT DETROIT

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Coach Red Carlson of Pitt basketball squad arrived here this morning prepared to open the season with Michigan at Ann Arbor tonight. The Panthers spent the morning here and left for Ann Arbor immediately after luncheon.

Coach Carlson will start Charley Hyatt and Lester Cohen, former Uniontown High School stars, at the forward positions, Red McMahon at center and Capt. Reed and Wrobleski at the guards.

Hurst, in answering the suggestion that an umpire's lot is not a happy one, replied: "But you can't beat the hours."

Reardon, one of the youngsters and one of the best in the business, does advertising work for the soap company. Once we thought Mr. Reardon worked for a jewelry shop as he said he would send the children something nice for their necks. Later we heard he worked in a soap factory.

Beans recounts the panic which struck Los Angeles when Joe Dundee declined to meet Ace Hudkins, recalling how the customers demanded their money back. Beans was in no position to make such a demand. "Unluckily," says Beans, "they don't refund on those tickets with holes in them." Mr. Beans had attended on what is known as a skull.

NEARLY everyone will regret the retirement from active work of Henry O'Day, one of the patriarchs of the umpiring realm. The league is to give him a pension-position. Mr. O'Day achieved that high point where he was beloved for a perrenial crankiness. A rare specimen he is. He combines self-sufficiency, a positive air, and an aloofness which is almost forbidding, but in spite of this and through this hardened exterior always break honesty, lack of pose, and sincerity, which made him beloved even by those who on certain days thought he was impossible. He always seemed to have a low opinion of all the sundry associated closely or remotely in his work, magnates, managers, ball players, other umpires, and reporters. His persistent bleakness somehow was his charm. His perpetual crankiness was a delight to observe. His independence was an inspiration.

ON ONE or two occasions we asked him questions, not to get an answer primarily, but just to get a kick out of his sour old comeback. His complete disgust over the protest of a young ballplayer who dared question a decision was one of the finest bits of the baseball scene. Let us hope he will not get into some job where he will be changed into a nice old man.

"We'd better go and see those American League umpires," said a colleague in our hearing just before a world series. "Go up and see them—hell," said Hank. "Let them come and see us." That epitomizes Hank—everyone had to come and see him on his terms, and yet everyone liked him.

APPARENTLY there are many keys to the lock of success. Thus O'Day succeeded by breaking many of the well-known rules. On the other hand, a contemporary, Umpire Hart, takes just the opposite tack. No politician in the midst of a campaign is more diplomatic, more tolerant, than Mr. Hart. He always attempts to smooth troubled waters. On rare occasions he gets angry, but generally he is a pacifist. In a game once where he had to separate a manager and an umpire, Hart soberly deplored such unseemly action. "They ought to go to the end of the line to settle their quarrels," said Bob to a first baseman standing near him. By "the end of the line" Hart meant some place beyond public gaze. As he said this, the first sacker said: "Bob, there's some blood on your coat," and there was. At once Hart's philosophy left him and he started back to the scene of the strife ready to start the fight all over again. But usually to complaining ball players Hart is all sympathy.

THAT must have been an intensely interesting scene where John Heydler, head of the league, told O'Day that he was going on a kind of pension list. Heydler has an abiding affection for this old warrior of the diamond. Once, a magnate complained about Hank and Heydler replied firmly: "As long as I am at the head of things O'Day is going to be taken care of." O'Day now joins Bob Emslie, another veteran, who also is on a pension job. It is pleasant to record how the National League watches out for these bulwarks of the game.

discussion. The minors claim that the agreement, signed with Judge Landis and the majors in 1921, is to be called off when its seven-year term comes to an end shortly. The majors are not going to give an inch of ground in their stand on the question. So it was indicated at the meetings yesterday.

For the first time in many years, Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, will not be in attendance at a confab of the big men of the game. Dreyfuss was a prominent figure in the two sessions of the National League held Tuesday and yesterday in the Waldorf, but at the conclusion of yesterday's session Dreyfuss left for Louisville.

In the absence of both members of the Dreyfuss household—Sam being in Europe on his honeymoon—Secretary Sam Watters will represent the Pirates. Sam will sit in at the big session of this afternoon, the joint affair to be staged at the Roosevelt.

Somewhat more successful than the Pirate bosses, Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cardinals, left the baseball meeting and departed for Pittsburgh at noon today. Through the acquisition of Bubber Jonnard of the Phils and Frank Gibson of the Braves McKechnie has strengthened his catching staff, but one of these receivers may be sent to a Cardinal farm. The Redbirds have coops all over the baseball map.

The trading mart was slow today after a day that was none too brisk. The one big movement of the week's confabs developed yesterday when the St. Louis American League club announced the sale of First Baseman George Sisler, one of baseball's greatest performers, to the Washington Americans for the comparatively small sum of $25,000. Years ago, Sisler could not have been landed for five times that sum.

BUSH-BARNEY LEAVE

Donie Bush put on his overcoat and went home with considerable disgust in his makeup, the dissatisfaction being due to the failure of the Pittsburgh owners to put through a single deal. Bush and Dreyfuss, however, are open for bids, and it may be that there will be some activity in this direction before the end of the year, or before January is over at the latest.

The acquisition of Sisler by the Senators set the baseball people agog, the main issue being the status of Joe Judge, who is generally conceded a fine first sacker. It isn't likely that Bucky Harris, or any other manager, will emulate the Reds and keep two first sackers, so the probable destination of Judge is the subject of much conversation.

One report has it that Judge will go to the Cleveland Indians for two players, but Billy Evans and Rajah Peckinpaugh have a sturdy performer in George Burns. Another authority relates that Judge will pass along to Connie Mack.

Quite a thrill was recorded in the National League sector this morning when it was reported rather reliably that the management of the Chicago Cubs were dickering with Ty Cobb. Manager McCarthy has a bevy of good outfielders, but the Cub officials appear to be angling for a colorful club, their position giving strength to the report.

BASSLER WAIVED OUT

A surprise was recorded yesterday when the news came telling of the waiving out of the American League of Catcher Johnny Bassler of the Tigers. Bassler was rated highly in certain quarters of the American League, but 15 clubs gave the necessary clearance and Johnny is on his way to Toronto, although his eventual destination is Los Angeles, it was declared by those in on the wise stuff. Bassler prefers the Coast league to any other minor circuit.

Chick Galloway, erstwhile shortstop of the Athletics, is reported to be headed for Detroit in a roundabout manner. Traded to Milwaukee about 10 days ago, Galloway may be used by the St. Louis Browns to complete their deal of yesterday with the Tigers. The Browns agreed to include a minor league player in the exchange and, as they have a working agreement with Milwaukee, they would be able to swing the player in question.

Reports that the Phillies were bidding for First Baseman Billy Kelly, star slugger of the Minneapolis club, were prevalent here yesterday. Kelly was a star with Buffalo in the International League before going to the Association.

The Pirates yesterday released Catcher Roy Spencer and Pitcher Emil Yde to the Indianapolis club of the American Association.

BILLIARDS

ARMED with fame, skill, determination and a cue, Charles Ellis will start to climb that steep grade known as the "comeback trail," next Monday night when he meets Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago in the first block of a 500-point match. The world's three-cushion billiard championship, which Charley owned in 1916, is Ellis' goal, and the match with Thurnblad, to be played at Ellis' Diamond street parlors, was arranged to test his fitness for a "comeback" campaign.

A minor operation to relieve an injury to his shoulder hurt Ellis' stroke for several years. In recent months, however, he has displayed his former brilliant form and now is confident he can take the measure of the man who finished third in the last national tournament.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Retention of the world's three-cushion billiard championship by Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, appeared certain today at the start of the fourth block of his 200-point match with Allen Hall, of St. Louis.

With only two blocks of 60 points each to play, the titleholder had a lead of 52 points, the score at the end of the third block standing 180 to 173 in favor of Reiselt.

Albert Cutler flashed the form that enabled him to win the New York state title in an 18.2 balkline billiard match at Kenny's Oakland parlor last night as he turned in a high run of 72 and defeated Sam Schwartz, 150-9, in four innings. In the afternoon Cutler downed Gilbert Haenal, 150-19, in a joust that went seven innings. Cutler is to give exhibitions at Kenny's each afternoon and evening this week.

is too smart to limit himself to Smith and Gooch, both of whom bat left-handed.

By the way, the refusal of Bush to trade Gooch for Butch Henline, the Brooklyn catcher, shows a big change in local managerial views, as only two years ago, Bill McKechnie, then boss of the Corsairs, tried hard for several weeks to put over a trade of Gooch for Henline, who was catching for the Phillies at that time.

OBSERVATION of Henline during the single season that Bush has spent in the National League appears to have convinced the Picaroon chief that Butch is not as great a catcher as he has been rated.

The fans who saw some evidence of that nature with their own eye during the 1927 season. The first tip-off came when Manager McGraw of the Giants, who needed catchers more urgently this year than any other club in the National League, obtained Henline in a trade with the Phillies, and then, instead of keeping him, swapped him to Brooklyn for Pitcher Burleigh Grimes.

THE next indication that Henline's catching lacked something was noted when Butch, after going to Brooklyn with figurative brass bands blaring a welcome, was kept on the bench during the great majority of the Robins' games, while a kid backstop, Charley Hargreaves, was made first catcher.

It might be added that Bill McKechnie, even when he was trying to trade Gooch for Henline, admitted that Gooch, though he hit like Henline, was in reality a better catcher.

So Bush did not pull a dumb one in turning down that trade, either. He wants not only a catcher who can hit but one who is a real backstop as well.

TIME brings vast changes in values in baseball. After the Pittsburgh club was "gypped" out of George Sisler, when he had been under contract to the locals in 1913 and 1914, and he was awarded to the Browns in 1915, he became such a sensational player that he would have brought nearly a quarter of a million in the baseball market. As his individual ability would have given Pittsburgh a winning team, every year, and possibly a couple of pennant winners, the National Commission's freakish decision cost Barney Dreyfuss hundreds of thousands of dollars. And now Sisler is sold for a price estimated at $25,000.

It is the beginning of the end of a great career—a career that will live long in baseball history not alone for the brilliant work of the player but also because of the wrong done the Pittsburgh club when he was taken away from it without justice or fairness.

Break With Navy Likely

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—An athletic break between West Point and the United States Naval Academy was forecasted here today as the result of a statement by Maj. Gen. Edwin B. Winans, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, in which he announced that he had approved a recommendation of the West Point advisory council that no further changes be made in the rules governing the eligibility of cadets for membership on the West Point athletic teams.

Navy athletes who have played three years of varsity sport, either at Annapolis or elsewhere, are not eligible for another year of competition. This rule is not in force at West Point. Inasmuch as Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, the superintendent at Annapolis, recently announced that the Navy would schedule contests only with institutions enforcing the rule, an Army-Navy break is considered probable. Admiral Nulton's announcement climaxed a growing agitation on the part of Navy supporters that the Army adopt a similar restriction.

In declaring that the Cadets cannot be restricted, Gen. Winans said the Army needs officers highly skilled in athletics in order to instruct the men in their command; that the age limit for admission to West Point is higher than at Annapolis, and that West Point is interested in making rules only for the good of the service and not to effect equalization between athletic teams.

NOTICE, SOCCER TEAM

The American Bridge Company Soccer club of Ambridge wishes to schedule an exhibition game for Saturday afternoon with a good Pittsburgh eleven, of the caliber of the German Sport B team, or the Heidelberg Juniors. The A. B. C. eleven is able to furnish the best of accommodations to a visiting club, and will pay expenses from Pittsburgh. Call Ivan Gibson, Ambridge 9192.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Paris—Moise Bouquillon knocked out Francois Charles for French light-heavyweight championship, 2 rounds.

At Clarksburg, W. Va.—Frankie Palmer knocked out Abe Dempsey; Jimmy Duffy knocked out Jackie Taylor; Joe Serio knocked out Young DeAndre.

At Meadville, Pa.—Joey Novak defeated Johnny (Kid) Blair, 10 rounds; Johnny Hahn knocked out Billy Batey, 4 rounds.

At New York—Frank Tavarone defeated Rudy Bauer, 3 rounds; Joe Shannon defeated Henry F. Nealon, 4 rounds.

At Kansas City—Walker Rich knocked out Jim St. Clair, 1 round; Eddie Sylvester defeated Joe Trabon, 10 rounds.

WYNNE TO STAY

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Creighton University will not lose its head football coach, Chet Wynne, after all. Upon Wynne's return last night from a conference with directors of the Kansas Agricultural College it was announced here that Wynne, who has coached Creighton since 1923, will remain in Omaha indefinitely.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

IT IS not given to all men to star. Some must wait in the wings of whatever their calling against the hour when there shall be a great need for their services.

Such is the fate of the understudy of the stage star or the "double" of any topnotcher.

Such was the fate of Pete Stauffer, Carnegie Tech halfback, whose work as a substitute for Moorhead in the game with Detroit at Forbes Field late in the season caused the fans to wonder why they had not seen more of him.

COACH WALTER P. STEFFEN cleared away the mystery during his talk at the annual banquet of the Tech football squad in the William Penn Hotel.

Stauffer was not among the 14 players who earned their letters by playing the required number of periods, but he was among three players who were awarded their "C" by the coaches because of meritorious service. The other two were Allen and Dodge.

Steffen told of Stauffer's predicament with the Skibos.

"He was the only man we had available to throw in for Harpster at quarterback in the event the latter were injured," Steffen said, "and we had to keep him on the bench for that purpose. It so happened that Harpster didn't 'choose' to be hurt, and so Stauffer was sacrificed almost to the end of the year, when he was called upon for other relief work and showed starring qualities."

Next year Stauffer may shine in his own right.

WHEN a man can stand firmly on both feet, either figuratively or literally, he has a fairly good chance of getting by, no matter what his line or "racket."

This was demonstrated once again the other night when Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, once given up as a burned-out title contender, put up the fight of his life in his elimination battle with Tommy Loughran for the world's light-heavyweight championship in Madison Square Garden, New York. They are still talking in the East about that grand "comeback" by the Buffalo Irishman who, prior to his startling knockout defeat by Dave Shade, a middleweight, and, later, by Paul Berlenbach, had been heralded as a second Jim Corbett, and the bout is being praised as one of the finest in years in New York.

Slattery was asked how he accounted for his great showing.

"Road work did it," the one-time play boy of the gilded palaces replied. "I got my legs in shape by doing four stiff miles on the road every day for two weeks before this bout and felt like my old self again. There's nothing like road work to get you in shape for a hard fight."

SLATTERY has learned his rutabagas. Athletes, like chorus girls, must have good underpinnings. As soon as their legs begin to give way on them they are through, or close to it. Honus Wagner still would be a great baseball player but for the slowing up of his legs with oncoming age. Jack Dempsey was unstoppable until he began to get shaky in the legs. Great tennis players have become mediocre when their legs have ceased to cover court as they once did. It's a handicap that cannot be overcome. Slattery has absorbed his lesson. He has discovered he can get around better and keep up the pace longer by preparing himself through the grind of road work than he could by dissipating through the night hours.

THERE are alibis and alibis. Some brand their authors as poor sports, some are spoken merely in jest or by way of apology. There's the classic, for instance, attributed to Chick Evans, one of the golf immortals, who laughed off the miss of a short putt in a big match with the crack:

"The hole moved!"

KEATS REINSTATED

weight honors, meet in an elimination bout at the Broadway Club in the Quaker City tonight. Young Stribling boxes Tom Kirby of Boston at Wilkes-Barre.

Ruby Goldstein makes a new "comeback" attempt Monday night when he boxes Ray Mitchell at the St. Nicholas arena, New York.

Spug Myers and Freddie Mueller box at Buffalo next Monday night.

LEONARD TO BOX AGAIN

Benny Leonard again is talking about coming back. He says he'll be in the thick of the welterweight competition next summer.

The Motor Square card for next Monday night is the best so-called all-star billing we've had here in a long time, at least on paper. Teddy Esterbrook and Linn Jordan, who meet in the first of the four eight-rounders, both have been recent opponents of Young Saylor, who boxed both Jack Zivic and Willie Harmon in main bouts later. Young Rudy and Harry Taylor, who box the second bout, have done windup honors elsewhere and Tony Ross and Harry Dudley, who box the semi-final, both have boxed main bouts all over the country. Dudley has boxed Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion; Willie Harmon, Jack McVey and most of the other good 147-pounders. In the main bout, Red Chapman of Boston makes his local debut against Tommy Crowley, the best of the local 125-130-pounders.

TWO BOUTS FOR PIAZZI

Young Piazzi and Pep O'Brien have been matched for the eight-round windup of a show at Williamsport, Pa., New Year's afternoon. Piazzi also is booked for a 10-round main bout with Tony Ross at Carnegie Thursday night of next week.

Garfield Johnson, Negro light-heavyweight of Seattle, is here seeking bouts with Emmett Rocco, Sandy Seifert and other headliners. He is under the management of Jim Malone, former Lawrenceville pilot of boxers, who has made his home in Seattle for the last 15 years, and will be handled here by Jim's brother, J. B. Malone, who may be reached by the promoters by calling Montrose 7972.

Cuddy DeMarco will box Billy Petrolle at Fargo, N. D., Petrolle's home town, New Year's Day. His stablemate, Tug Phillips, is matched with Jimmy Garrett of New Haven at Erie Friday night of next week.

Three Pittsburgh amateur boxers were beaten in the inter-city tournament in New York last night. New York won all of the finals. Carl Redato, local featherweight, was knocked out in two rounds by Frank Brown of New York; George Posey, Pittsburgh heavyweight, was stopped in the third by Carl Hanson of New York, and Buck Tiernan, local middleweight, lost the decision to Harry Smith of New York. Only two out-of-town boxers reached the finals, where they were beaten.

Jack Barry of the Pittsburgh Lyceum and Johnny Dunn of New Kensington are on the card at Erie tomorrow night which will be headed by a 10-rounder between Johnny Ryan of Erie and Chick Suggs of New Bedford, Mass. Barry boxes Pickles Donahue of Youngstown and Dunn meets Johnny Foster of Cleveland. Johnny Carey of Erie and Jimmy Mason of Cleveland round out the bill.

Prize Three-Minute Talk To Employers and Workers

By B. C. FORBES

THIS column might be profitably read by every employe in the country—and by executives, too, for that matter.

This can be said without immodesty, since the pith of it is written, not by me, but by the winner of a three-minute speaking contest which has been held by the Pacific Gas and Electric Electric Association at its annual convention.

Although delivered in three minutes, the points emphasized might well be pondered a lifetime.

THIS column repeatedly has urged giving workers of all classes opportunity to earn distinction. Surely it would be as fitting and as important to honor a champion craftsman or other worker as it is to honor champion athletes. Is it not true that we make far too much fuss over those who distinguish themselves in sports and make altogether too little fuss over those who are capable of distinguishing themselves, if given opportunity, in what, after all, are infinitely more important phases of life?

Leading up to this speaking contest, inter-departmental contests were held by all the electrical utility companies on the Pacific coast. Then each company picked its winner to represent it at the association's annual convention. A similar contest was conducted in essay writing.

BOTH contests, incidentally, were won by employes of Pacific Gas and Electric. Here is the winning three-minute speech, made by John L. Farley, connected with the sales department; although he naturally deals with the responsibilities of utility employes, what he says applies, as you will see, equally to any and every other concern engaged in business:

"The factor which has the greatest influence on the public's attitude toward the public utility is that factor which most intimately touches the public, and the factor which most intimately touches the public is associated with personal experiences. The more intimate these personal experiences, the more powerfully they influence one's judgment. The service that a public utility gives is the one thing which every consumer experiences most intimately.

"Excellent reasons may exist for failures to give service. Motives back of acts are only of academic interest and are considered in courts of law, but count for little when the public passes judgment on a public utility. Results count most, and results are measured by service.

"MODERN, ample, and properly co-ordinated equipment is necessary if a utility is to serve the public; but the best-equipped system will fail if properly trained personnel is not available to operate and maintain it.

"The personnel may have technical training, may be most courteous, and may so administer the affairs of the utility that good profits are available for the owners; but equipment and personnel together will not win the confidence of the public unless there prevails that indispensable factor, the spirit of service. Only when all consumers receive that service which results from loyalty, devotion, and acts of heroism above and beyond the requirements of duty, will the public receive that quality of service necessary to its good opinion.

"The spirit of service is so all-important and so all-pervading that it is well summarized by paraphrasing a part of the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians:

"'Though I speak with the tact of diplomats and salesmen, and have not this spirit of service, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal. And though I have the gift of knowledge and understand all electrical mysteries and all sciences, and though I have power plants sufficient to move mountains, and have not the spirit of service, I am nothing. And now abideth physical equipment, trained personnel, and the spirit of service, these three; but the greatest of these is the spirit of service.'"

WHY not organize contests for each class of workers in every large organization and then hold state championships and, wherever feasible, national championships? Wouldn't you be as willing to take off your hat to America's champion bricklayer or stenographer or painter or coal miner or ship riveter or fireman or cow-milker or carpenter or adding machine operator or linotypist as you would be to take off your hat to the fellow judged the best runner or high-jumper or football player or golfer on tennis player?

America's future will be determined more by the excellence of her workers than by the excellence of her athletes.

COPPER SHARES SPECIALTIES BID UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Speculative interest in today's stock market was confined largely to a select group of Coppers and specialties, several of which were bid up in spirited fashion under pool manipulation. The general list displayed less general strength than heretofore, apparently due to nervousness created by the recent collapse of a few specialties and fears of another large increase in brokers' loans.

Coppers contined to respond to reports of improving trade conditions under the leadership of Anaconda, which sold at the highest price in five years. Calumet & Hecla, Nevada, Kennecott, and Dome Mines also reached new high ground, and Homestead Mines jumped nearly 5 points.

One of the most sensational movements of the day took place in the Continental Insurance issues. The old stock ran up from 276 to 302 and the new stock, which was admitted to trading today, opened at 74½, advanced to 84½ and fell back to 78.

New Haven crossed 60 to the highest price in more than 10 years. Other rails were firm.

One block of 17,000 shares of Sinclair changed hands at 17⅛ in the early afternoon and started a fresh buying movement in the oil shares.

New peak prices for the year or longer were recorded by Vanadium Steel, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, International Business Machines, Freeport Texas and Electric Power & Light. Hupp and General Motors also were heavily bought.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The raw sugar market was firm early today and a further advance of 1-32c was recorded in prices, with sales confirmed of 25,000 bags of Cubas to a local refiner for December shipment and 25,000 bags for January shipment to an operator, both at 4.61c, duty paid.

In response to the firmer spot market and higher London cables, raw sugar futures opened generally 1 to 2 points higher on covering and commission house buying. The December position, however, opened 1 point lower under liquidation, caused by the circulation of five notices. These were promptly stopped and that month regained the loss. The demand, however, was not aggressive and reactions followed later under liquidation and trade selling. The market at midday was not unchanged to 1 point higher.

The refined sugar market was firm, selling prices ranging from 5.60c to 5.70c for fine granulated and a continued good inquiry reported at the inside level.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Sharp Spurt in Anaconda.

Following several weeks of laggardly refusal to go along with the other leading copper stocks on the current advance, Anaconda Copper shook off its lethargy today and rushed up three points on the heaviest buying noted since the copper swing began. Holders of Anaconda were beginning to believe their favorite was going to ignore the sensational gains in such stocks as Greene Cananea, Calumet and Arizona and others when today's sudden spurt developed. Anaconda is the leading copper producer of the world and it has the additional advantage of its own marketing company in the American Brass. There has been gossip in the street recently that Anaconda buying of Greene Cananea was responsible for the latter's spectacular burst of strength last week and it was rumored further today that the reported new ore discovery of Greene Can had been tested satisfactorily. Anaconda convertible bonds were strong also as were the bonds of its South American subsidiary, the Andes Copper Company. Anaconda convertibles are a 7 per cent issue aggregating $50,000,000, convertible into common in lots of $10,000,000 at $53 a share for the first lot and up to 65 for the remainder. Predictions of further advances in copper metal prices were heard in financial circles today, the reports being to the effect that 14½ cents a pound or better will be seen before the end of the year.

Building Conditions Improve.

An improved tone in building conditions over the country generally are indicated in the official reports of November permits issued in 541 cities which showed a loss of only 1 per cent over November, 1926, according to S. W. Straus and Company. This is the first time in several months that only a negligible monthly loss was shown. With the exception of New York City, Philadelphia and Detroit, the rank and file of cities and towns revealed greater potential activity than at this period last year. The 25 cities in which the greatest building activity was shown were 6 per cent ahead of their November, 1926, records. Since January 1, building permits issued in the 541 leading centers have lost 13 per cent from the same period of 1926.

Steel Conditions Improving.

Steel trade reviews this week were cheerful. Better demand, stepping up of operations and firmer price trend are noted. One encouraging factor is that structural steel buying is keeping up amazingly well for this season. Orders placed last week were 36,000 tons and about 61,500 tons were added to pending business. Steel sheets, the weakest spot in the price situation, turned for the better, due both to buying by automobile companies and to the fact that some producers, who have been shading prices, now seem to be falling into line and holding to the quoted market. All steel interests are satisfied that business will be good after the turn of the year and there are already signs to justify this belief.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 3 to 16 points on a continuation of yesterday's buying which evidently found further encouragement in the relatively firm showing of the Liverpool cables.

January sold up to 18.62c and May to 18.96c, recoveries of about 65 to 75 points from the low levels early Tuesday, but these prices attracted increased offerings which included realizing by recent buyers and some selling attributed to a renewal of old long liquidation. The market eased off 15 or 16 points, but was holding about 4 to 5 points higher at the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to covering with some continental and Bombay buying and said there was more business in cotton cloths for India at low prices with improved demand from South America and a fair business pending.

The decline from the opening advance carried prices off to 18.35 for January and 18.70 for May, or about 14 points below yesterday's closing quotations. The volume of offerings tapered off and the market became quieter. Small rallies were not maintained and prices were within a few points of the lowest at midday.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Prices continued steady in the bond market today. Easy money was again the principal factor in keeping prices on an even keel, and there was some buying here and there which may have reflected the distribution today of about $150,000,000 in dividends and interest.

There were few features in the domestic list of corporation bonds. Andes Copper 7s were up about a point, but failed to attain their previous high for the year. Florida East Coast 5s were in moderate demand above 87. Some public utilities displayed a little more activity than in recent sessions. New England Telephone rose fractionally and there was some accumulation of Philadelphia Company 5½s simultaneous with a new offering by the company of $60,000,000 5 per cent bonds.

Improvement of Mexican 4s, which were bought in moderately large amounts, probably was influenced by expectations of better relations between the two republics resulting from the growing popularity of Ambassador Morrow and the Lindberg flight. Other foreign issues moved within narrow limits and trading was rather light.

United States government bonds were dull, except for a cash transaction in which $115,000 treasury 4s changed hands.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollar):

Ice Preferred Holds Recent Gains

Good demand for Carnegie Metals was in evidence on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange again today with the shares running up to a new high for the year above 15. Today's improvement followed a bulge of 2½ points in the stock yesterday when about 2,000 shares changed hands on a range up from 12 to 14½.

Consolidated Ice preferred, which featured yesterday's market with an upward dash of seven points, was rather quiet early today, but held the previous gain. The surprise move in Ice preferred earlier in the week caught a few traders short of the stock and the covering of these commitments was partly responsible for the bulge. However, there did not seem to be much of the stock available near the levels previously obtaining. Inside interests have been accumulating the stock for the last few months and there is a feeling in the Street that some action toward extinguishment of the 51 per cent dividend accumulation on the issue will be taken before long.

Fuel issues continued to lag and exhibited the same dullness noted in that division for past several days. Prices were off slightly, but there were no signs of pressure on the shares.

Bank of England.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes, in pounds:

Total reserve decreased 244,000; circulation increased 443,000; bullion increased 199,000; other securities decreased 525,000; public deposits increased 1,287,000; other deposits decreased 7,098,000; notes reserve decreased 185,000; government securities decreased 6,677,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 29.21 per cent; last week it was 27.85 per cent. Rate of discount, 4½ per cent.

OHIO RISE CUTS BUS, TRACTION SERVICE

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 15.—A crest of 38.7 feet was reached by the flood-swollen Ohio River here today. Traction and bus service in East Liverpool and Wellsville as well as on the interurban lines to the Beaver Valley was crippled by the inundation of tracks at a half-dozen points.

Scores of families were forced to leave their homes in the lowlands of East Liverpool and Wellsville, O., Smith's Ferry, Pa., and Congo, W. Va. Most of the village of Smith's Ferry was under water.

Cellars of pottery plants were filled with water when the stream overflowed onto the river road, closing a bus route.

It is estimated the damage will reach $15,000.

"I told my wife what I thought my widow ought to know"

—Said a business man to one of his friends recently.

"BY asking her a few questions about how she would decide certain important business problems if I were not here to make decisions for her, I was quickly able to demonstrate how my bank, The Peoples Savings and Trust Company could aid her at a time when she vitally needed such assistance.

¶ "I explained to her how I had, by making a Trust Agreement, made available to her the services of men whose daily work calls for a knowledge of business and finance far beyond that of the average individual, and who would bring this knowledge to bear upon her financial problems."

¶ This man not only created a Trust to protect his wife and his estate, but he wisely proved to her the value of his action. Today they both enjoy the satisfaction of knowing that her future is guarded, and that trained and experienced men stand ready, if the need should ever arise, to lift the burden of executorship and financial management from her shoulders.

¶ We have had many years of experience in acting as Executor and Trustee Under Wills, being the oldest Trust Company in Pittsburgh. Our facilities are at your disposal and we shall be glad to discuss with you at any time, the details of how we may serve you.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The curb market today generally was one in which there was active trading at the present established high levels, but without impressive movements in either direction. Pool activities were generally reduced, perhaps because of arrangements for making year-end settlements of pools and speculative combinations, but there were indications, observers said, that in most cases, pool members were retaining participations instead of putting them on the market.

There were some special movements, however, including another display of strength in Ford Motor of Canada, which rose 15 points to 605. Fansteel Products, which had a sharp advance Wednesday, made a further gain of 3 points, crossing 38, and Newmont Mining moved up about 2 points to above 128. These gains were offset by a drop of 2½ points in Glen Alden Coal and a decline of a point in Firestone Tire. Borden dropped nearly 2 points and Celanese declined about a point. A number of stocks were ex-dividend and many made good recoveries of the dividends during the first hour.

Some of the utilities were active and strong. Electric Bond and Share continued its advance, registering a further gain of over a point, and Electric Investors also moved up about a point. American Gas and Electric rose about 2 points, but Associated Gas dropped a point.

Oil stocks were generally lower. Standard Oil of Indiana yielded ⅝ and Vacuum lost more than a point in the early trading. Imperial Oil and Prairie Pipe Line were both in supply at declines.

United Verde Extension was a strong feature in the copper group.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Fresh advances in price of corn here developed early today following an overnight jump of 2½c a bushel at Buenos Aires. The Argentine upturn brought January delivery at Buenos Aires to within 1 cent of December corn in Chicago. Starting ⅛c to 1c higher, the Chicago corn market held near to initial figures. Wheat and oats were also firmer, wheat opening unchanged to ⅛c up and later showing some rise all around. Provisions likewise went higher.

In some quarters here pronounced strength of corn values at Buenos Aires was taken as reflecting near exhaustion of the Argentine old crop, the shipments from which have been extra heavy during recent months. It was asserted that Europe had absorbed practically all of this corn week by week, and now apparently must look to the United States for food supplies. Aside from the effect of strength in the corn market, wheat today showed independent firmness at times. Rains in Argentina, causing deterioration of the wheat harvest outlook there and likely to interfere with the Argentine wheat crop movement, acted as a bullish influence. The unsettled weather in Argentina was reported to be general and was predicted to last several days.

The Company agrees to make application to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

A. W. Robertson, Esq., President of Philadelphia Company, summarizes his letter dated December 14, 1927, as follows:

Company Philadelphia Company was organized in 1884 under the laws of Pennsylvania. It controls, through entire common stock ownership, Duquesne Light Company which does all the electric light and power business in the City of Pittsburgh and which supplies substantially all the electric light and power service in the surrounding boroughs and in the greater parts of Allegheny and Beaver Counties, Pennsylvania, having a population of over 1,360,000. It owns or controls through subsidiaries a gas distributing system in Pittsburgh and an extensive natural gas producing, transporting and distributing system in southwestern Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia, and will acquire an interest in the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company system, which systems will supply the greater part of the gas consumed in Pittsburgh. The Company also owns securities of Pittsburgh Railways Company representing the control (partly through long-term leases) of the electric railway system in Pittsburgh and vicinity and of the Beaver Valley Traction Company, and all the stock of subsidiaries engaged in supplemental operations.

The Duquesne Light Company properties include two steam power plants with an aggregate generating capacity of 336,500 k. w., not including one generating unit of 40,000 k. w., practically completed, 221 sub-stations and 5,983 circuit miles of transmission and distribution lines. It serves 274,144 customers, and for the year ended October 31, 1927, had gross operating revenues amounting to $25,536,449. The gas properties include leases on 356,978 acres of lands, 1,774 producing wells, 3,974 miles of field and distribution lines and a manufactured gas plant of 30,000,000 cubic feet daily capacity. The properties serve 172,684 customers and for the year ended October 31, 1927, had gross operating revenues of $13,721,482. The electric street railway system for the year ended October 31, 1927, had gross operating revenues of $22,720,691. It operates 627 miles of track and has in service 1,509 cars and 60 motor coaches; the annual net earnings are substantially in excess of the annual fixed charges on the securities of the system outstanding in the hands of the public.

For the year ended October 31, 1927, consolidated gross operating earnings after eliminating inter-company transactions, were $61,712,404 and consolidated gross income before depreciation and depletion was $27,839,432.

Earnings Consolidated earnings of Philadelphia Company and its subsidiary companies for the year ended October 31, 1927, giving effect to the present financing of the Company and of Duquesne Light Company after interest charges, rentals, contract payments, amortizations, preferred dividends, depreciation and depletion of subsidiaries but before deducting interest charges of Philadelphia Company, show a balance of $12,582,334 or over 4.19 times the $3,000,000 annual interest requirement on the $60,000,000 Bonds. This balance of $12,582,334 includes $7,848,676 earned by Duquesne Light Company before deduction of dividends on the stock to be pledged under the Indenture securing the Bonds, which is over 2.61 times such annual interest requirement.

Capitalization Giving effect to the present financing, outstanding capitalization of Philadelphia Company will be as follows:

5% Secured Gold Bonds due Dec. 1, 1967 (this issue)	$60,000,000
5% Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock (par $50)	28,849 shares
6% Cumulative Preferred Stock (par $50)	491,140 shares
Common Stock (par $50)	951,926 shares

Cash for the payment at maturity of $1,151,000 non-callable bonds will be deposited with trustees of indentures under which they are issued, which indentures will be cancelled. The Company has guaranteed dividends on preferred stock of a subsidiary amounting to $71,674 annually and is contingently liable for rentals and securities of other controlled properties, said rentals and interest on such securities being now earned by the properties concerned and involving no present charge on the earnings of the Company. There are unliquidated claims, liabilities for which have not been determined, estimated at from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 against a subsidiary for damages from a recent accident to gas tank operated by it.

Security These Bonds will be the direct obligation of Philadelphia Company, specifically secured by the pledge of all presently outstanding stocks of Duquesne Light Company, except its first preferred stock, which pledged stocks on completion of corporate proceedings will constitute the entire outstanding common stock of Duquesne Light Company. All additional common stock issued by Duquesne Light Company will be acquired by the Company and pledged under the Indenture securing the Bonds; additional bonds may be issued for 75% of the cost of such stock, or to refund, par for par, bonds theretofore outstanding in either case, subject to the earnings restrictions of the Indenture, all as defined in the Indenture. The Company may not sell the common stock of Duquesne Light Company without retiring these Bonds and the proceeds from any sale of its other present systems up to their valuation as defined in the Indenture, shall remain capital of the Company.

Equity The Company values its assets, giving effect to present financing, substantially in excess of 2½ times the face amount of these Bonds. These Bonds will be followed by 28,849 shares 5% preferred stock, 491,140 shares 6% preferred stock and 951,926 shares common stock, all $50 par, having a value, as indicated by recent average quotations on the New York Stock Exchange, in excess of $140,000,000. The Company has paid dividends on its common stock in each year since 1885 (with the single exception of the year 1897) at rates averaging over 6% per annum. The annual rate since July, 1923, has been 8% cash and in addition common stock dividends aggregating 1/40 of a share for each share of common stock were declared in 1927.

Purpose of Issue The Company will devote the proceeds of these Bonds to the retirement of all its present outstanding mortgage indebtedness, the purchase of additional Duquesne Light Company stock, the acquisition of an interest in Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company and to other corporate purposes. As part of the present financing, Duquesne Light Company will reduce its outstanding $30,000,000 7% First Preferred Stock to $20,000,000 5% First Preferred Stock and Philadelphia Company is calling its Convertible Debentures for redemption, and their conversion into its 6% Preferred Stock has been underwritten.

We offer these Bonds for delivery when, as and if issued by us, subject to approval of our counsel.

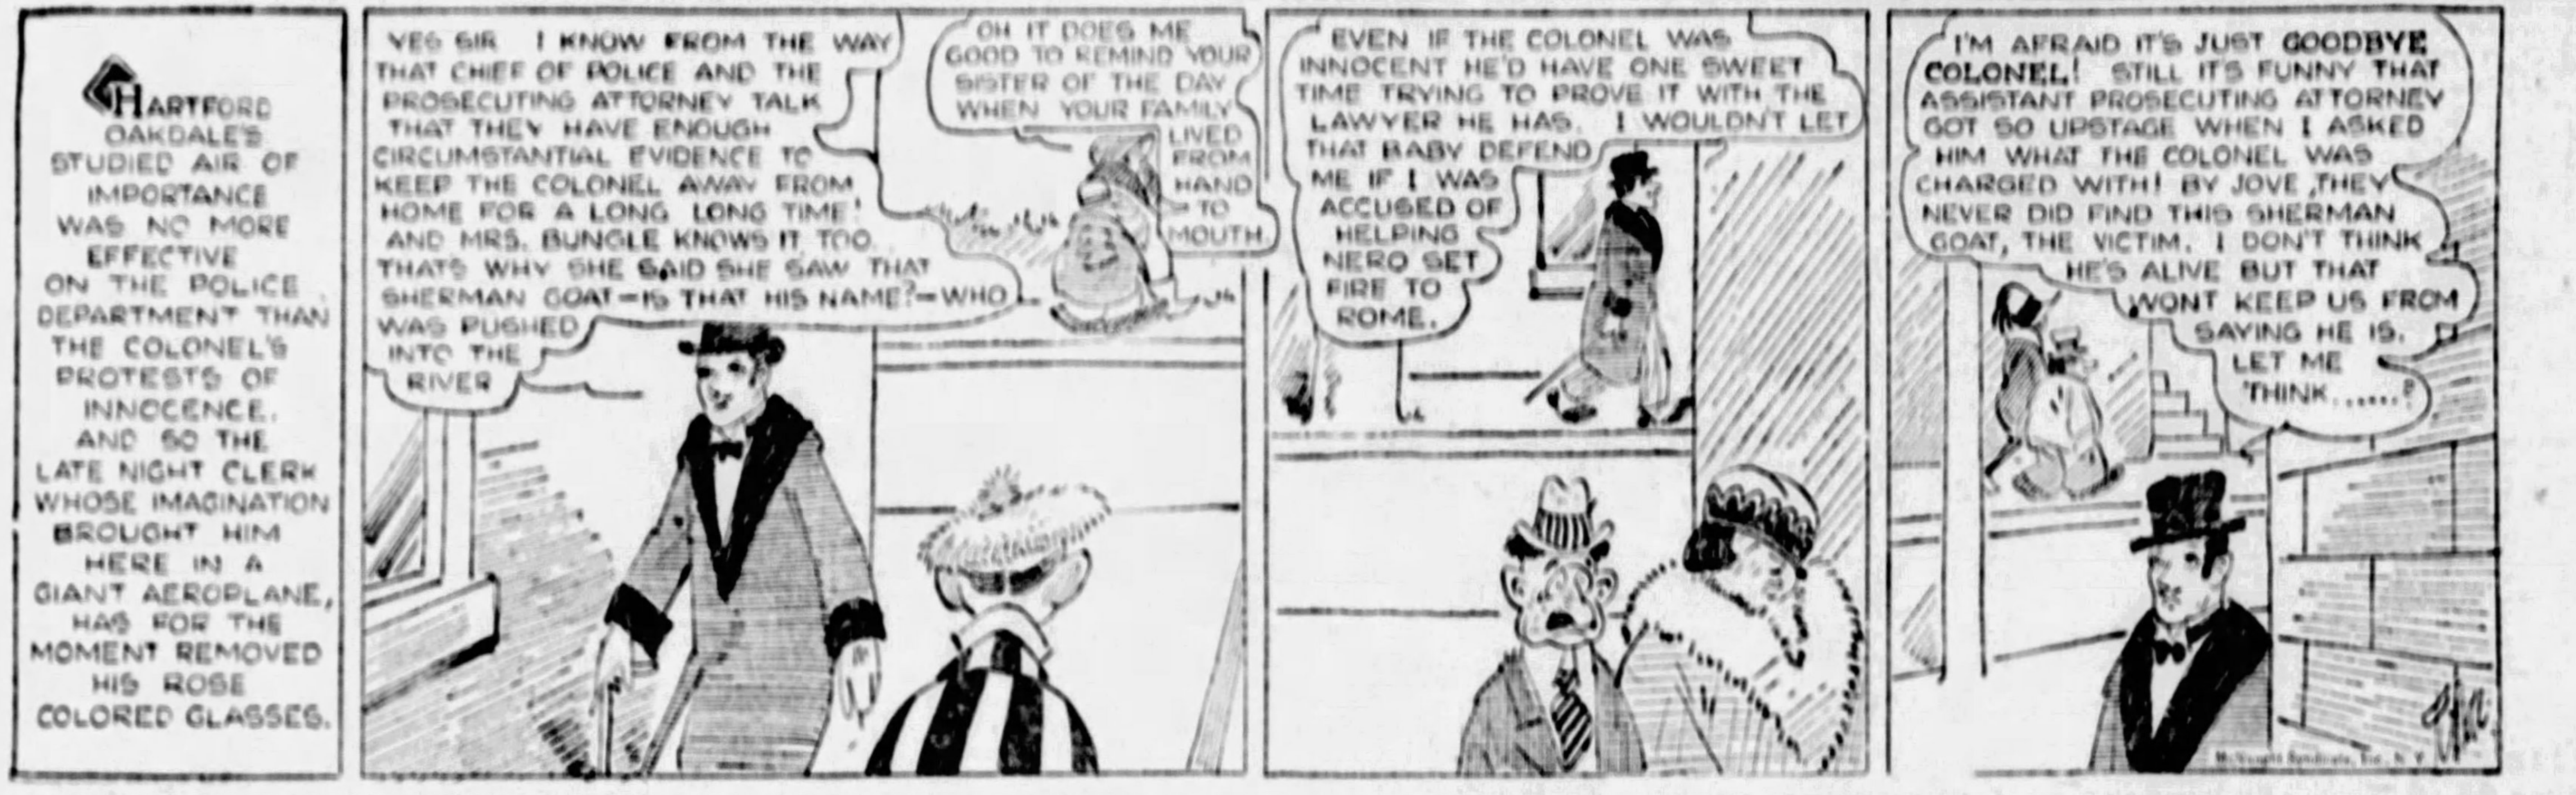
THE BUNGLE FAMILY . . . . . Hartford Is Hardly Himself Today



HARTFORD OAKDALE'S STUDIED AIR OF IMPORTANCE WAS NO MORE EFFECTIVE ON THE POLICE DEPARTMENT THAN THE COLONEL'S PROTESTS OF INNOCENCE. AND SO THE LATE NIGHT CLERK WHOSE IMAGINATION BROUGHT HIM HERE IN A GIANT AEROPLANE, HAS FOR THE MOMENT REMOVED HIS ROSE COLORED GLASSES.
YES SIR I KNOW FROM THE WAY THAT CHIEF OF POLICE AND THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEY TALK THAT THEY HAVE ENOUGH CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE TO KEEP THE COLONEL AWAY FROM HOME FOR A LONG LONG TIME! AND MRS. BUNGLE KNOWS IT TOO. THAT'S WHY SHE SAID SHE SAW THAT SHERMAN GOAT—IS THAT HIS NAME?—WHO WAS PUSHED INTO THE RIVER
OH IT DOES ME GOOD TO REMIND YOUR SISTER OF THE DAY WHEN YOUR FAMILY LIVED FROM HAND TO MOUTH.
EVEN IF THE COLONEL WAS INNOCENT HE'D HAVE ONE SWEET TIME TRYING TO PROVE IT WITH THE LAWYER HE HAS. I WOULDN'T LET THAT BABY DEFEND ME IF I WAS ACCUSED OF HELPING NERO SET FIRE TO ROME.
I'M AFRAID IT'S JUST GOODBYE COLONEL! STILL IT'S FUNNY THAT ASSISTANT PROSECUTING ATTORNEY GOT SO UPSTAGE WHEN I ASKED HIM WHAT THE COLONEL WAS CHARGED WITH! BY JOVE, THEY NEVER DID FIND THIS SHERMAN GOAT, THE VICTIM. I DON'T THINK HE'S ALIVE BUT THAT WONT KEEP US FROM SAYING HE IS. LET ME THINK......?

HERSHFIELD

THIS WAGGISH WORLD

by Roy K. Moulton

THE JOB NOBODY WANTS TO KNOW.

WASHINGTON—Complying with numerous requests from readers, we came down here to size up the presidential situation, which has developed many new complications since President Coolidge told the party to find a new generalissimo. We have canvassed the field and believe the nomination will go either to Hon. Horatio Burlap of Nebraska, Simeon Shadroe of Massachusetts or Hon. Salmon Turbot of Maryland. At any rate, it probably will be somebody nobody ever heard of before. It seems to be the job nobody wants to know.

FOLLOWING the President's announcement that he positively will not run, pandemonium let loose for noon. Hughes immediately announced that under no consideration would he take the nomination.

Harry Daugherty and former Secretary Fall also drew out of the race. One-eyed Connolly announced that he did not choose to accept the nomination. Bull Montana startled the entire Pacific coast by announcing that he was in no way to be considered a candidate.

The author of this column has not yet withdrawn as a possibility. The country is upset enough as it is.

WE find, after mature investigation here, that the situation is about as follows:

Vice President Dawes will not accept the Presidency unless he can get it. The same applies to Herbert Hoover. Dawes says he will not take it if Lowden does, which is courteous enough, when you come to think of it.

Herbert Hoover is developing considerable strength in Belgium, and, since Bull Montana is out of the race, this West Coast candidate's chances improve.

We have not been able to find out which candidate will be supported by the United Cigar Stores, which, of course, will make a difference. They control everything now except the elections. Some day five coupons will give you the right to vote.

Senator Willis, of Ohio, is an avowed candidate for the nomination as a Prohibitionist. The Anti-Saloon League was formed in his State and nearly all of its sixty members live there. Being an out-and-out dry, Senator Willis will simplify matter considerably. He will be reasonably certain of the votes of some members of the Anti-Saloon League and practically all the bootleggers and enforcement agents.

The latter work hand in hand in political matters. Ohio has been called the "Mother of Presidents." How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child.

Virginia is also called "The Mother of Presidents" and other things. Carter Glass announces he will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination. So do William Gibbs McAdoo and Al Smith. You may take that as gospel.

SENATOR HEFLIN, it is rumored, has announced that he will not take the Presidential nomination. Senator Borah says nothing, for the first time in his life. A terrific fight for the nomination that nobody wants is predicted.

Summing the matter up, we still believe the Republican nomination will go either to Horatio Burlap, of Nebraska; Hon. Simeon Shadroe, of Massachusetts, or Hon. Salmon Turbot, of Maryland, or just possibly to Hon. Eben Sidesaddle, of Michigan.

Any of these parties is sufficiently unknown and sufficiently uninteresting to make a wonderful candidate.

HUSBANDS—PLEASE NOTE!

TODAY, a woman is as OLD
As her HIP LINE.
It seems that when women go
SHOPPING now, it no longer
Depends what they HAVE in Their HEADS, but what they Have NOT on their HIPS
That DETERMINES whether They go to the Misses or to the
Mrs. Departments in the STORES.
Today, ALL girls from eighteen
To FORTY-EIGHT wear
IDENTICAL little gowns in
The SAME coolrs, lines and FABRICS.
But there is one difference
Between the FLAPPER and the MATRON. The YOUNG girl
Can wear INEXPENSIVE
Fabric, GLOVES, simple
Pumps and a little cheap hat
And look PERFECT.
The OLDER woman must wear
REAL suede gloves,
REAL lizard shoes, a
SMART HAT of good line, and
An expensive POCKETBOOK.
Because, AFTER twenty-eight
A woman is JUDGED by the ACCESSORIES she carries!
Husbands—PLEASE NOTE!

What the Mexican Documents Disclose and What the Situation Demands

THE following editorial appeared in the New York Daily News of Tuesday morning:

At Washington, a Senate committee investigates charges that President Calles of Mexico last year ordered a total of $1,215,000 paid to four United States Senators for work on Mexico's behalf in this country. At New York City, the Mexican consul-general wonders whether he will be jerked to Washington to tell whether that money went through his office or not. At Washington, again, the Mexican ambassador points to international law, which he says gives the immunity necessary to keep the consul-general off the witness stand.

In short, an international situation, as these things are politely called, is blowing up between United States and Mexico.

Why, then, the scheduled "good will" flight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to Mexico City at this time?

It seems like extraordinary diplomacy, to say the least. It is as if we agreed in advance to forgive Mexico for whatever it may have done in the way of bribing or attempting to bribe our Senators.

* * *

THE Daily News is entirely right about the importance of the revelations contained in the official Mexican documents published in the Hearst newspapers.

These documents tend to show:

FIRST, that the Mexican government is as Bolshevistic in character as the Russian government;

SECOND, that it maintains communication with the Russian government and co-operates with it as far as possible in Bolshevist activity and propaganda;

THIRD, that it contributes funds to various Bolshevist movements and to various revolutionary activities in various parts of the world;

FOURTH, that the Bolshevist government in Mexico is opposed in principle and in practice to the government of the United States, and to the plans and objects of the United States, particularly in neighboring territories such as Nicaragua.

FIFTH, that it is in sympathy with the government of Japan, not through any harmony of ideas in government, but apparently because the Mexican government considers the Japanese government a possible ally in certain operations against the interests of the United States;

SIXTH, that it has prepared and probably concluded a secret treaty with Japan which threatens the interests of the United States, and which invites the colonization of Japanese immigrants in Mexico and in Nicaragua and which contemplates the possible use of these immigrants in war-like operations;

SEVENTH, that the Mexican government has plotted the establishment of a revolutionary government in Nicaragua with the idea of having this revolutionary government friendly to Mexico and friendly to Japan with the apparent intention of canceling the rights of the United States in the Nicaraguan canal and turning the control of that canal, when built, over to Mexico and Japan;

Finally, the Mexican government has not contented itself with plotting against the interests of the United States beyond the boundaries of the United States, but it has actually endeavored financially to influence various publications, various news associations, various important men in private life in the United States, and various important and influential men in public life in order to further its plans and purposes, which plans and purposes, as has already been shown, are contrary to the objects and interests of the government of the United States, and to the welfare of the people of the United States.

UNDER these circumstances it would seem, as the Daily News forcefully says, that there is little occasion for any demonstration of grateful appreciation and sympathetic sentiment by this nation or the patriotic people of this nation toward Mexico.

But Col. Lindbergh's flight to Mexico must not be taken as officially representing either the government or the people of this country.

There are private interests that are seeking to obtain air route concessions and certain concessions of that character from Mexico and the United States, and these purely private concerns find that their advantage would be served by the dispatch of this young American hero as unofficial aeronautical ambassador to Mexico.

We must understand that private interests are not government interests and that they are not, and need not be, as scrupulous as government interest in international matters.

Furthermore, the recent disclosures of the hostile attitude of the Mexican government toward this nation will probably have due disciplinary effect on the Mexican government and put it in a highly conciliatory mood toward this country.

THE oil cases which have been held up for a very long time in the Mexican courts were decided promptly in favor of the American contenders as soon as these disclosures appeared.

So possibly the private concerns that are anxious to get air route concessions and other concessions of that character are right in assuming that this is the time to make their demonstrations and their applications.

As far as the United States government is concerned, it should not do anything less than make vigorous demands on Mexico for a thoroughly adequate explanation of that country's activities and operations against this country's welfare and against the proper and peaceful procedure of this country's social, economic and political affairs.

"Lindy's" Mexico City Flight and Its Lessons

The warmth of the universal affection for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was strikingly illustrated by the profound anxiety of the nation during the brief period of uncertainty as to the success of his Washington-Mexico City flight.

The instant rebound of the popular spirits, the smiles that suffused the features of the American people upon announcement of "Lindy's" arrival at his destination, proclaimed more convincingly than words could the boundless joy the good news produced.

With all doubts swept away, it was easy to say we "knew" he would do it. Yet the unexpected prolongation of his journey and the common reaction to it illustrated the people's awareness of the perils of aviation in its present state of development. These are not merely the imperfections of the flying machine, but the inadequacy of mappings and markings of courses and the obstacles to unerring navigation presented by the natural elements.

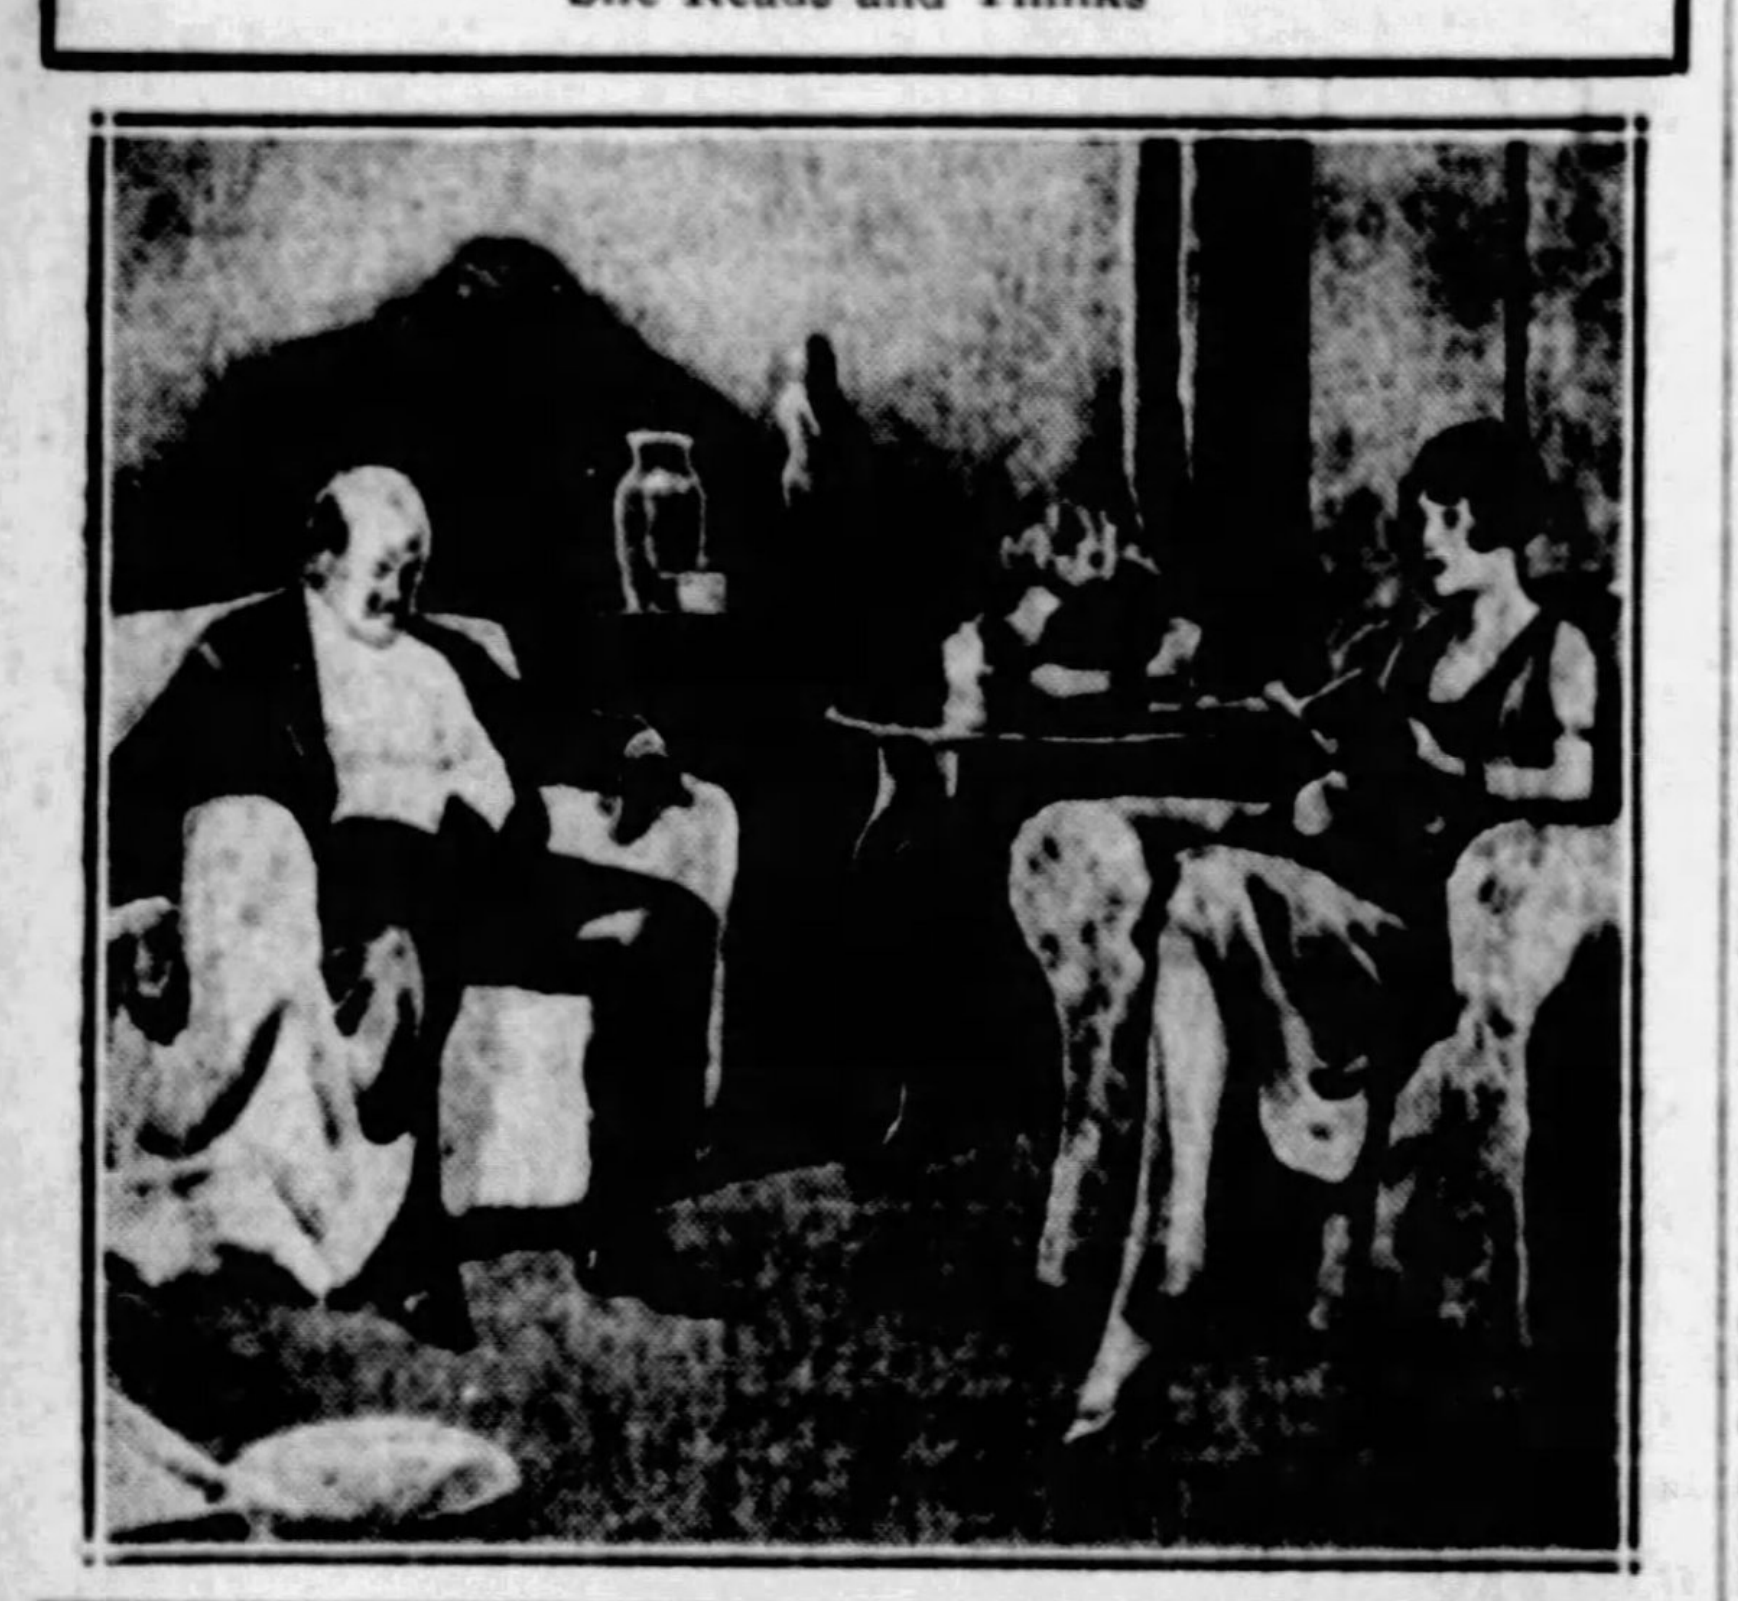
To all of them Col. Lindbergh himself bears witness. Yet in the success of his latest achievement, commanding the renewed admiration of the peoples, the premier aviator has given evidence afresh that in the final accounting it is the man at the stick on whom chief reliance must be placed. And that "Lindy" himself is far and away the world's "best bet in the air."

In a sense the flight which has now brought the republics of the Western Hemisphere into closer contact, physically and spiritually, is as epochal as his trans-Atlantic journey last spring. The full benefits are still to be demonstrated. But of the increase—if such were possible—of America's admiration for the "Lone Eagle" there can be no questioning.

Col. Lindbergh is the popular hero of this age. May he be spared long to his country to impress the lessons of preparedness, courage and the certain success of intelligent endeavor that his accomplishments afford.

He Sleeps

She Reads and Thinks



THE LOVE STORY

This picture, printed by that interesting paper, the London Bystander, supplies married people with material for serious thinking.

The young wife reads the love story aloud, and the husband, tired, bored, and getting old, sleeps. That is the danger spot in marriage.

Marriage life will stand every strain except INDIFFERENCE.

Trouble begins when that which interests one deeply interests the other NOT AT ALL.

This man might be older than he is, fatter than he is, homelier than he is, and have less hair. If he were sincerely and constantly interested in things interesting to his wife their marriage could be successful.

But when she reads aloud, especially about LOVE, which is to married life what electricity is to the telegraph and telephone, then comes trouble.

Man cannot always keep his youth, strength, looks. The same applies to woman.

But each in marriage can keep and show interest in the other; every man can retain the courtesy and thoughtfulness to which every wife is entitled.

Marriage is an institution that will stand many shocks and trials. But it will not stand INDIFFERENCE.

A Lawyer's Six Rules

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I HAD a talk with a lawyer the other day and he said he had run across six sayings that impressed him as important. They are:

Think big;
Talk little;
Love much;
Laugh easily;
Pay cash, and
Be kind.

He has found these things important in his business.

In the first place, a man must think big. It is just as easy to think five hundred dollars as to think fifty cents. If you think big actions your actions are liable to be big.

Don't think too highly of yourself, but think highly of your job.

Talk little. A man who says nothing is always given credit for what he doesn't know. The Bible says somewhere that "Even a fool is counted wise when he holdeth his peace."

Love much. Nothing that amounts to anything in this world is done without love. You have to love a man or a dog or a job before you are able to criticize intelligently.

Laugh easily. A sense of humor gets over many a hard place and solves many a difficult problem. Things can be laughed away that can't be got rid of in any other way.

Work hard.

The man who loves his work is fortunate, and the man who is never happy unless he is at work is liable to go forward.

Pay cash. Don't buy anything until you have the money to pay for it.

Buying things on time may be sometimes necessary, but, as a rule, we should wait until we get the money before we buy anything.

And to be kind is one of the best rules we can have.

We never regret anything we have done in the spirit of kindness.

Garrett P Serviss Says:

The Scarab

"Will you tell me how the scarab beetle was used by the early Egyptians?"—A. E. R.

IT IS a story of superstition, which means the striving of the human spirit after things that it does not, and perhaps cannot, know. In the eagerness of this striving the mind is not critical of means and methods.

Superstition seizes on the smallest resemblance or the most fortuitous coincidence, believing it to be an opening into the realm of the mysterious, leading behind the curtain of the future. Superstition attaches itself to religion and also to science. Indirectly, superstition has sometimes opened the way for science.

The scarab beetle, species of which are found all over the world, familiar examples being the big, awkward, blundering, humming "June-bug" and the "tumble-bug," was worshiped by the Egyptians as an "emblem of fertility and the resurrection." How this connection arose may be seen by considering the curious ways of our "tumble-bug," or "dung beetle," which is a close relative of the Egyptian scarabaeus sacer. The beetle lays its egg in a ball of dung, which it makes very carefully, and of surprising roundness, rolling the ball about by pushing with its hind legs, thus trundling it to considerable distances, and finally burying it. The interior of the ball is stuffed with food, upon which the young beetle feeds before its emergence at the end of its period of prenatal burial.

The conduct of the scarab with its ball is interesting. Old naturalists were puzzled to understand how the insect could make the ball so nearly spherical. A recent writer says that the beetle may be seen "on sandy slopes in hot sunshine, compacting the pellet by pushing it backward uphill with its hind legs and allowing it to roll down again."

As this is done while the ball is still fresh and undried, it is manifestly a very practical method of "rounding," like that used by the housewives of old but not forgotten times when they rolled the dough to make "fried cakes" in the form of baseballs. It is also akin to the science of the schoolboy with snowballs.

The Egyptian related the cradle-ball of the scarab beetle to the globe of the sun, which had at least this gleam of dawning science about it, that it assumed that the sun was of a spherical shape. According to some writers the ball was also likened by the Egyptians to the earth—a still more striking guess at scientific fact. They likewise made it symbolical of a courageous warrior, for the curious reason that they thought the young scarabs were "born of a male." This may have arisen from the fact that the male beetles at least assist in rolling the balls. Professor Comstock has said that "this is one of the instances, rare among insects, where the male realizes that he has some responsibility as a father."

The "complex" of superstition was very strong with the ancient Egyptians, and their scarab, used as an amulet, set in a ring, or a seal, or other personal ornament, was a good offset to the horoscope of the Chaldeans. Many of the Egyptian carved or engraved scarabs were very beautiful, and they were widely scattered by commerce over the Mediterranean world, the Phoenicians being the great distributors. But later they were made in variant forms by the Etruscans, the Greeks and other nations. It is well worth your while to study them in any large museum. They can be bought today not only in the east, but in any great capital, but it is well to remember that the scarab has for long presented an irresistible temptation to forgers of antiquities. But if you are looking merely for an amulet, a forged scarab would be just as effective as a genuine product of the days when Heliopolis was in all its glory.

Starting to Fly

THERE are about 4,000 privately-owned airplanes in the United States today, according to United States Department of Commerce figures. The automobiles number more than 22,000,000.

Compare this situation with the late nineties. Then only a handful of people rolled in motor vehicles (when and if the things would go) while multitudes rode behind horses or on bicycles.

Thirty years ago the horse and the bike were on the way out and the automobile was on the way in. Who can doubt that something very similar is happening today?

Airplane factories are swamped with orders. We have 8,390 miles of airways and shall have about 12,000 miles, mostly lighted, in operation by spring. There are a thousand airports, and many more coming soon.

The morning of the air-flivver in the back yard hasn't dawned yet, but anybody who reads the signs of activity in the sky and on the ground must realize it is approaching, fast.

Jealousy

IS jealousy robbing you of much of the pleasure you might get out of life?

When you hear that a friend or acquaintance has met with good fortune, how does it affect you?

Do you compare what he has gained with what you have failed to procure?

And thereby create unhappiness for yourself?

Usually one has so many friends who are successful or fortunate in one way or another that a jealous disposition can make one uncomfortable most of the time.

Jealous persons are in a chronic state of irritation.

The least thing tips the scales enough to make them miserable.

How much more you would get out of life if you could be glad that this one or th [illegible] has been favorably noticed!

But no, you must always make an unhappy comparison.

You cannot get full enjoyment out of what you have because you keep making the unfavorable comparisons at each new story of another's climb and so you spoil your looks as well as your disposition and lose those who would like to be your friends.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Dreamers

WE ARE the dreamers and we go
Within a sacred ring.
And many times when fierce winds blow
We hear the linnets sing;
And many times when others see
Proud pageantries of earth
We miss them for the meadows' glee,
The robins' April mirth.

We are the dreamers and we hear
Sometimes a lyric voice
That bears strange music to the ear
And makes the heart rejoice.
Oh, not for us the lure of gold
Nor any pride of place,
But we must watch the dawn unfold
Beyond the sea's embrace!

Pyjamas and Drama

THE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, who is the English stage censor, has frowned on pyjamas and has barred them from the stage in a good many plays. This decision may be far-reaching in its effects.

If pyjamas are entirely banished, a new form of evening dress will have to be adopted, which will change the entire trend of the modern society drama.

Something to Think About

By BRUNO LESSING

"Sic Transit Gloria Mundi!"

THE above is a Latin phrase which means, "Thus passes away the glory of the world!" It gives one great respect for the wisdom of the ancients to realize that they understood such things 2,000 years ago. And they expressed their thoughts so well.

On Armistice Day, in London, the king and the leaders of the government marched to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. David Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald were in the procession. But they had to toddle along behind the lowest officials. Third-rate politicians proceeded them.

The matter aroused discussion. Both these men had been Premiers of England. Some thought they should have toddled along with the present Premier. But saner ones declared that they were only private citizens.

Their glory had departed!

In this particular case it is just as well that they brought up the rear. It emphasizes the spirit of democracy—and England is a great democracy.

A democracy has no use for ex-es. When a citizen is elevated to the high office of mayor, governor or president, he is entitled to the great honors which those offices command. In honoring him, the people honor themselves and their democracy.

But when he becomes an ex-mayor, an ex-governor or an ex-president he should resume his place in the ranks and expect no more than his neighbor. That is the spirit of true democracy. Of course there are always those who like to slobber over an ex.

This incident illumines the truth of the Latin proverb. And this truth is not confined to the politically great. It applies equally well to all the greatness of human beings, in all lines of human endeavor, in this vale of tears.

Where is the greatness of the Caesars today? There was a time when millions trembled at the mention of their names. Who cares about them today? Well, perhaps a schoolboy who has to study Latin when he would rather be playing football.

And the Ptolemies, who were before the Caesars, and the kings and ministers who came after them—who ever gives thme a thought today? Their glory has departed.

But the glory of those who gave a truth to the world cannot depart as long as the truth survives.

If we could bring Homer and Virgil, Dante and Shakespeare, Michel Angelo and Beethoven back to earth each hundred years, the whole world would see to it that they led the procession.

If Napoleon were to come back every century, he would find himself further and further in the rear of the parade. And, after a while, someone would probably heave a brick at him.

December Holidays

WHEN we think of holidays we think of Christmas and the month of December. But to know how many holidays there really are in December, in different parts of the world, it is necessary to glance at the monthly holiday guide issued by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

It appears that there are only nine days in the whole month of December that are not holidays somewhere or other.

For example, December 6 is Independence Day in Finland and St. Nicholas Day in Rumania.

December 7 is Decoration Day in Cuba.

December 8 is Immaculate Conception Day in Venezuela and Beach Day in Uruguay.

On December 9 the States of Matto Grosso and Para in Brazil commemorate notable events in their state and municipal history.

On December 12 Greece has the holiday of St. Spyridion and Mexico the holiday of Our Lady of Guadalupe.

December 15 in Persia is celebrated as the birthday of Fatemeh, while on December 16 Dingaan's Day is celebrated in Bechuanaland, Orange Free State, South West Africa, Switzerland and the Union of South Africa.

Christmas Day is the most universal holiday. It is celebrated in all civilized lands excepting Bulgaria and Hejaz and China.

The Golfer

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Lindy's is typical, I suppose, of innumerable little cafes that add zest and sociability to the life of Broadway. It is known as a theatrical eating place. All such restaurants have a kaleidoscopic coloring that only the White Way can bestow.

They have taken the place of the old-time bar as a rendezvous. Here will be found the loud vaudevillian, the booking agent, the chorus girl, the star, the leading man, a few petty grafters and perhaps an erring lady or so. All the artificialities are strikingly etched.

It is Broadway at its windiest. Out of the conversational medley boom such phrases as "we panicked 'em in Scranton," "I told him top billing or tear up the contract," "Belasco sent his scout around," "We took seven bows" and "I made 'em cry out loud."

To Broadway many of them are known as "incurable hams," yet I know of no human gathering offering such sparkling chit-chat. Some of it is Rabelaisian, of course, but as a whole it offers a hopeful philosophy of life that has not been gained by many noble savants.

There is that fellowship, perhaps false but pleasant, encompassed in such salutations as "Hello, big boy!" "Howdy pal" and "There's the boy friend." There is back-slapping and bluster, sidewalk smart cracks and an incessant kidding of amiable waiters.

The fare is composed of "he-food." Steaks touched up with garlic, beef flanken, chicken stews with matzah balls, huge red and green peppers, generous slices of open-faced pie and big cups of coffee with a wallop. And there are no special concessions to table etiquette.

The proprietors are beaming gentlemen who stand in doorways greeting patrons. Their trade is strictly cash, but they are the sort who help many "at liberty" over lean days and say nothing. These places offer more for the money than many designated as smart.

A whinnying grandame with a lorgnette swept down a theater aisle in the middle of a tense first act and waited for people to rise so she could take her seat. After a wait, she clapped her hands for an usher.

"I have paid for this seat," she exclaimed in a grand manner, "and I propose to have it."

"Give the old buzzard her roost," drawled a voice in the gallery.

The orange drink stands which droop in the winter are now turning an honest penny with the modus operandi of the wayside hutches along the road in summer time. They are selling the succulent and steaming hot dogs and the innovation is proving so popular many are achieving their warm weather opulence. During the past week I have seen such flaneurs as George White, Robert Garland, William Lengel, Rube Goldberg and Ed Wynne standing up at the counter to enjoy the toothsome delicacy. If there is anything that touches the spot of a hungry man like a well-built hot dog I would walk more than a mile for it.

An intrepid restaurateur is shortly to launch a la-de-dah idea that has frequently met a frosty reception. He is to open a cafe seating something like 200 people, and full evening dress will be obligatory. Not even the popular dinner jacket will be admitted beyond the silk rope. He believes the truly fastidious wear only full dress, and there are enough of them to keep a fancy place like this doing. It is possible he is right. I know they are not going to catch me again. I was one of the leading hooters when the first $30,000 a year apartment with private hallway was opened. Now they are as common as commuters in the Grand Central station.

Tales That Are Told

Solving the Problem

THERE was not a seat to be seen in the waiting-room, and after a last look around the elderly traveler strolled dejectedly out on to the platform.

"Humph," he muttered. "Got a good book and no place to read it."

Suddenly a happy thought struck him. He rushed back into the waiting room where he had left his bag, grabbed it from the ground, and rushed precipitately back to the platform.

The effect was electrical. There came a mighty scramble, and the expectant passengers all hurried outside.

As soon as the last person left the waiting room the elderly traveler selected the seat nearest the fire and buried himself in his novel.

Good Advice

"LOOK HERE!" cried the indignant housewife. "You said that if I gave you a square meal you'd mow the grass and roll the lawn for me."

"I did, lady," admitted the out-of-work, his eyes downcast.

"Then," said the woman, "I've shown you where to find the mower and the roller. Now, why don't you get on with it?"

The man looked up. There was genuine regret in his voice as he answered:

"Lady, I'd like to, but I am doing this for your own good. I've got to teach you a lesson. Never take anybody's word!"

So Thoughtless

THE master of the house was suffering from a nervous headache and was trying to sleep it off in the library. Maggie, the new maid, descending the stairs with a vacuum cleaner and some crockery in her arms, tripped half-way down and fell the rest of the distance, making a tremendous clatter.

The library door flew open.

"I suppose you've broken everything, including your head?" roared the head of the house in high dudgeon.

"No, I haven't, sir," answered the girl meekly. "Nothing broken at all."

"Then," bellowed the master, "what did you make all that infernal noise for?"—London Answers.

Wrong Number

AN ENTHUSIASTIC playgoer, who wanted to see a certain musical comedy which had made a name for itself in its first performance, rang up the box-office and asked for a box for two people.

"But we don't keep them for two, sir," came the somewhat startled reply.

"I know that," returned the playgoer. "I know they usually hold four, but I want a complete box."

There was no answer from the other end, merely a gasping sort of sigh.

"Is that the Revelry Theater?" asked the angry man. "Why the—"

"No, sir," came the reply. "This is an undertaker's."—London Answers.
